Say Nixon Homes Cost Taxpayers Up To $17 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee report passed over strong Republican objections says President Nixon's homes have cost taxpayers $17 million — some of it for loosely authorized items "far in excess of security needs."

The White House called the report a deliberate deception. Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Tex., disclosed brief highlights of the report Thursday before his House government activities subcommittee approved it on a straight 6-4 party line vote.

Brooks told newsmen he does not consider the report a shocker, but rather a delineation of facts that came out during his subcommittee's public hearings in October.

The report makes no accusations against Nixon, according to the subcommittee's senior Republican, Rep. John Buchanan of Alabama.

But Republicans strongly objected before the vote to subcommittee action on the report, challenging its findings and contending they didn't know it existed until Monday.

Brooks said in a prepared statement the report's findings concern:

—"The loose arrangements by which the General Services Administration paid for items not requested by the Secret Service.

—"The manner in which the Secret Service submitted after-the-fact requests.

—"The procurement of items far in excess of security needs.

General Assembly Clearing Decks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 110th General Assembly will work Monday through Thursday the next two weeks to clear the decks of major legislation and recess for a month beginning April 4.

Both houses are to convene Monday at 8 p.m. for floor sessions. They usually begin the week's activities at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesdays.

Before recessing for the week, the House passed 62-26 a bill to strengthen child abuse laws and in a resolution called upon Congress to repeal winter Daylight Saving Time.

The House Rules Committee, for the second time in a row, was unable to muster the necessary votes to get a floor vote on a bill banning the so-called "Saturday night special" handgun.

Rep. C. J. McLin, D-36 Dayton, who asked for a vote on the measure, said he later got assurances the necessary seven votes would be available Tuesday. It received only five Thursday, —"And other such practices as were adequately demonstrated during the hearings."

Brooks gave no details except to say the $17 million figure was reached by adding $7 million in salaries and costs for all federal employees at, or associated with the homes to the $10 million cost previously estimated by the administration.

Ken W. Clawson, White House communications director, issued this statement:

"Congressman Brooks is trying to deceive the American people by deliberately creating a report based on runaway partisanship and not facts.

"The Brooks report, constructed to unjustly malign the President, flies in the face of a December 1973 General Accounting Office study which revealed that less than 10 per cent of the amount mentioned by Brooks was ... expended on the President's homes and properties. The GAO, professional watchdogs for Congress, also concluded that at least 97 per cent of the government's spending on the properties was appropriate.

"Either deliberately or unwittingly, Brooks has become a member of an unprincipled gang of Democratic congressmen bent on destroying the President without regard to the national interest."

Buchanan objected before the report was approved that it includes some findings and conclusions "with which I totally disagree and for which I know of no foundation of fact from the hearings."

but two legislators left the session before the vote was taken.

Both of them, Reps. Barney Quitler, D-47 Toledo, and William L. Mallory, D-23 Cleveland, had indicated they would vote for the ban on cheap handguns selling for $25 or less.

House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, has said he will vote to get the bill out of committee if backers need the seventh vote.

Rep. Thomas M. Bell, D-10 Cleveland, sponsor of the child abuse bill, said current law doesn't define abuses such as "sexual activity" and "endangerment of a child." It would allow suspected abuse cases to be reported to local welfare and children's service agencies.

A floor amendment by Rep. Richard H. Finan, R-19 Cincinnati restricted cases of suspected emotional abuse to children seven years old and younger.

Rep. Claude M. Floccon, D-40 Akron, introduced the resolution asking Congress to repeal winter DST, saying it didn't save energy as intended and worked hardships on families getting their children to school in morning darkness.

The House approved, 85-1, a bill creating an Ohio Public Employees Deferred Compensation Board to receive and invest any designated portion of a public worker's compensation.

In the Senate, a bill allowing natural gas pipeline companies to issue securities without approval of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio was approved 30-0. The firms must still get the okay of the Federal Power Commission.

The Senate passed 29-0 and sent to Gov. John J. Gilligan for signing a bill that would modify the Midwest Nuclear Compact to allow a non-voting federal representative on the board. It paves the way for congressional recognition of the compact.

Court Backs Sirica

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court has moved the House Judiciary Committee a step closer to access to a secret grand jury report on President Nixon's role in Watergate. In an opinion Thursday the court rejected requests that it reverse U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica's order sending the grand jury report to the committee.

The appeals court delayed delivery of the report until 5 p.m. Monday to give attorneys time to take the case to the Supreme Court.

President Nixon did not oppose sending the report to the House, a fact cited by both Sirica and the appeals court.

But attorneys for H. R. Haldeman, former White House staff chief, and Gordon C. Strachan, a former Haldeman aide, opposed sending the report to the House on the grounds its contents probably would be made public and result in publicity that could make it impossible for them to obtain a fair trial.

Haldeman and Strachan were among seven former administration or campaign aides indicted March 1 for allegedly trying to block the Watergate investigation. The grand jury gave Sirica its sealed report and a satchel filled with evidence at the same time it returned the indictment.

Lawyers for Haldeman and Strachan said they were undecided on whether to ask the Supreme Court to overrule the appeals court.

Judge George E. MacKinnon dissented in part from the decision, saying he believed the grand jury exceeded its authority in turning over the sealed report and satchel of evidence, and recommending that the House committee be given access to the entire grand jury proceedings, but only after the trial is completed.

During the oral argument, Philip Lacovara, counsel for the special prosecutor, said the material given Sirica by the grand jury focuses on the President's role, and that "incidental references" to Haldeman and Strachan "do not go beyond the allegations in the indictment."

In other Watergate-related developments:

—American Bar Association President Chesterfield Smith said Nixon's refusal to hand over all Watergate evidence to the Judiciary Committee amounts to obstruction of justice.

—Nixon's popularity dropped to all-time lows in two polls, with 25 per cent approving of the way he's doing his job, according to the Gallup Poll, and 26 per cent according to a Louis Harris survey.

—Two members of the Judiciary Committee said equal television time should be given for a response to Nixon's comments about the committee.

—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Nixon should voluntarily file amended tax returns and pay any additional income tax for past years. Mills is vice chairman of the joint congressional committee that is looking into Nixon's tax affairs.

Famine Strikes Deep In Ethiopia

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer
HARRAR, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopia's Harrarge Province, a mountainous, semidesert region as big as Italy, has six weeks to live, its officials say.

Without huge grain handouts and without rain, the remaining cattle herds will die. Tens of thousands of peasant farmers and nomad herders will starve. The eastern fifth of Ethiopia will turn into a dust bowl.

Drought is affecting seven of the country's 14 provinces, where nearly two-thirds of the 26 million Ethiopians live. Some qualified observers say 200,000 or more have starved to death, double the estimated toll less than a

Gas Shortage Not Ended For Ohioans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio gasoline dealers complained Thursday that President Nixon misled the public into believing the fuel crisis was easing when he announced he no longer was asking service stations to close on Sundays.

"He gave the impression there's loads of gas available, and that's just not true," said James V. Cresente, executive director of Northern Ohio Petroleum Retailers Association.

"I don't see any local gas stations opening Sundays until mid-July," predicted Jerry Imes, Central Ohio Gas Dealers president.

"And when the consumer sees the price of gas by then, it won't make any difference," he said.

Gov. John J. Gilligan said Nixon was seeking "cheap applause" with his announcement.

An energy researcher at Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus said stopping the campaign against Sunday gas sales "gives the impression we are out of the woods on the fuel problem when we are not anywhere near there."

Another Battelle expert predicted motorists would go back to speeds of 70 m.p.h. "driving us right back into the soup again."

"I had a dealer call me yesterday asking how he could get in touch with the President to get more gasoline," said Mike Kunnen, president of the Greater Cincinnati Gasoline Dealers Association.

$2 Million Added To Corbett Donation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Corbett Foundation, which has already donated $4 million to renovate Cincinnati Music Hall, has given another $2 million for backstage improvements at the century-old structure.

The foundation last year gave another $2 million for construction of a parking garage and shopping mall connected with the hall.

year ago and more than in the six-nation West African drought.

The rain is up to Allah, Harrarge's devout Moslems say. The grain is up to National Relief Commissioner Shimelis Adugna, a 38-year-old social worker named by Ethiopia's new government this month to boss a slack and stumbling drought relief bureaucracy.

"The government has given me a free hand, and I intend to act swiftly," Shimelis said in an interview in Addis Ababa. "Even if there is no rain, I think we will be able to avert further major loss of life."

Aid personnel say the 264,000 tons of relief grain needed for 1974 is assured, including 50,000 tons from the United States. But foreign relief experts and many Ethiopians think the odds are stacked against Shimelis — and against the estimated 3 million Ethiopians that are going hungry.

It has been raining in Wollo and in the south, promising some crops by midyear. But nobody knows how many may be starving or sick in vast, unmapped sections where a four-wheel-drive vehicle can make only six miles an hour over the rocks, and where even missionaries rarely penetrate.

A Western relief expert who has traveled widely in Ethiopia says another wave of starvation that would dwarf the 1973 crisis could develop within two months.

"To say things have improved is to compare Ethiopia to a man standing on a railroad track with a freight train coming around the bend," he commented. "He's all right until it hits him."

Shimelis needs to do something in a hurry about Harrarge province. From 70 to 90 per cent of the cattle have died, and most of the 2 million farmers and 1.2 million nomads are down to their last handfuls of grain. Haile Mariam, an assistant to the provincial governor, says food grain reserves total about 2,200 tons — a day's ration for less than 4.5 million people.

Some 12,000 more tons arrived in Djibouti, the nearby French port on the Gulf of Aden, early in February. The grain is still waiting to be loaded on the five-car trains that can shuttle only 125 tons a day to Harrarge.

In the far desert reaches of the province near the border with Somalia, lions and hyenas are beginning to eat famine-weakened nomads. Tens of thousands of them have fled across the border to seek grazing land. Even the camels are dying.

Kronholm Ransom Recovered

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Authorities have arrested a second man in connection with the kidnapping of a banker's wife and have recovered all but $100 of the $200,000 ransom paid.

The FBI identified the second man as Frederick Henry Helberg, 43, a South St. Paul welder and carpenter. They arrested him Thursday in Minneapolis.

Authorities said Helberg would be arraigned today before U.S. Magistrate J. Earl Cudd on charges of violating the Hobbs Act, which involves extortion.

Helberg was arrested for the abduction of Eunice Kronholm, 46, Lino Lakes. Her husband, Gunnar, had paid $200,000 ransom. He is president of the Drovers State Bank of South St. Paul.

James William Johnson, 35, Lakeville, was arrested Monday and was charged with violation of the Hobbs Act. He was being held on $100,000 bail.

Mrs. Kronholm was taken from her home last Friday morning. On Monday evening she talked one of her captors into releasing her after hearing on the radio that Johnson had been arrested.

Pentagon Ends Discharge Code

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department is about to abolish a controversial code that allowed employers to identify alleged homosexuals, alcoholics or drug users even though they received honorable discharges from service.

Pentagon sources say Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger has the papers on his desk abolishing separation program designators, as the code numbers are called. Officials said they have no doubt he will sign them, perhaps today.

There has been considerable pressure from Capitol Hill and elsewhere to abolish the system, under which a commanding officer can indicate that a departing serviceman wet his bed, had financial problems, misused drugs or alcohol or had other difficulties making him unsuitable for military service.

Pentagon officials had defended the system as necessary for the 88 per cent of servicemen discharged routinely. They were said to need the codes to prove in effect that they received a good recommendation from their former military service.

It is the other 12 per cent who concerned congressional critics like Rep. Edward Koch, D-N.Y. He said this week that employers frequently misused the code by obtaining corresponding numbers for each reason for unsuitable discharge.

Koch and a number of congressional investigators have found misuse of the code, although it is Pentagon policy to keep it out of private hands.

In recent months, parts of the code and reasons for unsuitable discharges have been published in various newspapers.

Although a serviceman might have received an honorable discharge, the code on his papers indicates the reason for the discharge, including different kinds of aberrational behavior.

Kissinger Seeks Moscow Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he will seek a breakthrough in Moscow that could produce a concrete treaty to limit nuclear weapons by the end of 1974.

Kissinger told a news conference Thursday that prospects are reasonably good. But he also cautioned that relations between the two powers are passing through a difficult period.

The secretary, who leaves this weekend, said rapid improvement of nuclear weapons has slowed progress on a treaty. Congress' unwillingness to grant trade benefits to the Soviet Union and friction in the Middle East also contribute to the difficulty, he said.

And yet, Kissinger absolved Moscow of blame for Syrian clashes with Israel in the Golan Heights and said: "Both of us have an obligation to contribute to peace and both of us are exchanging ideas on the subject."

The United States and Soviet Union signed their first nuclear weapons agreement in 1972, restricting defensive systems and putting temporary limits on some offensive weapons.

The current second round of SALT talks involves an exchange of technical information, but also a stalemate in the negotiating process, Kissinger said.

"Then a point is reached ... where the two sides have to agree on what it is they are trying to accomplish. And after that there has to be the hard negotiation on giving concrete content to this conceptual breakthrough," he said.

Tabs Kept On Alcohol; Lesson For Oil Industry

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If oil were liquor, the government would know where to find virtually every drop of it. The national debate over whether the energy crisis is real or contrived would disappear as fast as a flask of whisky at a college football game.

The Treasury Department's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division keeps such close tabs on liquor and beer inventories of distilleries and breweries that it can tell almost instantly how much is stocked.

Energy officials agree that if they had such legal controls over oil inventories there would be no trouble convincing the public the fuel shortage is real.

The division's monitoring of liquor inventories is so extensive that federal employees are stationed in many distilleries and bonded warehouses, keeping the premises under lock and key so that no liquor is illegally removed.

All this is done for tax purposes, to collect the federal levy on beer and alcoholic beverages. The controls on inventories are more than 100 years old, but have been altered over the years.

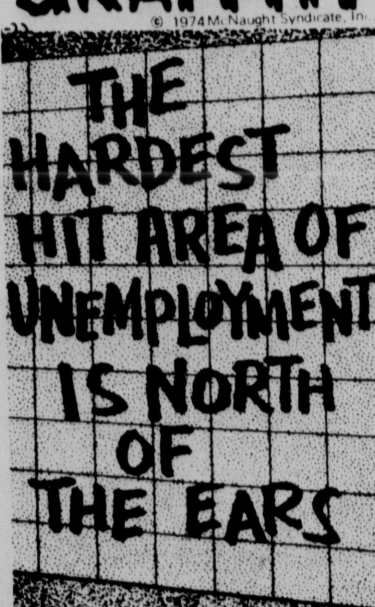

In addition to domestically produced liquor and beer, the Customs Bureau keeps accurate records on alcoholic beverages shipped from other countries.

The Treasury's liquor and beer watchers number about 800 nationally. They conduct spot inspections, check records required by law, and handle "work-back" audits to make sure distilleries and breweries aren't misleading the government.

Treasury officials in charge of the program didn't know whether the same kind of inventory controls could be put on the oil industry.

But one thing is for sure. If the nation ever had a liquor shortage, there'd be no question about whether it was real.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market sagged today under the steady pressure of rising interest rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 2.35 at 873.12, and losers led gainers by close to a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was slow.

Brokers said the recent upward turn in short-term interest rates was a principal factor in both the declining prices and the sluggish activity in stocks.

"Rising interest rates, particularly at these high levels, are a competitive factor to common stocks," noted Robert Colin at Faulkner, Dawkins & Sullivan.

Federal National Mortgage, down 3/4 at 16 1/2, was the Big Board's most-active stock.

On The American Stock Exchange, the market-value index lost .68 to 98.96.

The Amex volume leader was International Banknote, unchanged at 1/2.

The NYSE's noon index of all its listed common stocks stood at 51.87, down .23.

Major Pipeline Pushed By Firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of U.S. and Canadian companies is seeking government permission to build a 2,000-mile, $5.7-billion pipeline to carry natural gas from Arctic Alaska and Canada to other points in North America.

Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co., representing U.S. interests in the 27-firm consortium, filed applications Thursday with the Federal Power Commission and the Interior Department. The Canadian organization, known as Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline Ltd., petitioned authorities in Canada at the same time.

In other energy developments Thursday, the Federal Energy Office announced that March gasoline allocations were being increased for five more states — North Carolina, Louisiana, Indiana, New Jersey and Kansas. Nine other states had been granted higher supplies Wednesday. And, in New York City, Texaco Inc. announced it was lowering the wholesale price of its gasoline by one cent per gallon nationwide, effective today. Service-station operators will have the option of passing along the decrease to their customers, the company said.

The U.S.-Canadian consortium was the first bidder in what is expected to be a contest for government permits to build the pipeline.

The Texas-based El Paso Natural Gas Co. is expected to file a rival proposal within the next few months to construct a pipeline paralleling the projected trans-Alaska oil pipeline to Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska. There the gas would be liquefied for shipment to West Coast ports by tanker.

Under the proposal filed Thursday, natural gas would be gathered at Prudhoe Bay on Alaska's North Slope and at the MacKenzie River Delta in northern Canada.

The gas would be transported to southern Alberta, where branch lines would distribute it to the U.S. West Coast and the Midwestern and Eastern United States and Canada.

Senator's Wife To Appear In Circleville

Mrs. Shirley Metzbaum, wife of Ohio U. S. Senator Howard M. Metzbaum, will appear in Circleville, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, at Man-Sell's Restaurant, according to Robert K. Hinton, Chairman of the Pickaway County Citizens for Senator Metzbaum.

A Dessert-Coffee hour will be held in honor of Mrs. Metzbaum, with a question-answer period to follow.

Senator Metzbaum is a Democratic candidate for the office of U. S. Senate. He was appointed to that position in December 1973 by Governor John J. Gilligan filling the seat vacated by William Saxbe.

An attorney and businessman, Metzbaum served two terms in the Ohio House of Representatives and two terms in the Ohio Senate.

He was the 1970 Democratic candidate for U. S. Senate defeating John Glenn in the primary and losing to Robert Taft Jr. in the general election.

Damage Caused By House Fire

A house fire at 149 Jones Road caused $1,000 estimated damages to the Nora Robinson residence. The Circleville Fire Department dispatched to the fire at 11:30 p.m. Thursday. Firemen spent 40 minutes and used 300 feet of water hose before the fire was under control.

Damages to the house owned by Danny Rose included the heating stove, flue and attic area. The fire was thought to originated because of a faulty flue since the flame was confined to the stove area. Estimated loss to the contents of the residence was $200.

Peter Revson Dies In Crash

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — American motor racing driver Peter Revson died today on his way to a hospital after his car crashed at the Kyalami Circuit.

The 35-year-old driver from New York and Redondo Beach, Calif., was testing his Formula One UOP Shadow for the South African Grand Prix March 30 when he crashed.

A track official said Revson was badly burned in the accident, which occurred when he passed the Crowthorne Corner at the bottom of the main straightaway and burst into flames.

Revson was en route to Johannesburg General Hospital, 15 miles outside the city, when he died, the South African Press Association said.

Sweden To Get U.S. Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is nominating Robert Strausz-Hupe as ambassador to Sweden as the United States resumes full diplomatic relations with the Scandinavian nation.

The United States had withdrawn its ambassador and chief of mission in Stockholm in 1972 to underscore U.S. displeasure with Swedish government criticism of this nation's Vietnam policies.

The 70-year-old Strausz-Hupe has been ambassador to Belgium, his native land, since 1972, and previously was envoy to Ceylon. Sweden had named an ambassador to Washington, but the U.S. government would not accept him. A substitute choice is to be announced in Stockholm.

Man Escapes Injury In Truck Mishap

Semi truck driver Ralph L. Shannon, 52, Canton, just escaped serious injury in an accident on U. S. Route 23 at 7:45 a.m. this morning. Shannon was driving a semi tractor trailer rig loaded with steel pipe. According to the investigation report made by State Highway Patrol Sgt. R. L. Thompson, Shannon was driving southbound on Route 23.

Following a line of traffic, Shannon pulled into the passing lane and observed a stopped school bus ahead. As he applied his brakes, six sections of the steel pipe came off the trailer. One of the dislocated sections bounced in front of the cab and backed up through the driver's windshield coming through the steering wheel.

Shannon was not hit by the pipe but received small lacerations and complained of a shoulder injury. No treatment was prescribed at the scene. Sgt. Thompson reported there were no citations given as a result of the mishap.

Progress Reported Good At Vocational School

A progress report from the architect of the Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School showed the building construction was moving on a good schedule. No major hold-ups have been encountered lately. The architect also reported to the board at its regular meeting Thursday night that the plans for the auxiliary building were being developed. These plans will be ready for board approval by the April meeting.

The board adopted the appropriation measure on a permanent basis. By law, a board of education must adopt an appropriation measure in January on a temporary basis and make the permanent adoption by the end of March.

Superintendent Paul Hydel reported to the board on the water supply problem. A committee from the board members was authorized to meet with the Ross County Water Company to attempt to negotiate a water usage contract. The development of a one well auxiliary system on the site was authorized.

Three new textbooks were adopted for use in the business and office education area of the school.

Bids were awarded for food service equipment. Equipment bids were awarded to the following companies: Lauber Inc., Cincinnati, $3,842.15; Wasserstrom Company, Columbus, $1,670.51; Polster Company, Columbus, $6,787.80. Equipment purchased from these companies will be used in the cafeteria and Tecumseh Room.

Raymond Pack, coordinator of guidance, gave the board a progress report on student placement. The first round of placement has been completed with most of the students being placed in their first choice of study. In the second round of placement which will start in a week, Pack said as many tenth graders as possible would be placed in their second and third choices of study.

Pack reported to the board that all the senior programs have been filled to capacity. All 11th and 12th grade programs were filled on the basis of an individual school quota for the schools served by the vocational center. His staff is now mailing letters of acceptance to parents of students who have been placed.

Certificates of acceptance will be given to home school counselors in a meeting today. These certificates will then be relayed to students who will attend the vocational school in the fall.

Cable Project Completed By GTE

Completion of a major cable addition for growth in the Circleville exchange was announced today by General Telephone Co. of Ohio.

William D. Anderson, Circleville customer service manager, said the $47,300 project was designed to provide for upgrading existing services and allow for future growth in the area.

The new cable, which will serve the area southeast of Circleville, was buried where possible.

"Burying cable enhances the natural beauty of the landscape and reduces service outages from severe weather conditions and automobile accidents," the manager said.

Portions of the new cable will replace existing facilities for maintenance reasons.

The Circleville exchange serves 11,481 telephones in a 187.4 square-mile area of Pickaway and Fairfield counties.

Couple Slain; Had Planned To Testify

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A casino manager scheduled to testify in a federal organized crime case in Los Angeles was gunned down with his wife as they arrived home from work, police here reported.

John Dubeck, 31, the shift manager at the Westward Ho Casino, and his wife, Francis Ann, 27, a casino employee, were felled by shotgun blasts fired from close range as they walked up to their apartment shortly before midnight Tuesday. Police said Dubeck was shot in the back and his wife was hit in the face as she turned toward her husband, who was following her.

Richard Crane, a spokesman for the Justice Department's organized crime task force in Los Angeles, said Dubeck was scheduled to testify in the trial of seven men indicted last November on gambling charges stemming from an investigation into an illegal crap game allegedly operating in the San Fernando Valley area of Los Angeles.

Officers said the slayer apparently waited in the parking lot of the Dubeck's apartment building and opened fire when the couple entered the courtyard.

Police said the slayings apparently were well-planned. "There's not much to go on right now," one investigator said.

Dubeck was scheduled to testify Tuesday in the trial of Peter Milano, Martin C. Calaway, Harry P. Coloduros, Santo Albert Manfre, Tony Endreola, John Vaccaro and Luigi Gelfuso. Vaccaro is from Las Vegas, Gelfuso lives in Fresno and the rest are from Los Angeles, Crane said.

Chillicothe Guard Strike Talks Slated

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Another negotiating session between Chillicothe Correctional Institute officials and striking guards was set for today in an effort to settle a dispute over job assignments.

Meanwhile, about 30 guards and supervisory personnel remained on duty in the medium security prison. The 1,200 inmates were on a holiday schedule with work assignments and programs canceled.

Joe Ashley, a spokesman for the Rehabilitation and Correction Department, said there had been no problem maintaining order in the facility.

Officials met with the guards, members of Local 1890 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Thursday without making progress in resolving the dispute.

Ashley quoted Supt. Frank Gray as saying the two sides were "pretty far apart."

Ashley criticized the guards for striking before going into arbitration as provided under existing procedures.

Ted Clemmons of the union's Council 21 said the union had tried several times to arrange arbitration with the state and, failing again Wednesday, decided to strike.

Acting Chief Named At Kent

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Sgt. Donald Lemons, 51, a veteran of 25 years on the force, has been named acting chief of police here until a new permanent chief is picked.

Mayor Joseph Sorboro said Thursday civil service commissioners are making plans for a test, but he added they also may consider a change in the city charter to permit the mayor to name the chief.

Former Police Chief Joseph Myers resigned Wednesday in the wake of disclosure of funds unaccounted for in the department.

Myers denied any wrongdoing but said he resigned rather than put his family and the department through a court trial.

What's A Den?

Poor ol' dad! The nuclear-age cry "No place to hide" fits him perfectly. Formerly he had a place he called his "den" where he could scatter pipe ashes to his heart's content, never had to sort out his magazines and papers, could wear his old, worn slippers—and most important of all, be alone.

Now experts report, this refuge for mental rehabilitation is passe. The den has become a "family room," an "activities room," a "hobby room." "Togetherness" is the goal.

All experts on youth say boys and girls should have rooms of their own, places where they can get away from the family and work or play in solitude. But no one considers Pa.

An Unlikely Pair

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Politics never made stranger bedfellows than at the Executive Club of Chicago, when Richard Nixon and Richard Daley stood arm in arm, smiling for the cameras. One can now expect a merger of cobras and mongooses, multiple marriages between the McCoys and the Hatfields, and loving reunions between Charles O. Finley and Dick Williams, and John Wayne and Geronimo.

Politicians and people who have been expecting Mr. Nixon to resign or to be dumped were reminded, by the Nixon-Daley meeting and the cordial reception given to the President by the assemblage, that Richard Nixon may be the most durable pol we've ever had in the White House. He has proved since 1946 that no matter how many times he is flattened he can get up off the canvas and dance, jab, punch, laugh and talk himself out of difficulties that would have caused Lincoln to defect to Atlanta and the prophet Job to take the pipe.

The man is indestructible, one must concede.

There has been wholesale condemnation and damnation of him and the men he selected to front for him. In the media, his defenders are hard to find; his accusers outnumber them 100 to 1, and come armed with an incredible number of facts and figures to prove their points. But he waved all this aside, over the remains of the luncheon at Chicago. "False charges," he said. Period.

The only boo that was heard at the Conrad Hilton Hotel that lunchtime was not, incredibly enough, aimed at Nixon. It was directed at the businessman who wondered aloud why he didn't quit and say what he had to say as a plain citizen.

He brushes aside, as if the subjects were beneath attention, such appalling matters as lost and semi-erased tape recordings, the matter of whether he sold his Vice Presidential papers before or after the cutoff point on such transactions, the millions of dollars spent on his various homes in the name of security, the indictments of his trusted associates, and the broad hints by Wilbur Mills and other respected Congressmen that the tax findings will be the biggest bombshell of them all. Bombshells come and go. Nixon speaks of serving out his term with the same confidence as a pope might display. He plays piano for Pearl Bailey, and doesn't blink an eye when she abuses him as Joe E. Lewis used to heckle his accompanist, Austin Mack, in their nightclub act.

There is no reason to believe that Nixon media critics, the intellectual community, Democrats, liberals and an impressive percentage of young America will refrain from blasting him left and right through the next three years. But there is beginning to be no reason to doubt that he'll somehow roll with the punches. He'll always have an answer; he'll always have some way of ducking the most determined Sunday punches of the opposition.

One of the questions shot at him at his news conference in Chicago had to do with whether impeachment charges should be laid down by this or that body of government. Nixon said that this must be left to the language of the Constitution—and that just happens to be as fuzzy as an out-of-focus snapshot. It speaks of "... treason, bribery or other high crimes or misdemeanors ..." How can these words hold still long enough for a microscopic view, he asked in effect. He also wondered, in his own rhetorical way, what the hell this constitutional clause had to do with Watergate. Everybody clapped.

He made the statistical clamor for impeachment, resignation and his swooning acceptance, as shown in the highly believable polls, sound like a conspiracy to force him to weaken the office of the Presidency for all time, by agreeing to bow out. It sounded very patriotic, as he expressed it. "I will not be a party to the destruction of the Presidency of the United States," he said. Jefferson could not have said it better.

He said cheerfully that Watergate was a "stupid action," with as much ringing sincerity as Larry O'Brien

Impeachment

By JIM BISHOP

There was a buzz in the Senate gallery. Fashionable ladies whispered and shook the cold rain from their furs. Distinguished gentlemen set solemn chins on furled umbrellas. Chief Justice Salmon Chase swept in, holding his black robes clutched in his hand. The buzz stopped.

The day was March 5th, 1868. A clerk stood and intoned that the Senate of the United States of America "is convened as a court of impeachment for the trial of the President of the United States." He sat. Henry Stanbery stood. The former Attorney General had resigned to become chief of defense counsel for Andrew Johnson, Democrat, 17th President of the United States.

"The President enters his appearance," he said, "with my presence here." The roll was called. Fifty-four Senators stood, in turn, behind gleaming cherrywood desks to announce their presence. Justice Chase said he recognized them, collectively, as a court of impeachment.

The gallery was disappointed when the Chief Justice announced that the trial would begin on Friday, March 13th. They had come to see an oak tree fall, and there had not been the snap of a twig.

In the White House, Andrew Johnson locked fingers behind his back and stared out of the office next to his bedroom at the marching rows of rain. He said he would like to appear in person before the Senate, but had been counseled against it. His enemies would bait his fiery tongue.

The private secretary wrote: "The President declares that the defense he desires to make is for the people—not merely for the Senate—and that he would care nothing for conviction by that body if he stands acquitted by the nation."

The question went deeper than guilt or acquittal. In the same decade, the might muster. And as if he were washing his hands of it in the luncheon table's finger bowl. The country's had enough of Watergate, he decreed, to applause. It made all the pending trials, the possible release of an anti-Nixon grand jury report to the House Judiciary Committee, and the unfinished report of the Senate Watergate committee sound like so much fodder for a shredding machine.

But the strength of Nixon under pressure was perhaps best evidenced by his easy manner with Mayor Daley. It has been the solid belief of Nixon since 1960 that Daley and the Chicagoan's Democratic machine gyped him out of the Presidency in the 1960 race against John F. Kennedy. An Andrew Jackson might have drawn his Derringer upon meeting a political foe he felt had done him wrong. But Nixon took Daley by the arm and turned him into friendly stooge.

Repeat: Richard Milhous Nixon is indestructible. Come what may.

Republic had disemboweled itself in a great civil war. The country would survive, but the wounds would suppurate for a century.

It had also survived the assassination of a President. Mr. Lincoln was slain in the manner of an exclamation point at the end of the war. Andrew Johnson fought the harsh dictates of the Congress. In public, he pilloried "radical" Congressmen and Senators.

Thaddeus Stevens, B.F. Butler, Bingham, Logan and others sought revenge. They plotted against seating elected Southern Representatives, claiming that "all males" (i.e., Negroes) had not been permitted to vote. They had their own "bug" in the White House, Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton.

He passed confidential White House information to them. Johnson endured it. Congress passed an act which stated that, as the President could not appoint certain ranking members of the Administration without the "advise and consent" of the U.S. Senate, therefore he could not fire without the same "advise and consent."

Andrew Johnson said it was preposterous, unconstitutional. On August 5, 1867, the President asked Stanton to resign. The Secretary of War refused. The President appointed Gen. Ulysses S. Grant as "Secretary of War ad interim."

Stevens and Butler pressed for impeachment. The House Judiciary Committee held hearings, and voted it to the floor. The radicals lost. Thaddeus Stevens got House permission to transfer impeachment from the Judiciary Committee to his group called the Joint Committee on Reconstruction.

Carefully, they hammered 11 charges together—two of them involving the "Tenure of Office Act"; nine others as catch-alls that ranged from charging Johnson with conspiracy in the assassination of Abraham Lincoln to accusing him of the near-treasonous act of criticizing the Congress.

Could the nation survive a challenge to the President? It could. It had lived through war and famine, assassination, the heel of the despot on the South, sectional hatred, draft riots and a Congress which called itself Republican and Democrat, but which was cross-hatched into conservatives and radicals.

On the 13th, a clear day of warming breezes, the President's counsel made an opening speech in which he successfully demolished all charges except those under the Tenure of Office Act.

The Senate radicals became so incensed that when the Chief Justice made rulings favorable to the President, they voted to overrule him. Shouting and arrogant, they called for votes of impeachment on May 16th and again on May 26th.

There were 54 Senate votes—the radicals required two-thirds, a 36 to 18 tally for impeachment. The final ballot was 35 in favor of impeachment, 19 opposed. Andrew Johnson remained President of the United States by a solitary vote.

No one could say which vote tipped the scales. Strangely, no one took credit for it...

Accord Reached In Death Lawsuit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A $42,500 pretrial settlement was awarded Thursday to Katherine Hussey of Maple Heights, whose husband, Lawrence, fell 38 floors to his death from a scaffold on Erieview Tower in downtown Cleveland.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Judge David Matia said the damages in the wrongful death suit were to be paid by four subcontractors involved in construction of the tower.

The suit said Hussey, 49, fell when a steel bar used to raise and lower a movable scaffold came loose during construction 10 years ago.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

During the day, while in my office, I suddenly feel a sense of weakness and a pain in my stomach.

Even though I have just had my lunch, I feel the need to eat again. Does this sound like an ulcer?

B.G., Ill.

Dear Mr. G.:

One of the characteristic patterns of a stomach ulcer is a gnawing sensation of hunger that is quickly relieved by eating or by taking antacid medication. The so-called "hunger pains" are actually spasms of the stomach when it is empty.

Physicians recognize that there is such a cyclic pattern in patients who are suspected of having ulcers. They then proceed to investigate this possibility by X-ray study.

I use the word "suspect" because there obviously are other conditions that might produce similar sounding symptoms.

There is no room for speculation about the basic cause of your problem. It is clearly apparent that the mature approach is a complete examination to pinpoint the cause and eliminate it. Then you will be free from the physical distress and your anxiety about it.

Someone told me that fingerprinting used by the police can also be used in the practice of medicine.

Mr. R. Y., Wash.

Dear Mr. Y.:

It is true. The wonders of science and their application to the practice of medicine are fascinating.

Prints of the fingers, the palms, and the soles, apparently have special meaning to doctors who use this particular technique.

Abnormal patterns may suggest birth defects long before clinical symptoms are apparent.

Many genetic disorders and inherited diseases have been identified with characteristic ridges of the skin surfaces.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH . . .
Some drugs have a short shelf life. Ask your pharmacist what the expiration date is and then label all medications to be sure that their potency survives.

Business World

By JOHN CUNNEIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As inflation envelops the entire industrialized world and resists the determined efforts of governments to push it back, a mood of resignation has developed: If you can't beat it, learn to live with it.

From a most unlikely source, Boston's State Street Bank & Trust Co., came the latest suggestion that, like Brazil, we consider adjusting interest rates, wages, rents, contracts and the like to reduce inflation's impact.

If the buying power of the dollar declined 5 per cent in a year, for example, then wages and the like would be increased by that amount so that buying power would be maintained.

The concept isn't new. B. Nowlin Keener Jr., a Pensacola, Fla., lawyer, has spent years working out the technicalities of escalator buying-power clauses. Some academicians have been fascinated with the possibilities.

But to the conventional world of businessmen and economists, the idea doesn't seem entirely practical. Arthur Okun of the Brookings Institution, chief economic adviser in the Johnson administration, sums up the opposition:

"I'm rather skeptical of the general line that you start learning to live with inflation. The corollary is that you tend to stop fighting it and you wind up with more."

Albert H. Cox, Jr., chief economist of Lionel Edie & Co., consultants, and former Nixon administration adviser, feels much the same way:

"Once you put in an official assumption about inflation people accept it and then accelerate it. I just don't think it would work in the United States."

Instead, he said, an attempt to "index inflation away means it might get worse and head the country toward political, economic and social chaos." Brazil's success, he said, "I would suspect is temporary."

The fact is that Brazil has managed with such a system to reduce inflation over a decade from more than 90 per cent to a current range of about 15 or 20 per cent, while growing swiftly. But Brazil may be a special situation.

Okun observes that Brazil's currency isn't highly important in international markets, that it doesn't raise much of the world's capital, as does the United States, that it isn't as industrialized, that it is in a different stage of growth, that its saving and spending habits are different.

George Hagedorn, economist for the National Association of Manufacturers, asks: "Why not end inflation in the normal manner?" The "normal manner" generally is assumed to mean restrictive monetary and fiscal policies.

Inflation isn't inevitable, Hagedorn reminds us. In the mid-1950s to early or mid-1960s it averaged only 1.5 per cent or so a year, a fact that coincided with smaller increases in the money supply than are common now.

Yes, responds Francis Hassey, State Street Bank economist, but we had three recessions in the 1950s to get that price stability. He believes the country isn't willing to accept such severe penalties any more.

Among professionals with an acute interest in the subject are accountants, who are increasingly distressed at what they feel are inflation-induced distortions of corporate financial statements.

But their interest in an inflation adjuster is restricted to reporting—not to implementing—an economy-wide index that would attempt to erase the malevolent aspects of the inflation malady.

That job, many economists feel, would entail the establishment of a huge bureaucracy, "just a tremendous structural and institutional problem," as Cox puts it.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I am writing to protest the removal of the old city of Circleville logo from the front page of The Herald. The familiar silhouette of our long departed "Roundtown" may seem superfluous to newcomers but I feel that it is very important for a newspaper to build upon the historical heritage of the community which it serves.

As readers, we need to feel that our paper is of us and for us—that it reflects our traditions as well as our efforts to expand our horizons.

Someone once stated it most succinctly: "How can we know where we're going if we don't know where we've been?"

Please return the symbol of our unique beginning—we take pride in it. A gentle reminder of it each day can only strengthen our individuality and sense of worth.

Sincerely

TRUDY R. YATES

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, PHONE 986-3481

The most important item on the agenda this week is to remind everyone to get a birthday card ready to be put in the mail for our beloved "Grandma" Smiley who will reach the marvelous age of 100 on March 31. Let us shower her with cards, cards and more cards. Wouldn't it be great if she received one hundred (or more) cards? It can easily be done if all of you just take a little of your time and get one in the mail.

The address is: Mrs. Charles Smiley, 3911 Guyton St., Macon, Ga. 31206. For many years Mrs. Smiley resided in our fair village and was well known and respected for her many acts of kindness and good deeds. She was quite active in local organizations as well as her church. She was a good friend and neighbor.

We have all missed her since she left us last fall to make her home in Georgia with her daughter Ruth (Mrs. Charles Shipe). For those of us who have the privilege of knowing and loving her it will be a great joy to wish her Happy 100th Birthday. For those of you who have not had this privilege why not be a part of this joyous occasion and send her greetings anyway. It is never necessary to have to know someone to wish them well.

Paper Drive

The young lads of Williamsport Cub Scout Pack 179 are planning a paper drive with pick-up date scheduled for April 27. Here in our town it is requested that all papers and magazines be at the curb for pick-up between the hours of 12 noon and 4 p.m. Be sure to have the papers securely tied. The paper drive falls into line with the Scout theme for the month of April which is "Conservation".

Other nearby areas such as Clarksburg, Atlanta and Jackson Twp. will also be served if interested in having your papers hauled away. Those areas are asked to contact den mother Suzi (Mrs. Paul) Bivens at 986-6675; Marcia (Mrs. Bill) Horch, 986-6472; or Jeanine (Mrs. Jim) Hamman, 986-5732 or write to either of them at Williamsport, 43164 and arrangements will be gladly made. Help your Scouts! Help yourself! Help your country! Support the paper drive.

Chuckie Graffis has those back problems again and is once more a patient in Room 596, St. Anthony Hospital, Columbus. Cards will help his morale, much.

Viola (Mrs. Chet) Myers has decided to hang it all up after many years of devoted service to a variety of employers. Viola and her late husband moved to Williamsport in the year 1948. Chet was Mayor of our town for several years. The couple had four children—Evelyn (Mrs. George Kaiser), George, David and Shelia (Mrs. John Neff) who with their families all reside in the Pickaway County area.

Mrs. Myers is noted for her diligent church work. She loves to travel and as she says (quote) "If the Lord wills and the energy crisis permits I hope to do plenty of traveling". Her most recent employment prior to retirement was at Elinor's, a local eating establishment operated by Dale and Elinor Keller. The restaurant was owned and operated by Lloyd and Clara Jane Richards before the Kellers assumed ownership.

We all wish many good years of contentment, joy and happy traveling to a most deserving Viola Myers.

Diabetes Test

Word from Vera Saunders, information and referral aide at the Pickaway County Senior Center, is that once again the center is sponsoring a diabetes test, March 28, 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Trinity Lutheran Parish House on E. Mound St., Circleville. The public is cordially invited to have this health test and it is noted on the brochure that the test will consist of using a drop of blood from the finger and that it is most accurate when taken two hours after a normal meal.

The testing will be done under direction of the Diabetes Association of Central Ohio. The Diabetes and Arthritis Program of the U.S. Public Health Service estimates that more than two million Americans are victims of diabetes without knowing it. Could you be one?

The test will locate our own undiagnosed diabetics and help them seek proper medical care. Take the test on the day and time mentioned and find out for sure whether or not you are a "hidden diabetic". Our thanks to Ms. Saunders and the Center for calling this to our attention.

What happens when seven of eight sisters get together? What else but a doggone rousing fun time and that's how it was at the Bob and Alice Cornwell abode this past Sunday. It was birthday time for the Cornwell's son David (he chalked up 17) and also for Alice's sister Gladys Little (and she "ain't" sayin' how many).

Gladys came down from Ashville for the winging as did sisters Connie Little, Annamae (Mrs. Merl) Hedges and Marjorie (Mrs. George) Myers. Sister Virginia (Mrs. Maurice) Martin of Columbus and sister Geraldine (Mrs. Don) Sampsill of South Bloomfield and their respective spouses joined in the fun, too. Also a part of the happy occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Leon (Doris Cornwell) Ferguson and daughter Tammi of Darbydale, Jerry and John Cornwell at home and of course Merl Hedges and George Myers, the partners of Annamae and Marjorie.

It was our pleasure to welcome Maria Martha Arguello of Nicaragua into our home last Wednesday and she is a real love of a young lady. What a charmer she is! She has completely captivated all of us already.

Also arriving in our community last Wednesday and consequently enchanting their respective families were Maria Cristina Ramos of Brazil who will be with the John Graffis family and Alejandro (pronounced Al-e-han-dro) Garces of Colombia who will be a son to Marvie baby and Dolly Thompson (and brother to the Thompson five).

These fine young people will be here for approximately three months. We encourage anyone interested in meeting and talking with these exchange students to contact their American families for we are eager to have them make the acquaintance of as many folks as possible.

After a streaker has done his thing what say you—streaked? struck? or streakened? We told you last week that information had come our way that streaking would be done in Williamsport at the bewitching or is it bestreaching hour of midnight. I am told that the "deed" was accomplished. Contrary to popular hopes it was not our local meter reader, even though there are red, white and blue stockings in that household bought to be used for the purpose of streaking. Right on!

PTB Fun Fair

We need to keep reminding you that the Jackson Elementary Fun Fair night will be held on April 5 at Jackson School with all kinds of terrific games, prizes, elephant sale, food section (serving sandwiches, homemade pie, etc.), baked goods division and lots of fun for young and not so young.

An advance ticket sales resulting in considerable savings will be held at the school by the ticket chairmen (Marcia Horch and Candy Commeneas) each of the two days prior to the fun night. Ten tickets for one dollar will be the going price in advance or if purchased at the door the tickets will be fifteen cents each.

Now, doing your math (modern or on your fingers) you can easily determine this amounts to a fifty cents savings and that is a downright good bargain.

Our Maria had the opportunity this past Sunday to view a Protestant American wedding when we attended the Pamela Williams-Richard Curry nuptials held at the Williamsport United Methodist Church. Pam was a lovely bride and her bridal attendants were truly complimented in their chosen frocks of mint green and sunny yellow. Read all about it one of these days on the society pages. Very pretty wedding.

Cindy Beatty, a student at University of Eastern Kentucky, who spent her spring break with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Ron Beatty and brother Brad returned to her studies at the beginning of this week. Cindy was maid of honor for Pamela. The two girls have been close friends for a long time and are 1973 Westfall graduates. Cindy was driven back to school by her mother and Mrs. Harvey (Margene) Looney. By the way, did that statue of "What's his name" take notice, Margene? Sorry about that folks, sort of an inside joke.

Be with you again next week, be the Lord willin'. Take care.

U.S. Churches Get Overseas Help

NEW YORK (AP) — Normally it has been the American churches that send financial help to missions in poorer lands. But in this case, the reverse happened. Some Southeast Asian churches sent funds to some hard-up American congregations.

The Rev. Dr. Howard Brinton, of the United Methodist Board of Global Ministries, says it's believed to be the first time in the denomination for overseas churches to send money to U.S. churches.

He adds that the action symbolizes the international partnership that has developed between churches, replacing the once dominating paternal role of U.S. denominations and leading to a "two-way street" pattern of mutual efforts.

While the shift has resulted in a growing number of Asian and African missionaries coming to work in this country, the receipt of financial help here from abroad marks a rarer wrinkle in the process.

The modest sum—$1,000—was dispatched by the Singapore district of the Chinese Methodist Conference to a low-income, Spanish-speaking congregation at Grand Prairie, Tex., the Mid-Cities United Methodist Church, and to an Indian congregation near Schuler, Okla., Little Cussetah Church.

Both are working to raise money for new church buildings, and the Chinese Christians chipped in $500 for each group as part of Methodism's global "second mile" missions giving program.

Despite the trend toward more even-handed relationship between American-European churches and those in poorer regions, the number of American Protestant missionaries again is rising slightly, after a brief downturn.

According to the latest statistical roundup, the total now exceeds 35,000 American Protestants, maintained overseas at a cost of $393 million annually, compared to a 33,289 total of 1969 and annual expenditures of $345 million.

About 7,469 American Roman Catholics now are serving overseas, down from the 9,655 serving in foreign missions five years ago.

The decline for Roman Catholicism parallels that for most of the mainline Protestant denominations. The counter-balancing increase of Protestant missionaries has occurred mostly among conservative, evangelical groups.

However, the largest number of missionaries maintained abroad by any single group is the 2,500 supported by Southern Baptists, the country's biggest Protestant denomination. For other large denominations, the count of missionaries has fallen steeply in recent years.

Inflation, and deflation, of the dollar have been depressing factors on the U.S. missionary operation. There also has been a growing trend to turn over increasing amounts of the task to national churches, a change they have sought.

'Limits To Consumerism' Martha Circle Program

Mrs. Walter Owens, 379 Walnut Creek Pike, entertained the Monday evening meeting of Martha Circle, Community United Methodist Church, in her home. Mrs. Jane Hoover, program chairman, used as her topic "Limits To Consumerism."

Mrs. Hoover opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Willison Leist presided over the business session attended by 15 members and one guest, Mrs. Bud Ohr.

Announcements included: a reception for Lawrence Lewis, new education assistant on March 24, the observance of Paul Wach Sunday on May 26, an invitation to the Service Center of Good Shepherd Church on March 25 and the Christmas offering given to the Hedges House to be used for repairs or furnishings. Mrs. Leist reported on the 4-H dinner served recently at the church.

Hostesses were Mrs. Owens, Mrs.

Vernon Weiler, Mrs. Walter Hall and Mrs. Lucille Bosworth.

Mrs. Hoover said the purpose of the program was to acquaint United Methodist Women with problems created by uncontrolled growth in industry and population and the depletion of this planet's resources to encourage them to take an active roll in discouraging waste and unnecessary consumption and in encouraging the development of a social climate in which a just and balanced human culture can flourish.

From birth throughout life people are taught to be consumers. In the biological sense, meat and plant eaters, and users of oxygen and water and in the social sense they consume goods and services thus contributing to the total economy.

Years before people are born investors calculate buying habits in predicting economic trends including the number of babies, growth in the disposable diaper industry, infant food, textiles, tennis shoes, toys, school books, surf boards, cosmetics and automobiles. This continues until old age and death when increases are expected in retirement home investments and cemetery lots.

In the highly industrialized society, property is a factor in helping the individual overcome underlying insecurity, to increase a shrinking level of self-worth. People purchase things to add to their possessions becoming consumer statistics.

Mrs. Hoover said that as consumers we affect the mounting curve of the gross national product which is the measurement of what is produced for consumption in the nation. If there are funds available people spend them for goods and services.

Whole industries have arisen not to supply us with needs or wants but to create the desire for new things unheard of to make more efficient consumers. She said our very lives are being invaded by manipulative efforts to make better consumers, to improve us as instruments of economic growth by tempting and encouraging us to buy, buy and buy.

As to the future — computers are very good at following growth rates such as population and industry, agricultural output and pollution. Companies follow statistics that keep up with the non-renewable supply of Mother Hubbard Law which governs resource consumption on the earth. No matter how big and how full the cupboard is Mother Hubbard will keep drawing supplies from and eventually find it bare.

With the awareness of depletion of resources, pollution, crowding, birth rates, death rates, consumption of goods and services, the question is asked as to what is the task of Christian Women?

We need to create and encourage a climate of caring about the earth that will influence major and minor decisions and actions. Mrs. Hoover continued by saying that this is something Christian women are equipped and organized to do with determination and prayers.

She said the church is a fellowship that includes all strata of society and encompasses rich and poor nations all over the world. If we fail to take measures now to bring consumption into balance with the earth's capacity, all Christians will suffer the agony of decisions that deny sustenance to some parts of society or to people of powerless nations.

Ashville League Views Slides Of Holy Land

The Rev. John Currans of the Zion United Methodist Church opened the March meeting of the Ashville Suburban Child Study League. A very inspirational evening was spent viewing slides of the Holy Land which Rev. and Mrs. Currans visited in February 1973. Afterwards dessert was served by hostess Joan Kennedy and co-hostess Gay Henson.

The business meeting was brought to order with Kathy Neal reading a poem appropriate for the Easter holidays. Roll call was taken with each member telling about their favorite pastime. The club welcomed four new members, Linda Cummins, Pam Kelly, Pat Lee and Judy McCallister. Gay Henson gave a report on the progress of the executive board for Spring Conference. The board met March 10 in the home of Dianne Jones, Circleville and outlined specific duties for each club. Members are to meet at the Teays Valley High School 5:15 p.m. March 22, and 7:30 a.m., March 23.

The garage sale was discussed and May 18 decided on. It will be held at Jeannie Myers, Route 1, Ashville. All members were asked to start looking in basement and attics to make this sale the best ever. Again there will be baked goods for sale.

Further discussion was held on Husband's Night Out and Susan Haynes was asked to obtain information on the two dinner theatres in Columbus and what performers will be coming so the club can make a selection.

Slate of new officers for 1974-75 was presented by Jane Kline. The following were voted on unanimously, Kathy Neal, president; Pam Kelly, vice president; Susan Haynes, treasurer; Becky Zielinski, recording secretary; Gay Henson, corresponding secretary. All were quite enthusiastic about next year and anticipating bigger and better projects. Installation of officers will be held during the May meeting.

Jane Kline suggested saving Big Bear sales slips for redemption and square patches of material for the Senior Citizens to make lap blankets. Traveling door prize was won by Bonnie Remy.

Mrs. Robert Smith, associated with Project Hope will be guest speaker at the April meeting, to be held in the home of Nancy Cummins with Jeannie Myers co-hosting. Anyone interested in attending is welcome.

Stork Shower Fetes Mrs. John Winland

The table of gifts was gaily decorated in pink and blue with a large stork in the center of the table.

Guests attending the affair were: Mrs. Harold Lowery, Mrs. Jeff Swisher and Jennifer, Mrs. Glenn Steele, Debbie, Deanna, and Glenda; Mrs. Denver Winland, Mrs. Roy Wilson, Mrs. Floyd Wolford, Mrs. Richard Brown, Mrs. Kate Smith.

On Books And Activities At The Library

Suspense, romance, fantasy, adventure, or a mixture of these ingredients dominate the novels which have come in this week. For the romantic, "Doctor's Daughter" is a typical Elizabeth Seifert story of a doctor and his family whose pleasant uneventful lives are marred by a malpractice suit.

Romantic intrigue is the keynote in Mary Craig's "Cranes of Ibycus", a sinister novel of a young woman searching for a man to whom she owes a debt. "My Lady Evil" by Parley J. Cooper is a story of the occult and of overwhelming love set in 19th-century France.

During the Crusades, a group of shipwrecked pilgrims turn against a woman whom they blame for their misadventure in Barbara Jefferis' novel of sorcery and witchcraft in "Time of the Unicorn." "Heir to Polventon" by Marjorie Watson is a mystery tale set in 18th century England. It centers around a curse laid on a family by a local crone and the trouble that ensues.

Those who like the spice of adventure might try "In Connection with Kilshaw" by Peter Driscoll. Set amid the strife in northern Ireland, this novel captures the distrust, betrayal and terror that are bred there. "Stringer" by Ward Just chronicles the last mission of Stringer, a civilian intelligence agent assigned to the army.

William C. Anderson's "Penelope, The Damp Detective" is an action-packed suspense story of a heroin ring, blackmail schemes, and the casket business. It is also science fiction—the detective is an intelligent porpoise.

"Watership Down" by Richard Adams, British author, is an animal fantasy about a group of rabbits who set out to find Nirvana.

"Partners" by Lousi Auchincloss is a psychological portrayal of lawyers, focusing upon the small firm, Shepard, Putney and Cox.

Wind Blows, Car Goes

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — Rex Curtis of Springdale and four Oklahoma men have developed a car they say could help solve the fuel shortage. Their slogan is: "We go when the wind blows."

The electric car, which the men said will be ready for trial runs in about 45 days, will use a windmill to charge batteries.

They gave these details:

When the driver parks for any length of time while the wind is blowing, he will pull a lever and a windmill will pop up on top of the car. It will operate a generator to charge the batteries. A small electric motor will retract the windmill when not in use.

A small, lightweight gasoline engine will charge batteries while the car is being driven or when the wind is not blowing.

The car should be able to go about 50 miles without a recharge at speeds of 30 to 50 miles per hour, Curtis and his co-designers said.

Curtis said he and his colleagues plan to manufacture the pop-up windmills to be sold with motors and all other accessories required to convert any small compact car to an electric car.

The Oklahoma men involved in the venture are Everett Wellman of Oklahoma City, a mechanical engineer; William R. Avey of Oklahoma City, owner of a tool and grinding service; Rex Carmichael of Yukon, an automobile dealer and body shop owner; and Marvin McInnis of Oklahoma City, head of an engineering firm.

"Bijou" by David Madden. It concerns a young small town boy who escapes into a fantasy world of literary and film characters.

"The Malvie Inheritance" by Pamela Hill is a gothic novel centering around Malvie, an ancestral estate in 18th century Scotland and Morven Doon, a rather pale fellow who hopes to win Malvie.

Mystery fans may prefer Andrew Garve's "Lester Affair." A handsome 40-year-old Englishman is running for Prime Minister. All is well until the press hears that he is having an affair with a young governess and lying about it. In "The Quick Red Fox" by John D. MacDonald, a detective helps out a movie star who is being blackmailed for some excessively candid photographs. Scotland Yard tries to solve the mystery of the many stealings of a jeweled cross in Donald MacKenzie's "Zaleski's Percentage."

For those who like to read about people, Anne Morrow Lindbergh's newest volume is "Locked Rooms and Open Doors 1933-1935." In this installment of her diaries she covers the many flights made with her husband, the publishing of her book "North to the Orient" and the tragedy and suffering caused by the trial of the kidnapper of her young son.

Wilma Dykeman, author of "Tall Woman" has written a biography of birth control pioneer, Edna Rankin McKinnon, the first woman in America to receive a law degree.

Special Deputies Lose Commissions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Franklin County Sheriff Harry Berkemer says there'll be no more special deputy commissions—beginning Saturday. Berkemer said Wednesday he decided on the action after non-union construction officials accused the Columbus Building and Construction Trades Council of using special deputy badges to harass non-union workers. Berkemer said he inherited the problem from his predecessors and already has terminated about half the 180 special deputy commissions. He said in the future, the commissions may be used, but only when the recipients already are in law enforcement.

Officials Fondly Recall Pawn Shops

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The decline and near fall of Ohio pawnshops have a state legislator and a state commerce official a bit nostalgic over the plight of the poor man's banker.

State Sen. David Headley, D-28 Barberton, remembers when he needed some fast cash during his student days at the University of Akron back in the 1940s.

"I needed $20 for groceries and so I hocked my typewriter for a month," said Headley. "Later I went back and got my typewriter."

Headley has introduced a bill in the General Assembly which would permit pawnbrokers to charge higher interest rates. Times have grown so tough for pawnshops they now number 70 in all of Ohio, down from a peak of about 900 in the 1930s and 1940s.

Robert Fickel, chief of the consumer loan division of the Ohio Department of Commerce, understood Headley's student action.

"I had a green gabardine suit I pawned every time I needed to buy books at Ohio State," said Fickel. Fickel has the responsibility of licensing pawnshops in Ohio.

Rep. James W. Rankin, D-25 Cincinnati, takes a rather dim view of the present session of the Ohio General Assembly. He claims it is "doing nothing but causing a lot of chaos." Rankin and other legislators appeared to suffer adjournment fever during the unseasonably warm weather earlier this month.

"I think we ought to adjourn and not come back until after the November election," Rankin said. "That way we'd all be happy."

The lawmakers plan a month's recess beginning April 4.

Roger W. Tracy Jr., former Republican state representative seeking the GOP nomination for state auditor, points out in campaigning that Thomas E. Ferguson, running for the Democratic nomination, is the son of the incumbent auditor.

At a recent news conference he referred to the "Ferguson clan."

Tracy himself is the son of a former state auditor who served in the mid-1960s.

Rep. Fred Young, R-38 Dayton, has complained about some of his colleagues in the House who have district headquarters with big signs bearing the officeholder's name.

Young takes the attitude such offices serve political purposes but "not the constituents."

Traveling from Dayton, Young said, he saw a sign on Rep. Michael Stinziano's office "bigger than the overhead signs leading to the Interstate highway."

Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, has two such offices—one on the west side of Columbus, another on the Ohio State campus. But, both offices were donated rent free and are manned by volunteers.

Fair Skies Spreading Over Nation

By The Associated Press
Fair weather and unseasonable cold spread over most of the nation today, replacing violent storms that ushered in spring.

In Dixie, where fast-moving tornadoes and high winds left seven persons dead and scores injured on the first full day of spring Thursday, temperatures dropped to below freezing over an area from Tennessee to northern Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

The storm that produced heavy snow along the North Atlantic coast, including 15 inches at Limestone, Maine, moved off the Canadian coast into the Atlantic.

But another wintry storm spread snow through the Northern Plains, where winds gusted up to 40 m.p.h. and temperatures dropped below zero during the night.

Broadus, Mont., was plastered by 3 inches of snow during the night. Elsewhere, clouds covered much of the Pacific and Gulf coasts and Florida experienced widely scattered thunderstorms.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 at International Falls, Minn., to 75 at Key West, Fla.

Indemnities Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher market prices for hogs the past couple of years have brought a boost in the amount of indemnities farmers can collect from the government for destroying animals infected or exposed to hog cholera.

Effective today, the Agriculture Department said, indemnity payments for hog cholera eradication will be a maximum of $200 per top-quality market animal and up to $400 each for purebred and breeding swine. The limits previously had been $100 and $200 respectively.

"The change will bring maximum permitted indemnity limits into line with current market prices, especially for the higher-quality animals," the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service said.

Officials said, however, that indemnity payments in most cases are not at the maximum rates since hogs are appraised at actual value.

Market prices in the midwest recently have skidded sharply. Last week, for example, a seven-market average kept by USDA was around $35 per 100 pounds liveweight, down from more than $40 a few weeks ago and far below peaks last summer of nearly $60 per hundredweight.

However, the present average is still above this time two years ago when slaughter hogs were bringing farmers about $22 per 100 pounds, indicating why the boost for indemnities was ordered.

Nixon Uses Radio Media In Bid To Hike Credibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any political campaign has its set piece, The Speech a candidate delivers day after day to stress his major themes. President Nixon's campaign to rebuild public confidence and block impeachment is no exception.

Nixon's forum has been the nationally broadcast and televised question-and-answer session. He has held four of them in less than a month. Two were White House news conferences, two on the road. He says there are likely to be more.

Whatever the questions put to the President, his two key answers have been the same:

—He will not resign, contending that to do so would destroy the presidency itself.

—He will not agree to turn over additional White House tape recordings and documents sought by House impeachment investigators, on grounds this would break the confidentiality essential to any president.

He has, at the same time, repeated his demands for a swift end to Watergate investigations, declaring anew that one year is enough, that dragging it out drags down America.

The words have changed somewhat; the tone became tougher at his session with the National Association of Broadcasters in Houston Tuesday night.

Company Drops Credit Cards

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) said Thursday its BP Oil Corp. subsidiary is eliminating its own credit cards in favor of nationally distributed Master Charge credit cards.

The firm will continue to accept BankAmericard at its stations, which are concentrated on the East Coast, but is dropping Sohio cards.

Urge Redrawing Of Civil Service Laws For Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Municipal League has recommended that Ohio Civil Service laws covering municipal employees be redrawn to separate them from laws covering state employees.

League representatives told the Ohio Civil Service Study Commission at a hearing Thursday that redrawing the laws would make collective bargaining with city employees less confusing.

The league said it had asked the Capital University law school faculty to sift through state civil service statutes and prepare a report.

Alfred Strozdas, Springfield city manager and league chairman, said many of the present laws were passed to remedy state government problems and have left a "maze of confusion" for city personnel departments.

Water Pollution Projects Announced

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — More than one-half million new federal dollars will flow into water pollution control projects underway in northern Ohio, federal officials announced Thursday.

The additional grants range from $12,300 for Milan to $154,000 for Bellevue. Projects started before January will receive the additional funds.

comedy hit "Last of the Red Hot Lovers". Sutton is best known for his role as Sergeant Carter in the Television series "Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C."

Although most people find Sutton particularly well suited to the Marine Sergeant, we find his talent especially adaptable to the role of the bumbling would-be adulterer. He was a real-life Army signal company soldier for three years during World War II. After the war, his interest in the theatre since he was 15 was kindled when he studied drama at Columbia University.

Sutton has done everything from disc jockeying to acting. He made his professional debut while still in school with a Pennsylvania stock company. He married a graduate student and toured with the stock company in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street". Today, the father of two, Sutton is truly a professional actor.

In "The Red Hot Lover", he plays the proprietor of a fish restaurant who tries unsuccessfully three times to have a middle-aged fling, "one to last him for the rest of his life." Both touching in places and rollicking in others, the play finds a soft spot in the heart of everybody in the audience for Barney Cashman.

Also starring in "The Red Hot Lovers" are Sue Lawless, Lorelle Brownell and Scotty Block. Miss Brownell is returning to the Country Dinner Playhouse after a raving success of "No Hard Feelings" two months ago with Hans Conreid.

The three young ladies play Barney's proposed "flings" that ultimately for different reasons turn out to be "fizzles".

Special features of the playhouse are special discount prices for groups and Circleville residents on Wednesdays and nightly drawing for door prizes.

Hays Blasts Gardner On Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Ohio responded angrily Thursday to a charge by Common Cause that he and other Democratic leaders had stalled campaign reform legislation for 15 months.

Hays took to the House floor to call John Gardner, who heads the national citizens' lobby, a "common crook."

Hays chairs the House Administration Committee which is considering campaign reform, and he promised to have a bill "in a few weeks, maybe days."

He said the bill will limit campaign contributions and campaign spending and require not only candidates but "lobbies like Common Cause" to publicly disclose their campaign contributions.

"We hope to be able to apply it as well to common crooks like John Gardner, the head of Common Cause," Hays said.

Meeting with newsmen later, however, Hays repeated his staunch opposition to public campaign financing, the feature that Common Cause contends is needed most to prevent future Watergates and keep congressmen from being obligated for big business contributions.

Common Cause ran a fullpage ad in the Washington Post in which it accused Hays of stalling enactment of any form of a Senate-passed reform bill.

"Is it not a scandal," the ad asked, "that Wayne Hays, the man responsible in 1974 for Democratic congressional campaign fund raising and money dispensing, is also the man responsible for writing legislation to reform finance practices?"

Springfield Man Dies In Apartment Blaze

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A man identified as Willie Johnson, about 35, died about midnight Thursday when fire swept through the two-story frame house here in which he occupied a small apartment.

Another occupant, Willie Gaines, 56, said he roused Johnson from a sofa as he was fleeing the house and thought the younger man was following him from the building.

Young Boy's Leg Lost To Cancer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A strong-minded 13-year-old Miami, Fla. boy, the third son in his family to contract cancer, planned to walk today on an artificial limb, only 24 hours after his left leg was amputated.

Stephen Southerland's condition was reported satisfactory through the night by officials at Children's Hospital.

The boy's leg was amputated three inches below the hip in a 3½ hour operation. Doctors confirmed their diagnosis of a rare bone cancer on his thigh.

They said they believed the malignancy was completely removed. However, Stephen is scheduled to undergo chemotherapy treatments.

The boy was fitted with an artificial limb in the recovery room and removed to a private room within an hour. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Southerland were waiting.

The chief surgeon, who successfully operated on Stephen's brother Michael, 9, in 1969, said "there was no evidence of spread of the tumor elsewhere in the body."

The surgeon, who asked to remain nameless, also barred the family from talking to newsmen. "Today belongs to the family," he said.

Another brother, Jeffrey, four, died of leukemia in 1969. Michael was treated for a rare malignancy in the lining of his spinal nerve and has shown no symptoms since surgery.

The surgeon's statement said further of Stephen that "...by gross inspection plus microscopic examination it appears that the malignant tumor has been completely removed."

Stephen told the Associated Press Tuesday, before he knew he had cancer, that he wasn't afraid.

"It's really an experience you have to put up with," he said. "I think I can face it."

His father, Raymond, 35, is a community relations officer with the Dade County, Fla. police department. The family formerly lived in Terre Haute, Ind.

Timber Wolves To Get New Home

NEW YORK (AP) — The often maligned timber wolf will be reestablished in the Huron Mountain area of northern Michigan if a conservationist project works out.

Experimenters are trapping a pack of five wolves in northern Minnesota, the one area south of the Canadian border with a comparatively healthy wolf population. After getting medical checks, rabies and distemper shots and after being fitted with radio transmitters so that their movements can be followed easily, the wolves will be released.

The project is sponsored by the National Audubon Society, Northern Michigan University and Huron Mountain Wildlife Foundation.

South Loses; Officials Blasted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Normally placid Charlie Huggins was fuming. "How can I explain a loss like this to my kids after they worked 360 days a year for victory and then two officials steal it from them?" asked the Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South coach. Indian Valley South, 1972 state champion and 1973 state runnerup, was charged with three technical fouls during a 59-49 Class A state tournament semifinal loss to Lorain Clearview Thursday night.

"Officials should be of just as high a quality as the teams who have to work to get here," said a bristling Huggins.

"Tonight anyone could see they weren't." Clearview's victory, led by Player of the Year Larry Harris' 35 points, nine rebounds and five blocked shots, earned the Clippers, 23-2, a Saturday title shot against Pittsburgh Franklin-Monroe, 25-3, in St. John Arena. The Class AA and Class AAA semifinals were being played today in Ohio State's specious basketball palace. In Class AA, Akron Manchester, 24-0, played Cincinnati McNicholas, 19-6, at 11 a.m. and Genoa, 22-1, tangled with Columbus Hartley, 19-5, at 2:30 p.m.

In Class AAA, defending champion Cincinnati Elder, 21-3, opens against Mount Vernon, 19-4, at 6 p.m. and Canton McKinley, 24-0, goes against Toledo Scott, 22-2, at 9:30 p.m. The Class AA and Class AAA championship contests also are Saturday. Indian Valley South's tallest starter was 6-3 Steve Gregg, four inches shorter than the awesome Harris. And Gregg picked up three personal fouls in the opening quarter, sitting out the second and third periods. With Harris pouring in 11 points from inside and outside, Clearview reeled into a 10-point lead in the third quarter. Indian Valley South's season was over at 20-5. "Indian Valley South is well disciplined," said Clearview Coach Bob Walsh. "They usually are able to rattle a team into mistakes. Tonight we were as patient as they were, maybe even more so." Harris, who plays forward or center, nearly outscored the Rebels in the last two quarters. He had 24 points and the Indian Valley South team 28. Walsh has a pair of 6-5 players,

Larry Fortner and Randy Dlugosz, to go with Harris in a classic matchup with Franklin-Monroe's rugged front line. The trio of 6-5 Brian Jones, 6-4 Mike Cross and 6-2 Randy Spitler combined for 49 points to knock Riverdale out with a 21-4 record. "Whoever comes across the stronger inside will take it all," said Walsh. "I don't really know what we will use against them," the Clearview mentor said. "But that's not unusual when you build your offense around someone as versatile as Harris."

Phil Dubbs, Franklin-Monroe's mentor, worries about lack of a knockout punch from his Darke County Jets. "If we want to win this title," Dubbs said, "we're going to have to come up with a lot more of a killer instinct. We came here to win it all and I haven't seen anything to change my mind," he added.

Mark Smith, the Riverdale coach, second-guessed himself after the loss by his school, located in Hardin, Wyandot and Hancock counties.

"I should have gone to a man-to-man defense sooner," he said. "Our zone cost us several fouls. We were giving up second and third shots that shouldn't come off a zone."

Jones led Franklin-Monroe with 20 points, four more than two-time All-Ohioan Cross and seven more than Spitler.

Spitler, however, wrapped up the decision with two free throws. That gave the Jets a 57-53 lead with 41 seconds to play. Jim Rose, a 6-6 senior, hit 18 points and Mike Decker 14 for Riverdale.

Rangers, Flames Tie In NHL Clash

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports writer

The guy on the ice with the worst view of Pat Quinn's tying goal got the biggest kick from it.

He's Atlanta goalie Phil Myre and he's the same guy who had the best view of Rod Seiling's goal — after it got by him.

Seiling beat Myre on a slapshot from inside the blue line with 1:52 left in the game, but Myre had just 17 seconds to be upset. The action promptly shifted to the other end of the ice and Quinn scored with 1:35 remaining to give the Flames a 5-5 National Hockey League tie with the New York Rangers Thursday night.

"It was a good shot," said Myre speaking of Seiling's drive. "I thought it was wide, but it nicked the post and came in."

"You can bet I was the happiest person in the Omni when Quinn tied it for us later."

Elsewhere in the NHL, the Boston Bruins blanked the St. Louis Blues 7-0; the Philadelphia Flyers trimmed the Vancouver Canucks 3-1, and the Los Angeles Kings downed the California Seals 6-3.

The tie moved the fourthplace Flames six points ahead of St. Louis in their battle for the fourth and final playoff spot in the NHL West and moved the Rangers to within two points of second-place Montreal in the NHL East.

Blue, A's Defeat Milwaukee, 7-4

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Vida Blue, an American League Cy Young Award winner who has been trying since 1971 to prove it wasn't a fluke, is picking up where he left off last year in search of his rookie form.

Blue went to the mound in the sixth inning and retired 12 straight batters to lead the world champion Oakland

A's to a 7-4 exhibition baseball victory over Milwaukee Thursday.

Blue, who had an off season in 1972 after a long hold out over his contract, fanned three batters in his last four innings on the hill. Tim Hosley and Bill North gave the A's the runs they needed with a two-run homer each.

In other exhibition games, Pittsburgh split its squad to take a 7-4 victory over the New York Yankees and drop a 10-9 decision to Kansas City, Houston edged Atlanta 6-5 in 12 innings, Boston got by Montreal 7-6 in 10 innings, St. Louis shutout Detroit 2-0, Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 5-3, Minnesota eked out a 7-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox, San Francisco blanked Cleveland 5-0, the Chicago Cubs beat San Diego 9-8, and Los Angeles defeated Baltimore 3-2.

Dave Parker, an outfielder who's playing first base for the injured Bob Robertson, hit two solo home runs and a triple to pace the Pirates by the Yankees. Ken Brett, who gave up one run in the second and three in the third, was credited with the victory for seven innings on the mound. In the other half of the Pirate's twin bill, Kansas City's rookie outfielder, Al Cowens, singled in a run in the ninth inning to give the Royals a one-run victory. Milt May singled with two outs to give Houston a 12-inning decision over

Atlanta in another cliff hanger.

Craig Caskey's wild pitch in the 10th inning allowed Dick McAuliffe to score from third, lifting the Red Sox over Montreal.

Mike Garman threw five innings, allowing only one hit, and three Cardinal pitchers combined to shut out Detroit on just four hits.

Mike Anderson accounted for three of Philadelphia's runs with a homer in the fourth inning.

Minnesota got a clutch homer from Tony Oliva in the seventh inning, breaking open a tie game, and then held on to beat the White Sox.

Tom Bradley and Jim Willoughby allowed seven hits between them for the shutout and Cleveland gave up the two winning runs — both unearned — in the second inning on an error by Dwain Anderson.

John Grubb and Willie McCovey both committed eighth-inning errors that led to four Chicago runs, and Jose Cardenal hit a three-run homer to give the Cubs their close decision.

Jerry Royster smacked a two-run double in the ninth inning that lifted the Dodgers from a 2-1 deficit for the victory.

Braves Top Warriors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Golden State Warriors have an excuse; they're tired.

"Everyone's tired when they're losing," Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay said with a marked lack of sympathy Thursday night after his Braves' 115-102 victory — which seriously damaged the Warriors' chances of reaching the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"The schedule has gotten to us. You could see that. They just 'outquicked' us," losing Coach Al Attles said after the only NBA game of the night.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky defeated Memphis 121-103 and San Antonio beat Virginia 95-81.

Attles' team, seemingly in command of the Pacific Division race four days ago, has dropped three straight decisions to fall 1½ games behind Los Angeles. The schedule has assigned the Warriors 14 games so far this month, including six in the last eight nights. The Lakers can clinch the only open playoff berth by winning their last three games, starting with the one tonight against Chicago.

Garfield Heard made two free throws and a field goal in the final minutes, giving him 21 points for the game, after the Warriors had chopped the Buffalo lead from 23 points to six.

Warriors' Cazzie Russell and Butch Beard had 19 points each in the second half and shared game scoring honors with 27 apiece.

UCLA, N.C. State Clash In NCAA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — When UCLA, now two victories away from its eighth straight national basketball championship, takes the Greensboro Coliseum court Saturday afternoon against North Carolina State, the Bruins will find they are playing the entire Atlantic Coast Conference.

There's a fierce pride among ACC followers in the basketball achievements of its members.

When UCLA dropped two games in a weekend Oregon tour last month, N.C. State usurped the No. 1 national ranking the Bruins had regained in trimming Notre Dame.

State has held the No. 1 spot ever since and two other ACC teams remain in the top 10 nationally. Maryland, overtime loser to N.C. State in the ACC championship game at Greensboro two weeks ago, is No. 4 and North Carolina is No. 10.

This status symbol has caused ACC chests to swell in pride over what followers consider the toughest basketball conference in the land.

When UCLA and N.C. State meet at 3 p.m., EDT, two hours after Marquette and Kansas open Saturday's semifinals, ACC fans in the sellout crowd of 15,761 will forget their season-long differences and join in vocal support of Coach Norman Sloan's team against what they regard as the common enemy.

When N.C. State concluded its season with a 27-0 record last March, the Wolfpack was unable to compete for the NCAA crown due to a one-year probation for recruiting violations.

Again the 'Pack has stormed through to an unprecedented second straight unbeaten conference campaign. The national title is two victories away, but the immediate obstacle is UCLA, the only team to beat State in 56 games over two seasons.

That was in December in St. Louis, when UCLA, trailing by one point at the half, buried the Wolfpack in the second half and won easily 84-66.

Three-time All-American Bill Walton, who sat out 21 minutes of that game because of foul trouble, came back with 10 minutes left to spark the Bruins to victory.

Since then the Wolfpack has won 26 in a row and is 28-1 over-all. UCLA, ranked No. 2, has won its last seven and is 25-3.

UCLA carries a string of 38 straight NCAA tournament victories into the game.

Marquette, ranked third, is 25-4, while sixth-ranked Kansas is 23-5.

Both games will be televised nationally by NBC, as will Monday night's championship game at 9 p.m.

Farmers And Sportsmen Hold .22 Caliber Match

The Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Assn. held an NRA .22 caliber match at the indoor range on the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Thursday preceding the regular meeting.

Larry Smith fired the high score. During the regular meeting, Dave Massie, Archery division chairman, informed members the new archery course would be completed for the first match in April. A new shoulder patch for the Archery Division was approved. The patch, shaped like Pickaway County with a running buck deer on it will identify the club archers.

Dick Neblette high powered rifle chairman, announced three .30 caliber matches will be held at Camp Sherman

Range, Chillicothe. The dates are April 20-21; July 20-21; Aug. 17-18. The matches sponsored by the club will draw shooters from a four state area.

The fish and game contest trophies for 1973 were presented by club president William Clark.

Bill Shaffer received the first place trophy for whitetail deer taken with gun, the biggest woodchuck with gun, the best fox with gun and the biggest large mouth bass. Dick Redman received first place trophies for woodchuck with bow and arrow and grouse with gun. Don Mallow received first place trophies for whitetail deer with bow and arrow and Jack Willis received the first place trophy for the best ringneck pheasant specimen.

The 1974 fish and game contests began March 1 for active club members. The next work session at the club's recreation area will be 1 p.m. April 6.

Plans for having the club's archery booth and goldfish booth at the fair in July were announced.

Chisox Ponder Pitching Problems

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — If the pitching comes even close to the power, the Chicago White Sox may make a run — all the way — at the world champion Oakland A's this season.

But with spring training on the wane, Manager Chuck Tanner's mound staff is not exactly knocking anybody dead and the club reportedly was eyeing Sparky Lyle, discontented New York Yankee relief ace.

Beyond starters Wilbur Wood, Stan Bahnsen and Jim Kaat and the good bullpen duo of Terry Forster and Cy Acosta, Tanner is scratching to round out his planned nine-man pitching staff.

The regular White Sox line-up should be as formidable as Tanner enthusiastically claims with ex-Chicago Cub star Ron Santo joining such power men as Dick Allen, Bill Melton, Carlos May and Ken Henderson.

The Sox led the American League's West Division last season for 51 straight days until calamity struck in June with Allen suffering a leg fracture and Henderson a wrenched knee requiring surgery.

About the same time, Wood nose-dived after a 13-3 start to finish 24-20 and the Sox finally wobbled home fifth, 17 games behind the West champion A's.

Santo, tabbed primarily as a designated hitter, has worked out at first base as well as third base and obviously will be a high-priced backup man at both positions.

Tanner announced his starting line-up in January and there has been no change — yet.

It includes: Pat Kelly rf; Henderson cf; Allen 1b; Melton 3b; Santo dh; May rf; Jorge Orta 2b; Ed Herrmann c, and Bucky Dent ss.

However, the extremely promising Dent, 22, this week was mentioned as trade bait for the Yankees' Lyle.

Dent got in 40 games last season as Tanner experimented with youth late in the campaign and was impressive as he batted .248 and in one stretch, handled 101 consecutive chances at short without an error.

This spring, he got the call ahead of veteran Eddie Leon but Tanner conceded the Sox still would have a pennant chance with Leon or Luis Alvarado handling short.

The big man in the Sox line-up, obviously, is Allen, who has been setting his own spring pace with Tanner's blessing. Allen, the AL's Most Valuable Player in 1972, was batting .310 with 16 home runs and 41 runs batted in when he was hurt last June 29 in a first-base collision.

Tanner's No. 2 starter, Bahnsen, finished 18-21 last season. Kaat, the winningest active, left-handed AL pitcher, was purchased from the Minnesota Twins last August and wound up with a composite 15-13 mark.

Battling for the remaining four pitching berths, beyond Forster and Acosta, are Bill Morano draftee from the Red Sox organization; Jim Geddes, Rich Gossage, Bart Johnson and Bill McGlothlin.

A relief pitcher of Lyle's caliber, however, would enable Tanner to tab Forster his No. 4 starter, a spot of growing Sox concern. Lyle, who won five games and saved 27 for the Yankees last season, has reported to the New York camp without a contract.

George Foster Wins Place In Cincinnati Reds Lineup

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Outfielder George Foster has apparently won at least a platooning position with the Cincinnati Reds despite the current four-game exhibition losing streak.

Foster has so impressed Manager George "Sparky" Anderson that Anderson said Foster will probably start against lefthand pitchers.

Anderson said he'll probably assign Foster to center field, with Merv Rettenmund shifting to right.

Rettenmund will be in center against righthanders and Ken Griffey will be in right he said. Anderson had planned on using Rettenmund in center against all comers.

But, said Anderson, Foster is "busting his tail."

The Reds host the Montreal Expos today after dropping Thursday's exhibition game 5-3 to Philadelphia at Clearwater.

Anderson praised Foster for scoring from second base in the third inning with two out as Dan Driessen beat out a slow hopper to first base.

Mike Anderson of the Phils slammed a three-run homer in the fourth inning to ice the game, sending rookie southpaw Pat Osborn to the showers and possibly back to Indianapolis.

The Murray, Ky., native gave up five runs on seven hits. He had been a contender for a starting pitching job with the Reds this year.

"He didn't help himself today," said Anderson Thursday.

Tony Perez slammed a two-run homer off Steve Carlton in the third, ending the Cincinnati scoring.

Buddy Bell Faces Knee Examination

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Cleveland Indians third baseman Buddy Bell has been ordered to rest and will get another examination of his injured knee Monday.

Tribe brass were obviously concerned when the knee collapsed under Bell during a Cactus League game Thursday with the San Francisco Giants. However, Bell said after being examined by an orthopedic specialist that there was no more pain.

Darrell Knowles worked all seven games as a relief pitcher for Oakland in the 1973 World Series. He pitched less than seven innings.

Boston College Edges Connecticut

NEW YORK (AP) — Freshman Paul Berwanger was the last person that Boston College's Jere Nolan wanted to pass to with the final seconds ticking off on the Madison Square Garden clock and the Eagles one point behind.

But there was no time to be choosy and Berwanger came through, scoring with two seconds remaining to give Boston College a 76-75 victory over Connecticut Thursday night and a semifinal berth in the National Invitation Tournament.

Boston College will play Utah, which downed Memphis State 92-78.

"I have nothing against Paul," said Nolan after the game, "but he's just not the guy you want to take a shot like that. Even in practice, I don't pass to him unless he's right under the basket."

"But I saw that he had a small guy guarding him and I knew he'd be able to get off the shot."

The Eagles had to come back from a 17-point deficit, the result of a 25 per cent shooting performance from the field in the first half.

The Boston College offense in the first half was mostly at the free throw line. Only Bob Carrington, who scored four of the Eagles' eight field goals, provided much offensive punch.

But in the second half, Carrington was joined by Mark Raterink and the Eagles, helped by Connecticut's sudden chill at the foul line, came roaring back to tie the game with three minutes remaining on a basket by Will Morrison.

A basket by Jim Foster with 12 seconds remaining put Connecticut ahead 75-74 and set the stage for the game-winner by Berwanger, a nephew of the first winner of the Heisman College Football Trophy, Jay Berwanger.

Utah Coach Bill Foster almost ran into the same problem against Memphis State. Up 17 points in the first half and 10 at halftime, the Utes saw their lead dwindle and then disappear when they ran up against a zone defense which shut off Mike Sojourner, who had scored 16 points in the and grabbed 10 rebounds in the first half.

"The zone slowed us down," said Utah Coach Bill Foster. "We're a club that likes to run the whole game."

"Actually we didn't see that much of the zone this season."

Utah star Ticky Burden finished with 29 points while Tyrone Medley

had 26 and Sojourner finished with 19.

Memphis State, which caught the Utes at 65-65 before falling back, was led by Bill Cook who finished with 23 points and Dexter Reed who had 22.

Purdue and Jacksonville will face each other in the other end of the Saturday afternoon semifinals. Purdue ousted Hawaii 85-72 while Jacksonville slid by Maryland-Eastern Shore 85-83 Tuesday night.

Eight Girls Chosen Track Statisticians

By SHERI SMITH

Statistics are a very important part of the track team. Each year girls are chosen as track statisticians to record the times and distances of the cindermen.

This year the statistics are recorded by Kim Allison, Susan Estes, Connie Forrest, Suzy Kaylor, Becky Moorehead, Cathy Nelson, Chris Nelson, Cindy Sims, and Kym Timberlake.

Kim Allison, junior, is in charge of the high jump. She records the height of each contestant's jumps. This is Kim's second year as a stat, and she says "I enjoy it because I like meeting new people, and this is a good way to follow the track team."

"I like the opportunity it offers to meet new people," said Susan Estes, senior. This is Susan's third year as a track stat, and she is in charge of the finish line.

Senior Connie Forrest is one of the announcers. She announces the location and time of each event. Connie says, "I like being a track stat, because I get to see Wade run."

Suzy Kaylor, a senior has also been a track stat for three years. Suzy says, "Being a track stat is a good way to feel you're helping the team, plus the fact that it's a blast!" Suzy is in charge of running events.

Junior Becky Moorehead is in charge of the broad jump. She records the distance of each jump. This is Becky's second year as a stat, and her comment was, "I enjoy being a stat because it helps me learn more about track events, and it's a lot of fun."

Cathy Nelson, senior, in charge of running events, says that being a track stat is interesting as well as a good opportunity to go to all the meets. She has been a stat for three years.

Chris Nelson is the score keeper. She is a senior and has also been a stat for three years. Chris says, "Besides meeting new people, I enjoy being a stat because I get to see the team win, especially when winning means beating all of our rivals."

Cindy Sims is in charge of shot put and discus. Cindy, a senior, has been a stat for three years and she says that being a stat is "a lot of fun and I get to meet a lot of different people."

Senior Kym Timberlake is in charge of the finish line. "Being a stat provides a good opportunity to help support the Tiger team," commented Kym.

Guided Learning Program Planned For CHS Students

Students, are you interested in getting out of school, helping your community, and learning at the same time? Well, get into the new "other guided learning experiences" at CHS.

The Circleville Board of Education passed a new program for all students in the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades at their February meeting. It is called "other guided learning experiences."

The idea was in planning during the early part of the school year. Superintendent Fritz Jacobs met with a representative of the state department of education to review the program. According to Mr. Jacobs, the idea came about after a change in the state law which had required a student to be in school six hours per day. The board applied the conditions to the new program.

The program is set up so that a student who is in school for four classes plus physical education can include outside educational experiences during a portion of the official school day. This experience can be either volunteer work, employment, or independent studies. The other guided learning experiences must be related to the students' studies in school.

A few of these jobs include: hospital work, YMCA, Red Cross, Senior Center, child clinics, or any other type of community service. This program does not provide a credit toward the 17 credits required to graduate.

Mr. Jacobs explained that the reason the board approved this program is because they felt that students could utilize their time out of school as well as serve the needs of the students and the need of the community.

To be eligible for this program the student must fill out an application through the guidance office. The application must also be filled out by his parents and employer or advisor. It is then taken to the guidance office, and they, with the help of the principal, approve or disapprove it.

The student must return to school if the employer or supervisor is displeased. An evaluation sheet is filled out each month by the counselors and the employer or supervisor. This sheet becomes part of the student's permanent record. The student must keep up his academic grade average as well.

Mr. Jacobs said he is not familiar with any other schools in this area that have this type of program.

"I'm highly in favor of it. I hope it proves to be beneficial to the community and to the student," stated Mr. Jacobs, superintendent of Circleville City Schools.

If there are other questions about "other guided learning experiences," please contact the Circleville High School guidance office.

New Student Is Sophomore

DOUG BAKER

By ROBIN MARTIN

"It's pretty good," was the comment of Doug Baker when asked his opinion of Circleville High School. Doug, a new student at Circleville, is a sophomore.

He lives at 1064 Lynwood Avenue with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Radcliff. He has three brothers - Joel, Chris, and Mike.

Doug last attended Zane Trace High School, where he participated in track, band, a bowling league, and golf.

At CHS, Doug is active in cross country, the chess club, and track. He stated that his main interest is in track.

When asked his opinion of the town of Circleville, he replied, "It's okay. It is about the same as any small town."

By TAMMY MILLER

"I was thrilled!" was the reaction of senior Susan Marshall when she was chosen queen of the annual Service Over Self Sweetheart Dance, held last Saturday.

Susan is the daughter of Mrs. Roy C. Marshall, Route 3. A four-year SOS member, she is serving this year as president of the club. She is also active in the English Merit Society and National Honor Society. During her study halls, Susan works in the guidance office. She is employed at Knight Travel Service and is an active member of the Community United Methodist Church. In her spare time, Susan enjoys sewing, bowling and swimming.

"I want to thank all the people who worked so hard on the dance," Queen Susan stated. "I would especially like to thank Mr. Robert Lucas for donating his time and the Owens-Illinois Company for donating cardboard."

Senior Suzanne Schlegler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Schlegler, was chosen by the club to reign as first attendant. She resides at 391 Kingston Pike.

This year Suzanne is vice-president of the club. She has been a member of SOS for five years. She is also a member of the Latin Club and Future Secretaries of America. In her spare time, Suzanne likes to listen to the radio, hike and sew.

"I was very happy the club chose me as an attendant," Suzanne remarked.

Junior Mary Horst was selected as second attendant. This is the first year the club has chosen attendants from the entire club.

Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Horst, Route 2. Besides being a first-year member of SOS, Mary is also active in GAA, EMS and NHS. In her spare time she enjoys sewing.

Mary's first reaction to being chosen as second attendant was one of surprise. She stated, "I want to thank all the girls in SOS for everything."

Ohioans cannot expect much change in weather conditions for the next few days with cold temperatures and probability of some light snow in the picture.

High pressure held over the state during the night with associated clear skies and cold temperatures. A weak cold front moving rapidly eastward across the lower Great Lakes region will fringe southward into the northern portion of Ohio during the morning accompanied by some cloudiness and snow flurries. In southern Ohio south of the front skies will continue clear.

A developing low pressure system now in the northern plains states is forecasted to race rapidly eastward and bring an increase in cloudiness to the entire state tonight and tomorrow along with some light snow or snow flurries. Temperatures will continue on the cold side.

A brief moderating will occur in temperatures today especially in the southern sections, but colder air will move back into the area tomorrow.

Kidnapers Still Silent In California

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — It has been 12 days since the last communication from the terrorist kidnapers of Patricia Hearst, but the FBI says it is not alarmed.

Charles Bates, agent in charge of the case, said Thursday he was not particularly concerned about the silence, the second longest since Miss Hearst was abducted from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

In its last communique March 10, the Symbionese Liberation Army, which says it is holding the 20-year-old coed, said it would suspend communications unless two purported SLA members were allowed to make a statement on nationwide television.

The two, Joseph Remiro, 27, and Russell Little, 24, are being held on charges of slaying Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster last November.

When questioned about the latest silence, Bates said, "... The SLA's last demand was that Remiro and Little be given a television interview, and Mr. Hearst has been working on that."

Miss Hearst's father, Randolph A. Hearst, has vowed to try and persuade the courts to grant the appearance, but one judge already has refused. Hearst is editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp.

The longest silence from the kidnapers was 17 days.

The FBI has described the SLA as a terrorist organization with some 25 members.

Woman With Jaws Wired Shut Loses Both Weight, Privacy

GIBRALTAR, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Debi Horn, the 229-pound woman who had her mouth wired shut to lose weight three months ago, says she also has lost some privacy and the right to visit her mother-in-law.

A case of jangled nerves from a constantly ringing telephone even put her in the hospital for a few days last week.

But Mrs. Horn, who is down to a slim 184 pounds, vows she will wear the wires for another two months to reach 140.

"My mother-in-law said she thought this was stupid," Mrs. Horn said. "She didn't want me to ever come over to her house with my braces on."

But that isn't the worst part.

"Women were calling me all the time," she said. "I had to take the telephone off the hook to go to sleep. There were calls up to one o'clock in the morning."

"I was real upset by last Friday, so my doctor put me right in the hospital and wouldn't let me have any calls or visitors."

$871 Per Pupil Spent In State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School systems in Ohio spent an average of $871 per pupil in the 1972-73 fiscal year, the state Public Expenditure Council reported Thursday.

The council said the state spent $2.1 billion on schools and school functions in the period, an increase of 10.3 per cent from the previous year.

Claim Gilligan Packing Payroll

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial hopeful James Nolan accused Gov. John J. Gilligan Thursday night of packing the payroll.

Nolan said in campaign appearances in the Cleveland area that the state payroll has increased by 6,184 persons since Gilligan took office in 1971.

He said there were 42,017 employees on the state rolls in 1971 and that the number has increased to 48,201 at a cost of nearly $100 million.

Skyjack Attempt Ends In Shooting

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Bertha Horton, whose son allegedly kidnapped a $1 million airplane hijacking, says she could "never tell what he was going to do."

The Toledo woman said she gave her son bus fare to Detroit two weeks ago when he planned to move his things here and heard no more until Wednesday's aborted hijacking attempt.

Metzenbaum Still Studies Oil Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said Thursday he still was studying statements sent to him by Standard Oil of Ohio in his investigation of the company's accounting practices.

He said he would make an announcement after he has completed analysis of the statements, since "I don't want to shoot from the hip until I have all the information on hand..."

On campaign contributions, Metzenbaum told newsmen one reason Ohio Republicans had raised more money than state Democrats to date is that "the fat cats are mainly in the Republican Party."

He said he had a special problem in raising funds for his campaign since his image is that of a wealthy man. He added that he favored public financing of campaigns, saying he found it "just a wee bit degrading to ask for money."

Metzenbaum scoffed at a private poll reportedly showing his Ohio Democratic primary rival, John Glenn, leading him by 11 per cent.

The senator said the ex-astronaut had not indicated whether the statewide poll, conducted for him by pollster Peter Hart, was of Democrats, independents or what.

Glenn said this week the poll, based on telephone interviews of 500 to 800 persons, showed him leading Metzenbaum 47.5 per cent to 36.5 per cent, with 18 per cent undecided.

Metzenbaum said he learned long ago not to place too much reliance on polls. "If I had concerned myself about the polls in 1970 I would not have been a candidate for the Senate," he said.

Metzenbaum defeated Glenn in the 1970 Democratic primary after the polls showed him trailing, but lost to Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr. in the general election.

Family Dog Saves Life Of Little Boy

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Toodles came home to a hero's welcome Thursday after doctors credited the dog with saving his young master's life when the two spent a cold and rainy night in the woods.

Searchers found little Solomon Brewer Jr., 4, and Toodles walking through a field Thursday morning about three miles from their farm home at Stalkdale.

The boy's mother, Margaret Brewer, said doctors at Scioto Memorial Hospital, where the youngster was examined and found to be unharmed, reported "the warmth of the dog saved Junior's life."

"He told me Toodles had dug him a hole in the ground and he had slept next to him," Mrs. Brewer said.

Mrs. Brewer said the boy and his dog wandered away from home Wednesday about 6 p.m. "I looked for Junior for about an hour and when I couldn't find him, I went for help," she recalled.

A search party of deputy sheriffs, firemen, neighbors and school boys from area communities hunted throughout the night with no success.

"I was frantic. I just knew Junior was going to get wet and freeze to death," his mother said.

"We were afraid he may have fallen into the Little Scioto River."

Glenn Backs Strict Reclamation Plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A candidate for the U.S. Senate from Ohio said Thursday strip miners in the state will be at a competitive disadvantage unless Congress resists pressure to weaken a federal coal mining control bill.

John Glenn, campaigning for the Democratic nomination, said in a statement "strict land reclamation requirements have worked in Ohio."

Any federal reclamation law, he said, should be "at least as strict as Ohio's."

Veto Proof Congress Seen By Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats heard predictions they will win a veto-proof congressional majority this November and laughed at anti-Nixon wisecracks at their annual $500-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

The financial take, probably between $600,000 and $700,000 fell short of a year ago, when the dinner raised a Democratic record of $960,000. About 2,000 attended this year's dinner.

The Republicans hold their fund-raiser next Wednesday with President Nixon as the chief speaker. Tickets are $1,000 each and their sales also are down from 1973, when they raised their smallest total in years, about $900,000.

The predictions of November victory came from House Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio, chairman of the House Democratic Campaign Committee.

"The way things are going now we're going to have a veto-proof Congress next year," Hays said.

Although the Democrats hold majorities of 246 to 187 in the House and 58 to 42 in the Senate they have been able only once in ten tries to muster the two-thirds vote needed to override vetoes by President Nixon.

In an apparent reference to the possibility the House may impeach Nixon, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted "the months ahead will be difficult, more difficult than those we have just gone through" as the courts and Congress deal with the impact of Watergate.

Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas, chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, offered a toast to the White House, saying "in these days of blatant nudity, it is reassuring to hear there are some people who still believe in covering up."

Comedian Mort Sahl delivered most of the attempts at anti-Nixon humor, including a crack that the President will resign "and become a tax consultant," a reference to his much-publicized tax troubles.

Savings Bond Sales Announced

January 1974 sales of Series E & H United States Savings Bonds in Ohio were $40.9 million. At the end of January, the State attained 9.7 per cent of its 1974 sales goal of $421.2 million.

Kenneth F. Fosnough, Pickaway County Volunteer Savings Bonds Chairman, reported January sales of Savings Bonds in the County were $33,905. The County achieved 8.9 per cent of its annual sales goal of $379,080 on January 31.

Making an already attractive security even more so, The Treasury Department announced, retroactive to December 1, 1973, an increase to 6 per cent in the Savings Bonds interest rate with a maturity of five years on E Bonds.

Royal Family Shuns 'Bullet-Proof Cages'

LONDON (AP) — The royal family has "no intention of living in bullet-proof cages" despite the attempt to kidnap Princess Anne, Buckingham Palace says.

"Princess Anne has always liked meeting people and enjoying her own private life. I don't think this will change," a palace spokesman said Thursday.

But Scotland Yard said all members of the royal family will receive extra protection for the next few months. Two motorcycle policemen and an unmarked police radio car escorted the Duchess of Gloucester, the queen's aunt, to a banquet in London Thursday.

Anne and her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips, escaped injury Wednesday night when a gunman forced their limousine to a halt 150 yards from the palace and pumped bullets into it. The couple's bodyguard and three other persons were wounded.

The assailant, apparently bent on kidnaping the princess, couldn't open the locked car doors, and a policeman's tackle brought him down. Three pairs of handcuffs and a rambling letter demanding ransom of 2 million pounds — $4.6 million — for the princess were found in his hired car.

New Parks Commissioner Stays Up Past Her Bedtime

SAN ANSELMO, Calif. (AP) — In her first meeting as a parks and recreation commissioner, Atha Mathieu voted against poison oak removal, won a fight for a bigger community building and didn't get a bit bored.

The last item wouldn't be news, except that opponents of her appointment had predicted Miss Mathieu would lose interest, become distracted and fidget during the commission's lengthy budget sessions.

Atha is 12. "I'm not bored," she declared Wednesday night during a recess in the meeting. Under review was a proposed $252,688 budget for the coming fiscal year.

And she managed to stay wide awake until the meeting adjourned at 11:15 p.m., well after her normal 8:30 p.m. bedtime.

Atha, a seventh grader, was appointed to the unpaid seat by the city council on a 3-2 vote March 12. She had written the council saying that "parks are for children and we need representation."

A middle-aged housewife with four children and two grandchildren was her only rival for the seat. It became vacant when one of the seven commissioners resigned.

The commission is an advisory body to the council in this moderate-income city of 12,000 persons about 20 miles

A 26-year-old unemployed laborer, Ian Ball, appeared in court Thursday on a charge of attempting to murder the royal bodyguard. He was ordered held in jail for a week while Scotland Yard continued its investigation of the first attack on a member of the royal family since 1939.

Police would give no information about Ball, but informed sources said they were trying to discover how he got nearly $700 worth of 10-pound notes that were found on him. They said the car had been rented in the name of John Williams, a named used by Ball in correspondence he received at a mail-reception agency in London.

Police said the motive for the attack was not political, and Home Secretary Roy Jenkins told the House of Commons "there is no present indication that this was other than an isolated act by an individual."

Anne and her husband traveled back to Sandhurst Military Academy, where he is stationed, by separate cars late Wednesday, and the army put a massive guard on their house there. But both resumed normal life Thursday, with Anne exercising her horses and her husband instructing cadets on the rifle range.

north of San Francisco. Atha lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mathieu, and her brother David, 10.

In her letter, Atha said she opposed women's lib "because they put up such a fuss" but said she supported "children's liberation." She proposed putting suggestion boxes in all schools to solicit ideas about parks and recreation from her peers.

At Wednesday's meeting, Atha wound up on the losing side of a 5 to 2 vote in favor of spending $380 to hire a man to tear poison oak out of a picnic area.

"We should just put signs on it so people will know," she argued.

But she had more success in convincing fellow commissioners to urge the enlarging of a planned community building from 2,000 to 2,500 square feet. After extensive debate, the final vote was 7 to 0 in favor of expansion.

Daydreams OK, Claims Psychologist

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Daydreaming Americans who think they are wasting their time should dream on for pleasure and mental health, according to a Yale University psychologist.

"I think that we can learn to use our daydreams much more than we do," Prof. Jerome L. Singer said Thursday.

Singer said that daydreams determine a person's moods and relationships with others. Often, he said, people do not know it.

"We can become more aware of some of the more interesting aspects of our personalities. We can play with our fantasies and help the time pass in relatively boring situations. We can develop a certain increase in aesthetic sensitivity," he said in an interview Thursday night.

Daydreams also can be used to make plans and work out problems, he added.

"In psychotherapy there's an increasing movement to use the daydream and the capacity to daydream as a very central part of the treatment process and to help people overcome their fears through systematic kinds of daydream trips," Singer added.

Singer said research has shown an upsurge in awareness of daydreams when people are preparing for bed because they have fewer distractions at that time.

Sewer Ban Proposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency has filed new regulations for sewer connection bans which the agency director says will be fairer than the old rules.

The bans prohibit extension of or connections to existing sewer facilities. Ohio EPA director Ira L. Whitman said the bans are needed when additional connections would increase water pollution.

"Many areas of the state have experienced rapid population growth and sudden development without increasing their capacity to treat the accompanying waste," Whitman said.

He said past bans were applied haphazardly. Under the new regulations, he said, bans would be implemented more fairly.

The new regulations also require the EPA to specify when and how the ban can be lifted, Whitman said, and how a new facility could be exempted from the ban.

Social Security Offers Plan For Self-Employed Persons

People with low net earnings from non-farm self-employment may get social security credit if they report their earnings by an optional method similar to one available to farmers.

The option is available for the first time to people reporting non-farm self-employment earnings for 1973, according to Harry B. Bieber, social security district manager in Chillicothe. "Instead of reporting their net earnings for the year," he said, "people can report up to two-thirds of their gross earnings from self-employment for social security credit — if two-thirds is $400 or more, but less than $1,600."

Previously, people who worked in non-farm self-employment got no social security credit if their net earnings for a year were under $400. Now they can get credit if their net is under $400 but their gross is from $600 to $2,400 and they report their earnings by the optional method.

Earnings reports and social security tax should be sent with income tax returns to the internal Revenue Service by April 15.

Eligibility for social security benefits depends on credits earned by people who work in jobs covered by social security. The amount of their monthly social security benefits is based on the worker's average earnings over a period of years. "The new non-farm option may be used only by people who had net self-employment earnings of $400 or more for at least 2 out of the 3 previous years," Mr. Bieber said. Under the law, the option may be used only five times.

For more information, call, write, or visit the social security office at Chillicothe, 606 Central Center. The phone number is 775-4950.

Say Nixon Homes Cost Taxpayers Up To $17 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee report passed over strong Republican objections says President Nixon's homes have cost taxpayers $17 million — some of it for loosely authorized items "far in excess of security needs."

The White House called the report a deliberate deception.

Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Tex., disclosed brief highlights of the report Thursday before his House government activities subcommittee approved it on a straight 6-4 party line vote.

Brooks told newsmen he does not consider the report a shocker, but rather a delineation of facts that came out during his subcommittee's public hearings in October.

The report makes no accusations against Nixon, according to the subcommittee's senior Republican, Rep. John Buchanan of Alabama.

But Republicans strongly objected before the vote to subcommittee action on the report, challenging its findings and contending they didn't know it existed until Monday.

Brooks said in a prepared statement the report's findings concern:

—"The loose arrangements by which the General Services Administration paid for items not requested by the Secret Service.

—"The manner in which the Secret Service submitted after-the-fact requests.

—"The procurement of items far in excess of security needs.

—"The obligation of federal funds by non-government personnel.

General Assembly Clearing Decks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 110th General Assembly will work Monday through Thursday the next two weeks to clear the decks of major legislation and recess for a month beginning April 4.

Both houses are to convene Monday at 8 p.m. for floor sessions. They usually begin the week's activities at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesdays.

Before recessing for the week, the House passed 62-26 a bill to strengthen child abuse laws and in a resolution called upon Congress to repeal winter Daylight Saving Time.

The House Rules Committee, for the second time in a row, was unable to muster the necessary votes to get a floor vote on a bill banning the so-called "Saturday night special" handgun.

Rep. C. J. McLin, D-36 Dayton, who asked for a vote on the measure, said he later got assurances the necessary seven votes would be available Tuesday. It received only five Thursday.

Court Backs Sirica

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court has moved the House Judiciary Committee a step closer to access to a secret grand jury report on President Nixon's role in Watergate.

In an opinion Thursday the court rejected requests that it reverse U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica's order sending the grand jury report to the committee.

The appeals court delayed delivery of the report until 5 p.m. Monday to give attorneys time to take the case to the Supreme Court.

President Nixon did not oppose sending the report to the House, a fact cited by both Sirica and the appeals court.

But attorneys for H. R. Haldeman, former White House staff chief, and Gordon C. Strachan, a former Haldeman aide, opposed sending the report to the House on the grounds its contents probably would be made public and result in publicity that could make it impossible for them to obtain a fair trial.

Haldeman and Strachan were among seven former administration or campaign aides indicted March 1 for allegedly trying to block the Watergate investigation. The grand jury gave Sirica its sealed report and a satchel filled with evidence at the same time it returned the indictment.

Lawyers for Haldeman and Strachan said they were undecided on whether to ask the Supreme Court to overrule the appeals court.

Judge George E. MacKinnon dissented in part from the decision, saying he believed the grand jury exceeded its authority in turning over the sealed report and satchel of evidence, and recommending that the House committee be given access to the entire grand jury proceedings, but only after the trial is completed.

During the oral argument, Philip Lacovara, counsel for the special prosecutor, said the material given Sirica by the grand jury focuses on the President's role, and that "incidental references" to Haldeman and Strachan "do not go beyond the allegations in the indictment."

In other Watergate-related developments:

—American Bar Association President Chesterfield Smith said Nixon's refusal to hand over all Watergate evidence to the Judiciary Committee amounts to obstruction of justice.

—Nixon's popularity dropped to all-time lows in two polls, with 25 per cent approving of the way he's doing his job, according to the Gallup Poll, and 26 per cent according to a Louis Harris survey.

—Two members of the Judiciary Committee said equal television time should be given for a response to Nixon's comments about the committee.

—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Nixon should voluntarily file amended tax returns and pay any additional income tax for past years. Mills is vice chairman of the joint congressional committee that is looking into Nixon's tax affairs.

Famine Strikes Deep In Ethiopia

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer

HARRAR, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopia's Harrarge Province, a mountainous, semidesert region as big as Italy, has six weeks to live, its officials say.

Without huge grain handouts and without rain, the remaining cattle herds will die. Tens of thousands of peasant farmers and nomad herders will starve. The eastern fifth of Ethiopia will turn into a dust bowl.

Drought is affecting seven of the country's 14 provinces, where nearly two-thirds of the 26 million Ethiopians live. Some qualified observers say 200,000 or more have starved to death, double the estimated toll less than a year ago and more than in the six-nation West African drought.

The rain is up to Allah, Harrarge's devout Moslems say. The grain is up to National Relief Commissioner Shimelis Adugna, a 38-year-old social worker named by Ethiopia's new government this month to boss a slack and stumbling drought relief bureaucracy.

"The government has given me a free hand, and I intend to act swiftly," Shimelis said in an interview in Addis Ababa. "Even if there is no rain, I think we will be able to avert further major loss of life."

Aid personnel say the 264,000 tons of relief grain needed for 1974 is assured, including 50,000 tons from the United States. But foreign relief experts and many Ethiopians think the odds are stacked against Shimelis — and against the estimated 3 million Ethiopians that are going hungry.

It has been raining in Wollo and in the south, promising some crops by midyear. But nobody knows how many may be starving or sick in vast, unmapped sections where a four-wheel-drive vehicle can make only six miles an hour over the rocks, and where even missionaries rarely penetrate.

A Western relief expert who has traveled widely in Ethiopia says another wave of starvation that would dwarf the 1973 crisis could develop within two months.

"To say things have improved is to compare Ethiopia to a man standing on a railroad track with a freight train coming around the bend," he commented. "He's all right until it hits him."

Shimelis needs to do something in a hurry about Harrarge province. From 70 to 90 per cent of the cattle have died, and most of the 2 million farmers and 1.2 million nomads are down to their last handfuls of grain. Haile Mariam, an assistant to the provincial governor, says food grain reserves total about 2,200 tons — a day's ration for less than 4.5 million people.

Some 12,000 more tons arrived in Djibouti, the nearby French port on the Gulf of Aden, early in February. The grain is still waiting to be loaded on the five-car trains that can shuttle only 125 tons a day to Harrarge.

In the far desert reaches of the province near the border with Somalia, lions and hyenas are beginning to eat famine-weakened nomads. Tens of thousands of them have fled across the border to seek grazing land. Even the camels are dying.

Kronholm Ransom Recovered

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Authorities have arrested a second man in connection with the kidnaping of a banker's wife and have recovered all but $100 of the $200,000 ransom paid.

The FBI identified the second man as Frederick Henry Helberg, 43, a South St. Paul welder and carpenter. They arrested him Thursday in Minneapolis.

Authorities said Helberg would be arraigned today before U.S. Magistrate J. Earl Cudd on charges of violating the Hobbs Act, which involves extortion.

Helberg was arrested for the abduction of Eunice Kronholm, 46, Lino Lakes. Her husband, Gunnar, had paid $200,000 ransom. He is president of the Drivers State Bank of South St. Paul.

James William Johnson, 35, Lakeville, was arrested Monday and was charged with violation of the Hobbs Act. He was being held on $100,000 bail.

Mrs. Kronholm was taken from her home last Friday morning. On Monday evening she talked one of her captors into releasing her after hearing on the radio that Johnson had been arrested.

Pentagon Ends Discharge Code

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department is about to abolish a controversial code that allowed employers to identify alleged homosexuals, alcoholics or drug users even though they received honorable discharges from service.

Pentagon sources say Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger has the papers on his desk abolishing separation program designators, as the code numbers are called. Officials said they have no doubt he will sign them, perhaps today.

There has been considerable pressure from Capitol Hill and elsewhere to abolish the system, under which a commanding officer can indicate that a departing serviceman wet his bed, had financial problems, misused drugs or alcohol or had other difficulties making him unsuitable for military service.

Pentagon officials had defended the system as necessary for the 88 per cent of servicemen discharged routinely. They were said to need the codes to prove in effect that they received a good recommendation from their former military service.

It is the other 12 per cent who concerned congressional critics like Rep. Edward Koch, D-N.Y. He said this week that employers frequently misused the code by obtaining corresponding numbers for each reason for unsuitable discharge.

Koch and a number of congressional investigators have found misuse of the code, although it is Pentagon policy to keep it out of private hands.

In recent months, parts of the code and reasons for unsuitable discharges have been published in various newspapers.

Although a serviceman might have received an honorable discharge, the code on his papers indicates the reason for the discharge, including different kinds of aberrational behavior.

Gas Shortage Not Ended For Ohioans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio gasoline dealers complained Thursday that President Nixon misled the public into believing the fuel crisis was easing when he announced he no longer was asking service stations to close on Sundays.

"He gave the impression there's loads of gas available, and that's just not true," said James V. Cresente, executive director of Northern Ohio Petroleum Retailers Association.

"I don't see any local gas stations opening Sundays until mid-July," predicted Jerry Imes, Central Ohio Gas Dealers president.

"And when the consumer sees the price of gas by then, it won't make any difference," he said.

Gov. John J. Gilligan said Nixon was seeking "cheap applause" with his announcement.

An energy researcher at Batelle Memorial Institute in Columbus said stopping the campaign against Sunday gas sales "gives the impression we are out of the woods on the fuel problem when we are not anywhere near there."

Another Battelle expert predicted motorists would go back to speeds of 70 m.p.h. "driving us right back into the soup again."

"I had a dealer call me yesterday asking how he could get in touch with the President to get more gasoline," said Mike Kunnen, president of the Greater Cincinnati Gasoline Dealers Association.

Kissinger Seeks Moscow Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he will seek a breakthrough in Moscow that could produce a concrete treaty to limit nuclear weapons by the end of 1974.

Kissinger told a news conference Thursday that prospects are reasonably good. But he also cautioned that relations between the two powers are passing through a difficult period.

The secretary, who leaves this weekend, said rapid improvement of nuclear weapons has slowed progress on a treaty. Congress' unwillingness to grant trade benefits to the Soviet Union and friction in the Middle East also contribute to the difficulty, he said.

And yet, Kissinger absolved Moscow of blame for Syrian clashes with Israel in the Golan Heights and said: "Both of us have an obligation to contribute to peace and both of us are exchanging ideas on the subject."

The United States and Soviet Union signed their first nuclear weapons agreement in 1972, restricting defensive systems and putting temporary limits on some offensive weapons.

The current second round of SALT talks involves an exchange of technical information, but also a stalemate in the negotiating process, Kissinger said.

"Then a point is reached... where the two sides have to agree on what it is they are trying to accomplish. And after that there has to be the hard negotiation on giving concrete content to this conceptual breakthrough," he said.

Tabs Kept On Alcohol; Lesson For Oil Industry

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If oil were liquor, the government would know where to find virtually every drop of it.

The national debate over whether the energy crisis is real or contrived would disappear as fast as a flask of whisky at a college football game.

The Treasury Department's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division keeps such close tabs on liquor and beer inventories of distilleries and breweries that it can tell almost instantly how much is stocked.

Energy officials agree that if they had such legal controls over oil inventories there would be no trouble convincing the public the fuel shortage is real.

The division's monitoring of liquor inventories is so extensive that federal employees are stationed in many distilleries and bonded warehouses, keeping the premises under lock and key so that no liquor is illegally removed.

All this is done for tax purposes, to collect the federal levy on beer and alcoholic beverages. The controls on inventories are more than 100 years old, but have been altered over the years.

In addition to domestically produced liquor and beer, the Customs Bureau keeps accurate records on alcoholic beverages shipped from other countries.

The Treasury's liquor and beer watchers number about 800 nationally. They conduct spot inspections, check records required by law, and handle "work-back" audits to make sure distilleries and breweries aren't misleading the government.

Treasury officials in charge of the program didn't know whether the same kind of inventory controls could be put on the oil industry.

But one thing is for sure. If the nation ever had a liquor shortage, there'd be no question about whether it was real.

Cable Project Completed By GTE

Completion of a major cable addition for growth in the Circleville exchange was announced today by General Telephone Co. of Ohio.

William D. Anderson, Circleville customer service manager, said the $47,300 project was designed to provide for upgrading existing services and allow for future growth in the area.

The new cable, which will serve the area southeast of Circleville, was buried where possible.

"Burying cable enhances the natural beauty of the landscape and reduces service outages from severe weather conditions and automobile accidents," the manager said.

Portions of the new cable will replace existing facilities for maintenance reasons.

The Circleville exchange serves 11,481 telephones in a 187.4 square-mile area of Pickaway and Fairfield counties.

Couple Slain; Had Planned To Testify

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A casino manager scheduled to testify in a federal organized crime case in Los Angeles was gunned down with his wife as they arrived home from work, police here reported.

John Dubeck, 31, the shift manager at the Westward Ho Casino, and his wife, Francis Ann, 27, a casino employee, were felled by shotgun blasts fired from close range as they walked up to their apartment shortly before midnight Tuesday. Police said Dubeck was shot in the back and his wife was hit in the face as she turned toward her husband, who was following her.

Richard Crane, a spokesman for the Justice Department's organized crime task force in Los Angeles, said Dubeck was scheduled to testify in the trial of seven men indicted last November on gambling charges stemming from an investigation into an illegal crap game allegedly operating in the San Fernando Valley area of Los Angeles.

Officers said the slayer apparently waited in the parking lot of the Dubeck's apartment building and opened fire when the couple entered the courtyard.

Police said the slayings apparently were well-planned. "There's not much to go on right now," one investigator said.

Dubeck was scheduled to testify Tuesday in the trial of Peter Milano, Martin C. Calaway, Harry P. Coloduros, Santo Albert Manfre, Tony Andreola, John Vaccaro and Luigi Gelfuso. Vaccaro is from Las Vegas, Gelfuso lives in Fresno and the rest are from Los Angeles, Crane said.

Chillicothe Guard Strike Talks Slated

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Another negotiating session between Chillicothe Correctional Institute officials and striking guards was set for today in an effort to settle a dispute over job assignments.

Meanwhile, about 30 guards and supervisory personnel remained on duty in the medium security prison. The 1,200 inmates were on a holiday schedule with work assignments and programs canceled.

Joe Ashley, a spokesman for the Rehabilitation and Correction Department, said there had been no problem maintaining order in the facility.

Officials met with the guards, members of Local 1890 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Thursday without making progress in resolving the dispute.

Ashley quoted Supt. Frank Gray as saying the two sides were "pretty far apart."

Ashley criticized the guards for striking before going into arbitration as provided under existing procedures.

Ted Clemmons of the union's Council 21 said the union had tried several times to arrange arbitration with the state and, failing again Wednesday, decided to strike.

Acting Chief Named At Kent

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Sgt. Donald Lemons, 51, a veteran of 25 years on the force, has been named acting chief of police here until a new permanent chief is picked.

Mayor Joseph Sorboro said Thursday civil service commissioners are making plans for a test, but he added they also may consider a change in the city charter to permit the mayor to name the chief.

Former Police Chief Joseph Myers resigned Wednesday in the wake of disclosure of funds unaccounted for in the department.

Myers denied any wrongdoing but said he resigned rather than put his family and the department through a court trial.

What's A Den?

Poor ol' dad! The nuclear-age cry "No place to hide" fits him perfectly. Formerly he had a place he called his "den" where he could scatter pipe ashes to his heart's content, never had to sort out his magazines and papers, could wear his old, worn slippers—and most important of all, be alone.

Now experts report, this refuge for mental rehabilitation is passe. The den has become a "family room," an "activities room," a "hobby room." "Togetherness" is the goal.

All experts on youth say boys and girls should have rooms of their own, places where they can get away from the family and work or play in solitude. But no one considers Pa.

An Unlikely Pair

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Politics never made stranger bedfellows than at the Executive Club of Chicago, when Richard Nixon and Richard Daley stood arm in arm, smiling for the cameras. One can now expect a merger of cobras and mongooses, multiple marriages between the McCoys and the Hatfields, and loving reunions between Charles O. Finley and Dick Williams, and John Wayne and Geronimo.

Politicians and people who have been expecting Mr. Nixon to resign or to be dumped were reminded, by the Nixon-Daley meeting and the cordial reception given to the President by the assemblage, that Richard Nixon may be the most durable pol we've ever had in the White House. He has proved since 1946 that no matter how many times he is flattened he can get up off the canvas and dance, jab, punch, laugh and talk himself out of difficulties that would have caused Lincoln to defect to Atlanta and the prophet Job to take the pipe.

The man is indestructible, one must concede.

There has been wholesale condemnation and damnation of him and the men he selected to front for him. In the media, his defenders are hard to find; his accusers outnumber them 100 to 1, and come armed with an incredible number of facts and figures to prove their points. But he waved all this aside, over the remains of the luncheon at Chicago. "False charges," he said. Period.

The only boo that was heard at the Conrad Hilton Hotel that lunchtime was not, incredibly enough, aimed at Nixon. It was directed at the businessman who wondered aloud why he didn't quit and say what he had to say as a plain citizen.

He brushes aside, as if the subjects were beneath attention, such appalling matters as lost and semi-erased tape recordings, the matter of whether he sold his Vice Presidential papers before or after the cutoff point on such transactions, the millions of dollars spent on his various homes in the name of security, the indictments of his trusted associates, and the broad hints by Wilbur Mills and other respected Congressmen that the tax findings will be the biggest bombshell of them all.

Bombshells come and go. Nixon speaks of serving out his term with the same confidence as a pope might display. He plays piano for Pearl Bailey, and doesn't blink an eye when she abuses him as Joe E. Lewis used to heckle his accompanist, Austin Mack, in their nightclub act.

There is no reason to believe that Nixon media critics, the intellectual community, Democrats, liberals and an impressive percentage of young America will refrain from blasting him left and right through the next three years. But there is beginning to be no reason to doubt that he'll somehow roll with the punches. He'll always have an answer; he'll always have some way of ducking the most determined Sunday punches of the opposition.

One of the questions shot at him at his news conference in Chicago had to do with whether impeachment charges should be laid down by this or that body of government. Nixon said that this must be left to the language of the Constitution—and that just happens to be as fuzzy as an out-of-focus snapshot. It speaks of "... treason, bribery or other high crimes or misdemeanors..." How can these words hold still long enough for a microscopic view, he asked in effect. He also wondered, in his own rhetorical way, what the hell this constitutional clause had to do with Watergate. Everybody clapped.

He made the statistical clamor for impeachment, resignation and his swooning acceptance, as shown in the highly believable polls, sound like a conspiracy to force him to weaken the office of the Presidency for all time, by agreeing to bow out. It sounded very patriotic, as he expressed it. "I will not be a party to the destruction of the Presidency of the United States," he said. Jefferson could not have said it better.

He said cheerfully that Watergate was a "stupid action," with as much ringing sincerity as Larry O'Brien

Impeachment

By JIM BISHOP

There was a buzz in the Senate gallery. Fashionable ladies whispered and shook the cold rain from their furs. Distinguished gentlemen set solemn chins on furled umbrellas. Chief Justice Salmon Chase swept in, holding his black robes clutched in his hand. The buzz stopped.

The day was March 5th, 1868. A clerk stood and intoned that the Senate of the United States of America "is convened as a court of impeachment for the trial of the President of the United States." He sat. Henry Stanbery stood. The former Attorney General had resigned to become chief of defense counsel for Andrew Johnson, Democrat, 17th President of the United States.

"The President enters his appearance," he said, "with my presence here." The roll was called. Fifty-four Senators stood, in turn, behind gleaming cherrywood desks to announce their presence. Justice Chase said he recognized them, collectively, as a court of impeachment.

The gallery was disappointed when the Chief Justice announced that the trial would begin on Friday, March 13th. They had come to see an oak tree fall, and there had not been the snap of a twig.

In the White House, Andrew Johnson locked fingers behind his back and stared out of the office next to his bedroom at the marching rows of rain. He said he would like to appear in person before the Senate, but had been counselled against it. His enemies would bait his fiery tongue.

The private secretary wrote: "The President declares that the defense he desires to make is for the people—not merely for the Senate—and that he would care nothing for conviction by that body if he stands acquitted by the nation."

The question went deeper than guilt or acquittal. In the same decade, the might muster. And as if he were washing his hands of it in the luncheon table's finger bowl. The country's had enough of Watergate, he decreed, to applause. It made all the pending trials, the possible release of an anti-Nixon grand jury report to the House Judiciary Committee, and the unfinished report of the Senate Watergate committee sound like so much fodder for a shredding machine.

But the strength of Nixon under pressure was perhaps best evidenced by his easy manner with Mayor Daley. It has been the solid belief of Nixon since 1960 that Daley and the Chicagoan's Democratic machine gipped him out of the Presidency in the 1960 race against John F. Kennedy. An Andrew Jackson might have drawn his Derringer upon meeting a political foe he felt had done him wrong. But Nixon took Daley by the arm and turned him into friendly stooge.

Repeat: Richard Milhous Nixon is indestructible. Come what may.

Accord Reached In Death Lawsuit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A $42,500 pretrial settlement was awarded Thursday to Katherine Hussey of Maple Heights, whose husband, Lawrence, fell 38 floors to his death from a scaffold on Erieview Tower in downtown Cleveland.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Judge David Matia said the damages in the wrongful death suit were to be paid by four subcontractors involved in construction of the tower.

The suit said Hussey, 49, fell when a steel bar used to raise and lower a movable scaffold came loose during construction 10 years ago.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

During the day, while in my office, I suddenly feel a sense of weakness and a pain in my stomach.

Even though I have just had my lunch, I feel the need to eat again. Does this sound like an ulcer?

B.G., Ill.

Dear Mr. G.:

One of the characteristic patterns of a stomach ulcer is a gnawing sensation of hunger that is quickly relieved by eating or by taking antacid medication. The so-called "hunger pains" are actually spasms of the stomach when it is empty.

Physicians recognize that there is such a cyclic pattern in patients who are suspected of having ulcers. They then proceed to investigate this possibility by X-ray study. I use the word "suspect" because there obviously are other conditions that might produce similar sounding symptoms.

There is no room for speculation about the basic cause of your problem. It is clearly apparent that the mature approach is a complete examination to pinpoint the cause and eliminate it. Then you will be free from the physical distress and your anxiety about it.

Someone told me that fingerprinting used by the police can also be used in the practice of medicine.

Mr. R. Y., Wash.

Dear Mr. Y.:

It is true. The wonders of science and their application to the practice of medicine are fascinating.

Prints of the fingers, the palms, and the soles, apparently have special meaning to doctors who use this particular technique.

Abnormal patterns may suggest birth defects long before clinical symptoms are apparent.

Many genetic disorders and inherited diseases have been identified with characteristic ridges of the skin surfaces.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... Some drugs have a short shelf life. Ask your pharmacist what the expiration date is and then label all medications to be sure that their potency survives.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As inflation envelops the entire industrialized world and resists the determined efforts of governments to push it back, a mood of resignation has developed: If you can't beat it, learn to live with it.

From a most unlikely source, Boston's State Street Bank & Trust Co., came the latest suggestion that, like Brazil, we consider adjusting interest rates, wages, rents, contracts and the like to reduce inflation's impact.

If the buying power of the dollar declined 5 per cent in a year, for example, then wages and the like would be increased by that amount so that buying power would be maintained.

The concept isn't new. B. Nowlin Keener Jr., a Pensacola, Fla., lawyer, has spent years working out the technicalities of escalator buying-power clauses. Some academicians have been fascinated with the possibilities.

But to the conventional world of businessmen and economists, the idea doesn't seem entirely practical. Arthur Okun of the Brookings Institution, chief economic adviser in the Johnson administration, sums up the opposition:

"I'm rather skeptical of the general line that you start learning to live with inflation. The corollary is that you tend to stop fighting it and you wind up with more."

Albert H. Cox, Jr., chief economist of Lionel Edie & Co., consultants, and former Nixon administration adviser, feels much the same way:

"Once you put in an official assumption about inflation people accept it and then accelerate it. I just don't think it would work in the United States."

Instead, he said, an attempt to "index inflation away means it might get worse and head the country toward political, economic and social chaos." Brazil's success, he said, "I would suspect is temporary."

The fact is that Brazil has managed with such a system to reduce inflation over a decade from more than 90 per cent to a current range of about 15 or 20 per cent, while growing swiftly. But Brazil may be a special situation.

Okun observes that Brazil's currency isn't highly important in international markets, that it doesn't raise much of the world's capital, as does the United States, that it isn't as industrialized, that it is in a different stage of growth, that its saving and spending habits are different.

George Hagedorn, economist for the National Association of Manufacturers, asks: "Why not end inflation in the normal manner?" The "normal manner" generally is assumed to mean restrictive monetary and fiscal policies.

Inflation isn't inevitable, Hagedorn reminds us. In the mid-1950s to early or mid-1960s it averaged only 1.5 per cent or so a year, a fact that coincided with smaller increases in the money supply than are common now.

Yes, responds Francis Hassey, State Street Bank economist, but we had three recessions in the 1950s to get that price stability. He believes the country isn't willing to accept such severe penalties any more.

Among professionals with an acute interest in the subject are accountants, who are increasingly distressed at what they feel are inflation-induced distortions of corporate financial statements.

But their interest in an inflation adjuster is restricted to reporting—not to implementing—an economy-wide index that would attempt to erase the malevolent aspects of the inflation malady.

That job, many economists feel, would entail the establishment of a huge bureaucracy, "just a tremendous structural and institutional problem," as Cox puts it.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I am writing to protest the removal of the old city of Circleville logo from the front page of The Herald. The familiar silhouette of our long departed "Roundtown" may seem superfluous to newcomers but I feel that it is very important for a newspaper to build upon the historical heritage of the community which it serves.

As readers, we need to feel that our paper is of us and for us—that it reflects our traditions as well as our efforts to expand our horizons.

Someone once stated it most succinctly: "How can we know where we're going if we don't know where we've been?"

Please return the symbol of our unique beginning—we take pride in it. A gentle reminder of it each day can only strengthen our individuality and sense of worth.

Sincerely

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, PHONE 986-3481

The most important item on the agenda this week is to remind everyone to get a birthday card ready to be put in the mail for our beloved "Grandma" Smiley who will reach the marvelous age of 100 on March 31. Let us shower her with cards, cards and more cards. Wouldn't it be great if she received one hundred (or more) cards? It can easily be done if all of you just take a little of your time and get one in the mail.

The address is: Mrs. Charles Smiley, 3911 Guyton St., Macon, Ga. 31206. For many years Mrs. Smiley resided in our fair village and was well known and respected for her many acts of kindness and good deeds. She was quite active in local organizations as well as her church. She was a good friend and neighbor.

We have all missed her since she left us last fall to make her home in Georgia with her daughter Ruth (Mrs. Charles Shippe). For those of us who have the privilege of knowing and loving her it will be a great joy to wish her Happy 100th Birthday. For those of you who have not had this privilege why not be a part of this joyous occasion and send her greetings anyway. It is never necessary to have to know someone to wish them well.

Paper Drive

The young lads of Williamsport Cub Scout Pack 179 are planning a paper drive with pick-up date scheduled for April 27. Here in our town it is requested that all papers and magazines be at the curb for pick-up between the hours of 12 noon and 4 p.m. Be sure to have the papers securely tied. The paper drive falls into line with the Scout theme for the month of April which is "Conservation".

Other nearby areas such as Clarksburg, Atlanta and Jackson Twp. will also be served if interested in having your papers hauled away. Those areas are asked to contact den mother Suzi (Mrs. Paul) Bivens at 986-6675; Marcia (Mrs. Bill) Horch, 986-6472; or Jeanine (Mrs. Jim) Hamman, 986-5732 or write to either of them at Williamsport, 43164 and arrangements will be gladly made. Help your Scouts! Help yourself! Help your country! Support the paper drive.

Chuckie Graffis has those back problems again and is once more a patient in Room 596, St. Anthony Hospital, Columbus. Cards will help his morale, much.

Viola (Mrs. Chet) Myers has decided to hang it all up after many years of devoted service to a variety of employers. Viola and her late husband moved to Williamsport in the year 1948. Chet was Mayor of our town for several years. The couple had four children—Evelyn (Mrs. George Kaiser), George, David and Shelia (Mrs. John Neff) who with their families all reside in the Pickaway County area.

Mrs. Myers is noted for her diligent church work. She loves to travel and as she says (quote) "If the Lord wills and the energy crisis permits I hope to do plenty of traveling". Her most recent employment prior to retirement was at Elinor's, a local eating establishment operated by Dale and Elinor Keller. The restaurant was owned and operated by Lloyd and Clara Jane Richards before the Kellers assumed ownership.

We all wish many good years of contentment, joy and happy traveling to a most deserving Viola Myers.

Diabetes Test

Word from Vera Saunders, information and referral aide at the Pickaway County Senior Center, is that once again the center is sponsoring a diabetes test, March 28, 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Trinity Lutheran Parish House on E. Mound St., Circleville. The public is cordially invited to have this health test and it is noted on the brochure that the test will consist of using a drop of blood from the finger and that it is most accurate when taken two hours after a normal meal.

The testing will be done under direction of the Diabetes Association of Central Ohio. The Diabetes and Arthritis Program of the U.S. Public Health Service estimates that more than two million Americans are victims of diabetes without knowing it. Could you be one?

The test will locate our own undiagnosed diabetics and help them seek proper medical care. Take the test on the day and time mentioned and find out for sure whether or not you are a "hidden diabetic!". Our thanks to Ms. Saunders and the Center for calling this to our attention.

What happens when seven of eight sisters get together? What else but a doggone rousing fun time and that's how it was at the Bob and Alice Cornwell abode this past Sunday. It was birthday time for the Cornwell's son David (he chalked up 17) and also for Alice's sister Gladys Little (and she "ain't" sayin' how many).

Gladys came down from Ashville for the wedding as did sisters Connie Little, Annamae (Mrs. Merl) Hedges and Marjorie (Mrs. George) Myers. Sister Virginia (Mrs. Maurice) Martin of Columbus and sister Geraldine (Mrs. Don) Sampsill of South Bloomfield and their respective spouses joined in the fun, too. Also a part of the happy occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Leon (Doris) Cornwell of Ferguson and daughter Tammi of Darbydale, Jerry and John Cornwell at home and of course Merl Hedges and George Myers, the partners of Annamae and Marjorie.

It was our pleasure to welcome Maria Martha Arguello of Nicaragua into our home last Wednesday and she is a real love of a young lady. What a charmer she is! She has completely captivated all of us already.

Also arriving in our community last Wednesday and consequently enchanting their respective families were Maria Cristina Ramos of Brazil who will be with the John Graffis family and Alejandro (pronounced Al-e-han-dro) Garces of Colombia who will be a son to Marvie baby and Dolly Thompson (and brother to the Thompson five).

These fine young people will be here for approximately three months. We encourage anyone interested in meeting and talking with these exchange students to contact their American families for we are eager to have them make the acquaintance of as many folks as possible.

After a streaker has done his thing what say you—streaked? struck? or streakened? We told you last week that information had come our way that streaking would be done in Williamsport at the bewitching or is it bestreaching hour of midnight. I am told that the "deed" was accomplished. Contrary to popular hopes it was not our local meter reader, even though there are red, white and blue stockings in that household bought to be used for the purpose of streaking. Right on!

PTB Fun Fair

We need to keep reminding you that the Jackson Elementary Fun Fair night will be held on April 5 at Jackson School with all kinds of terrific games, prizes, elephant sale, food section (serving sandwiches, homemade pie, etc.), baked goods division and lots of fun for young and not so young.

An advance ticket sales resulting in considerable savings will be held at the school by the ticket chairmen (Marcia Horch and Candy Commans) each of the two days prior to the fun night. Ten tickets for one dollar will be the going price in advance or if purchased at the door the tickets will be fifteen cents each.

Now, doing your math (modern or on your fingers) you can easily determine this amounts to a fifty cents savings and that is a downright good bargain.

Our Maria had the opportunity this past Sunday to view a Protestant American wedding when we attended the Pamela Williams-Richard Curry nuptials held at the Williamsport United Methodist Church. Pam was a lovely bride and her bridal attendants were truly complimented in their chosen frocks of mint green and sunny yellow. Read all about it one of these days on the society pages. Very pretty wedding.

Cindy Beatty, a student at University of Eastern Kentucky, who spent her spring break with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Ron Beatty and brother Brad returned to her studies at the beginning of this week. Cindy was maid of honor for Pamela. The two girls have been close friends for a long time and are 1973 Westfall graduates. Cindy was driven back to school by her mother and Mrs. Harvey (Margene) Looney. By the way, did that statue of "What's his name" take notice, Margene? Sorry about that folks, sort of an inside joke.

Be with you again next week, be the Lord willin'. Take care.

U.S. Churches Get Overseas Help

NEW YORK (AP)—Normally it has been the American churches that send financial help to missions in poorer lands. But in this case, the reverse happened. Some Southeast Asian churches sent funds to some hard-up American congregations.

The Rev. Dr. Howard Brinton, of the United Methodist Board of Global Ministries, says it's believed to be the first time in the denomination for overseas churches to send money to U.S. churches.

He adds that the action symbolizes the international partnership that has developed between churches, replacing the once dominating paternal role of U.S. denominations and leading to a "two-way street" pattern of mutual efforts.

While the shift has resulted in a growing number of Asian and African missionaries coming to work in this country, the receipt of financial help here from abroad marks a rarer wrinkle in the process.

The modest sum—$1,000—was dispatched by the Singapore district of the Chinese Methodist Conference to a low-income, Spanish-speaking congregation at Grand Prairie, Tex., the Mid-Cities United Methodist Church, and to an Indian congregation near Schuler, Okla., Little Cussetah Church.

Both are working to raise money for new church buildings, and the Chinese Christians chipped in $500 for each group as part of Methodism's global "second mile" missions giving program.

Despite the trend toward more even-handed relationship between American-European churches and those in poorer regions, the number of American Protestant missionaries again is rising slightly, after a brief downturn.

According to the latest statistical roundup, the total now exceeds 35,000 American Protestants, maintained overseas at a cost of $393 million annually, compared to a 33,289 total of 1969 and annual expenditures of $345 million.

About 7,469 American Roman Catholics now are serving overseas, down from the 9,655 serving in foreign missions five years ago.

The decline for Roman Catholicism parallels that for most of the mainline Protestant denominations. The counter-balancing increase of Protestant missionaries has occurred mostly among conservative, evangelical groups.

However, the largest number of missionaries maintained abroad by any single group is the 2,500 supported by Southern Baptists, the country's biggest Protestant denomination. For other large denominations, the count of missionaries has fallen steeply in recent years.

Inflation, and deflation, of the dollar have been depressing factors on the U.S. missionary operation. There also has been a growing trend to turn over increasing amounts of the task to national churches, a change they have sought.

'Limits To Consumerism' Martha Circle Program

Mrs. Walter Owens, 379 Walnut Creek Pike, entertained the Monday evening meeting of Martha Circle, Community United Methodist Church, in her home. Mrs. Jane Hoover, program chairman, used as her topic "Limits To Consumerism."

Mrs. Hoover opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Willison Leist presided over the business session attended by 15 members and one guest, Mrs. Bud Ohr.

Announcements included: a reception for Lawrence Lewis, new education assistant on March 24, the observance of Paul Wach Sunday on May 26, an invitation to the Service Center of Good Shepherd Church on March 25 and the Christmas offering given to the Hedges House to be used for repairs or furnishings. Mrs. Leist reported on the 4-H dinner served recently at the church.

Hostesses were Mrs. Owens, Mrs.

Vernon Weiler, Mrs. Walter Hall and Mrs. Lucille Bosworth.

Mrs. Hoover said the purpose of the program was to acquaint United Methodist Women with problems created by uncontrolled growth in industry and population and the depletion of this planet's resources to encourage them to take an active roll in discouraging waste and unnecessary consumption and in encouraging the development of a social climate in which a just and balanced human culture can flourish.

From birth throughout life people are taught to be consumers. In the biological sense, meat and plant eaters, and users of oxygen and water and in the social sense they consume goods and services thus contributing to the total economy.

Years before people are born investors calculate buying habits in predicting economic trends including the number of babies, growth in the disposable diaper industry, infant food, textiles, tennis shoes, toys, school books, surf boards, cosmetics and automobiles. This continues until old age and death when increases are expected in retirement home investments and cemetery lots.

In the highly industrialized society, property is a factor in helping the individual overcome underlying insecurity, to increase a shrinking level of self-worth. People purchase things to add to their possessions becoming consumer statistics.

Mrs. Hoover said that as consumers we affect the mounting curve of the gross national product which is the measurement of what is produced for consumption in the nation. If there are funds available people spend them for goods and services.

Whole industries have arisen not to supply us with needs or wants but to create the desire for new things unheard of to make more efficient consumers. She said our very lives are being invaded by manipulative efforts to make better consumers, to improve us as instruments of economic growth by tempting and encouraging us to buy, buy and buy.

As to the future — computers are very good at following growth rates such as population and industry, agricultural output and pollution. Companies follow statistics that keep up with the non-renewable supply of Mother Hubbard Law which governs resource consumption on the earth. No matter how big and how full the cupboard is Mother Hubbard will keep drawing supplies from and eventually find it bare.

With the awareness of depletion of resources, pollution, crowding, birth rates, death rates, consumption of goods and services, the question is asked as to what is the task of Christian Women?

We need to create and encourage a climate of caring about the earth that will influence major and minor decisions and actions. Mrs. Hoover continued by saying that this is something Christian women are equipped and organized to do with determination and prayers.

She said the church is a fellowship that includes all strata of society and encompasses rich and poor nations all over the world. If we fail to take measures now to bring consumption into balance with the earth's capacity, all Christians will suffer the agony of decisions that deny sustenance to some parts of society or to people of powerless nations.

Ashville League Views Slides Of Holy Land

The Rev. John Currans of the Zion United Methodist Church opened the March meeting of the Ashville Suburban Child Study League. A very inspirational evening was spent viewing slides of the Holy Land which Rev. and Mrs. Currans visited in February 1973. Afterwards dessert was served by hostess Joan Kennedy and co-hostess Gay Henson.

The business meeting was brought to order with Kathy Neal reading a poem appropriate for the Easter holidays. Roll call was taken with each member telling about their favorite pastime. The club welcomed four new members, Linda Cummins, Pam Kelly, Pat Lee and Judy McCallister. Gay Henson gave a report on the progress of the executive board for Spring Conference. The board met March 10 in the home of Dianne Jones, Circleville and outlined specific duties for each club. Members are to meet at the Teays Valley High School 5:15 p.m. March 22, and 7:30 a.m., March 23.

The garage sale was discussed and May 18 decided on. It will be held at Jeannie Myers, Route 1, Ashville. All members were asked to start looking in basement and attics to make this sale the best ever. Again there will be baked goods for sale.

Further discussion was held on Husband's Night Out and Susan Haynes was asked to obtain information on the two dinner theatres in Columbus and what performers will be coming so the club can make a selection.

Slate of new officers for 1974-75 was presented by Jane Kline. The following were voted on unanimously, Kathy Neal, president; Pam Kelly, vice president; Susan Haynes, treasurer; Becky Zielinski, recording secretary; Gay Henson, corresponding secretary. All were quite enthusiastic about next year and anticipating bigger and better projects. Installation of officers will be held during the May meeting.

Jane Kline suggested saving Big Bear sales slips for redemption and square patches of material for the Senior Citizens to make lap blankets. Traveling door prize was won by Bonnie Remy.

Mrs. Robert Smith, associated with Project Hope will be guest speaker at the April meeting, to be held in the home of Nancy Cummins with Jeannie Myers co-hosting. Anyone interested in attending is welcome.

Stork Shower Fetes Mrs. John Winland

Guests attending the affair were: Mrs. Harold Lowery, Mrs. Jeff Swisher and Jennifer, Mrs. Glenn Steele, Debbie, Deanna, and Glenda; Mrs. Denver Winland, Mrs. Roy Wilson, Mrs. Floyd Wolford, Mrs. Richard Brown, Mrs. Kate Smith.

Mrs. Stewart Dennis, Mrs. Carol Adams, Mrs. Gary Dennis, and Tina, Mrs. Carl Storus, Miss Valeria Fausnaugh, Miss Connie Downs, Mrs. Mary Smith, Miss Morgan Goode, Mrs. E. D. Lutz, Mrs. Edward Lutz and Paula.

On Books And Activities At The Library

Suspense, romance, fantasy, adventure, or a mixture of these ingredients dominate the novels which have come in this week. For the romantic, "Doctor's Daughter" is a typical Elizabeth Seifert story of a doctor and his family whose pleasant uneventful lives are marred by a malpractice suit.

Romantic intrigue is the keynote in Mary Craig's "Crane of Ibycus", a sinister novel of a young woman searching for a man to whom she owes a debt. "My Lady Evil" by Parley J. Cooper is a story of the occult and of overwhelming love set in 19th-century France.

During the Crusades, a group of shipwrecked pilgrims turn against a woman whom they blame for their misadventure in Barbara Jefferis' novel of sorcery and witchcraft in "Time of the Unicorn." "Heir to Polventon" by Marjorie Watson is a mystery tale set in 18th century England. It centers around a curse laid on a family by a local crone and the trouble that ensues.

Those who like the spice of adventure might try "In Connection with Kilshaw" by Peter Driscoll. Set amid the strife in northern Ireland, this novel captures the distrust, betrayal and terror that are bred there. "Stringer" by Ward Just chronicles the last mission of Stringer, a civilian intelligence agent assigned to the arym.

William C. Anderson's "Penelope, The Damp Detective" is an action-packed suspense story of a heroin ring, blackmail schemes, and the casket business. It is also science fiction—the detective is an intelligent porpoise.

"Watership Down" by Richard Adams, British author, is an animal fantasy about a group of rabbits who set out to find Nirvana.

"Partners" by Lousi Auchincloss is a psychological portrayal of lawyers, focusing upon the small firm, Shepard, Putney and Cox.

Wind Blows, Car Goes

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — Rex Curtis of Springdale and four Oklahoma men have developed a car they say could help solve the fuel shortage. Their slogan is: "We go when the wind blows."

The electric car, which the men said will be ready for trial runs in about 45 days, will use a windmill to charge batteries.

They gave these details: When the driver parks for any length of time while the wind is blowing, he will pull a lever and a windmill will pop up on top of the car. It will operate a generator to charge the batteries. A small electric motor will retract the windmill when not in use.

A small, lightweight gasoline engine will charge batteries while the car is being driven or when the wind is not blowing.

The car should be able to go about 50 miles without a recharge at speeds of 30 to 50 miles per hour, Curtis and his co-designers said.

Curtis said he and his colleagues plan to manufacture the pop-up windmills to be sold with motors and all other accessories required to convert any small compact car to an electric car.

The Oklahoma men involved in the venture are Everett Wellman of Oklahoma City, a mechanical engineer; William R. Avey of Oklahoma City, owner of a tool and grinding service; Rex Carmichael of Yukon, an automobile dealer and body shop owner; and Marvin McInnis of Oklahoma City, head of an engineering firm.

"Bijou" by David Madden. It concerns a young small town boy who escapes into a fantasy world of literary and film characters.

"The Malvie Inheritance" by Pamela Hill is a gothic novel centering around Malvie, an ancestral estate in 18th century Scotland and Morven Doon, a rather pale fellow who hopes to win Malvie.

Mystery fans may prefer Andrew Garve's "Lester Affair." A handsome 40-year-old Englishman is running for Prime Minister. All is well until the press hears that he is having an affair with a young governess and lying about it. In "The Quick Red Fox" by John D. MacDonald, a detective helps out a movie star who is being blackmailed for some excessively candid photographs. Scotland Yard tries to solve the mystery of the many stealings of a jeweled cross in Donald MacKenzie's "Zaleski's Percentage."

For those who like to read about people, Anne Morrow Lindbergh's newest volume is "Locked Rooms and Open Doors 1933-1935." In this installment of her diaries she covers the many flights made with her husband, the publishing of her book "North to the Orient" and the tragedy and suffering caused by the trial of the kidnapper of her young son.

Wilma Dykeman, author of "Tall Woman" has written a biography of birth control pioneer, Edna Rankin McKinnon, the first woman in America to receive a law degree.

An inside view of the lives and feelings of American working people engaged in nearly every occupation and profession of our society is revealed in "Working" by Studs Terkel.

"Pilgrim at Tinker Creek" is a personal narrative and analytical view of the environment in Annie Dillard's neighborhood—hilly, rural Virginia. Ivor Noel Hume enumerates the joys and pitfalls of collecting objects from the past in "All the Best Rubbish."

"The Warren Wagontrain Raid" by Benjamin Capps is an account of an historic Indian raid in which Chief Satanta led a war party of more than 100 Kiowa braves against a supply train. The account describes the raid itself, the subsequent trials of the Indian chiefs, and the effects of the raid on government policy toward the Indians.

Books to interest sports fans include: "Vince Lombardi on Football"; "All About Putting" by Editors of Golf Digest Magazine; "Golf My Way" by Jack Nicklaus; "A Fly Fisher's Life" by Charles Ritz; "The Hunter's Handbook" by Jerome J. Knap; and "Always on the Run" by Larry Czornka.

Public opinion analyst, Louis Harris discusses the size, shape, and meaning of the change in American life since 1960 in "The Anguish of Change." This brings us to our moment of anguish. We've run out of room without mentioning many other new, interesting books. Come in!

Special Deputies Lose Commissions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Franklin County Sheriff Harry Berkemer says there'll be no more special deputy commissions—beginning Saturday. Berkemer said Wednesday he decided on the action after non-union construction officials accused the Columbus Building and Construction Trades Council of using special deputy badges to harass non-union workers. Berkemer said he inherited the problem from his predecessors and already has terminated about half the 180 special deputy commissions. He said in the future, the commissions may be used, but only when the recipients already are in law enforcement.

Officials Fondly Recall Pawn Shops

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The decline and near fall of Ohio pawnshops have a state legislator and a state commerce official a bit nostalgic over the plight of the poor man's banker.

State Sen. David Headley, D-28 Barberton, remembers when he needed some fast cash during his student days at the University of Akron back in the 1940s.

"I needed $20 for groceries and so I hooked my typewriter for a month," said Headley. "Later I went back and got my typewriter."

Headley has introduced a bill in the General Assembly which would permit pawnbrokers to charge higher interest rates. Times have grown so tough for pawnshops they now number 70 in all of Ohio, down from a peak of about 900 in the 1930s and 1940s.

Robert Fickel, chief of the consumer loan division of the Ohio Department of Commerce, understood Headley's student action.

"I had a green gabardine suit I pawned every time I needed to buy books at Ohio State," said Fickel. Fickel has the responsibility of licensing pawnshops in Ohio.

Rep. James W. Rankin, D-25 Cincinnati, takes a rather dim view of the present session of the Ohio General Assembly. He claims it is "doing nothing but causing a lot of chaos." Rankin and other legislators appeared to suffer adjournment fever during the unseasonably warm weather earlier this month.

"I think we ought to adjourn and not come back until after the November election," Rankin said. "That way we'd all be happy."

The lawmakers plan a month's recess beginning April 4.

Roger W. Tracy Jr., former Republican state representative seeking the GOP nomination for state auditor, points out in campaigning that Thomas E. Ferguson, running for the Democratic nomination, is the son of the incumbent auditor.

At a recent news conference he referred to the "Ferguson clan."

Tracy himself is the son of a former state auditor who served in the mid-1960s.

Rep. Fred Young, R-38 Dayton, has complained about some of his colleagues in the House who have district headquarters with big signs bearing the officeholder's name.

Young takes the attitude such offices serve political purposes but "not the constituents."

Traveling from Dayton, Young said, he saw a sign on Rep. Michael Stinziano's office "bigger than the overhead signs leading to the Interstate highway."

Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, has two such offices—one on the west side of Columbus, another on the Ohio State campus. But, both offices were donated rent free and are manned by volunteers.

Ohio Food Costs Zoom In February

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Food prices jumped 21.3 per cent in Cleveland and 20.1 per cent in Cincinnati during the 12 months ending in February, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

The increases included a 3.4 per cent climb during last month in Cincinnati, and a quarterly increase of 6.4 per cent in Cleveland.

The largest yearly price rises were recorded among bread and bakery products—34.9 per cent in Cincinnati and 32.2 per cent in Cleveland.

Overall prices rose 9.4 per cent for the year in Cleveland, with two-thirds of the quarterly increase coming in food, fuel and medical care, the bureau said.

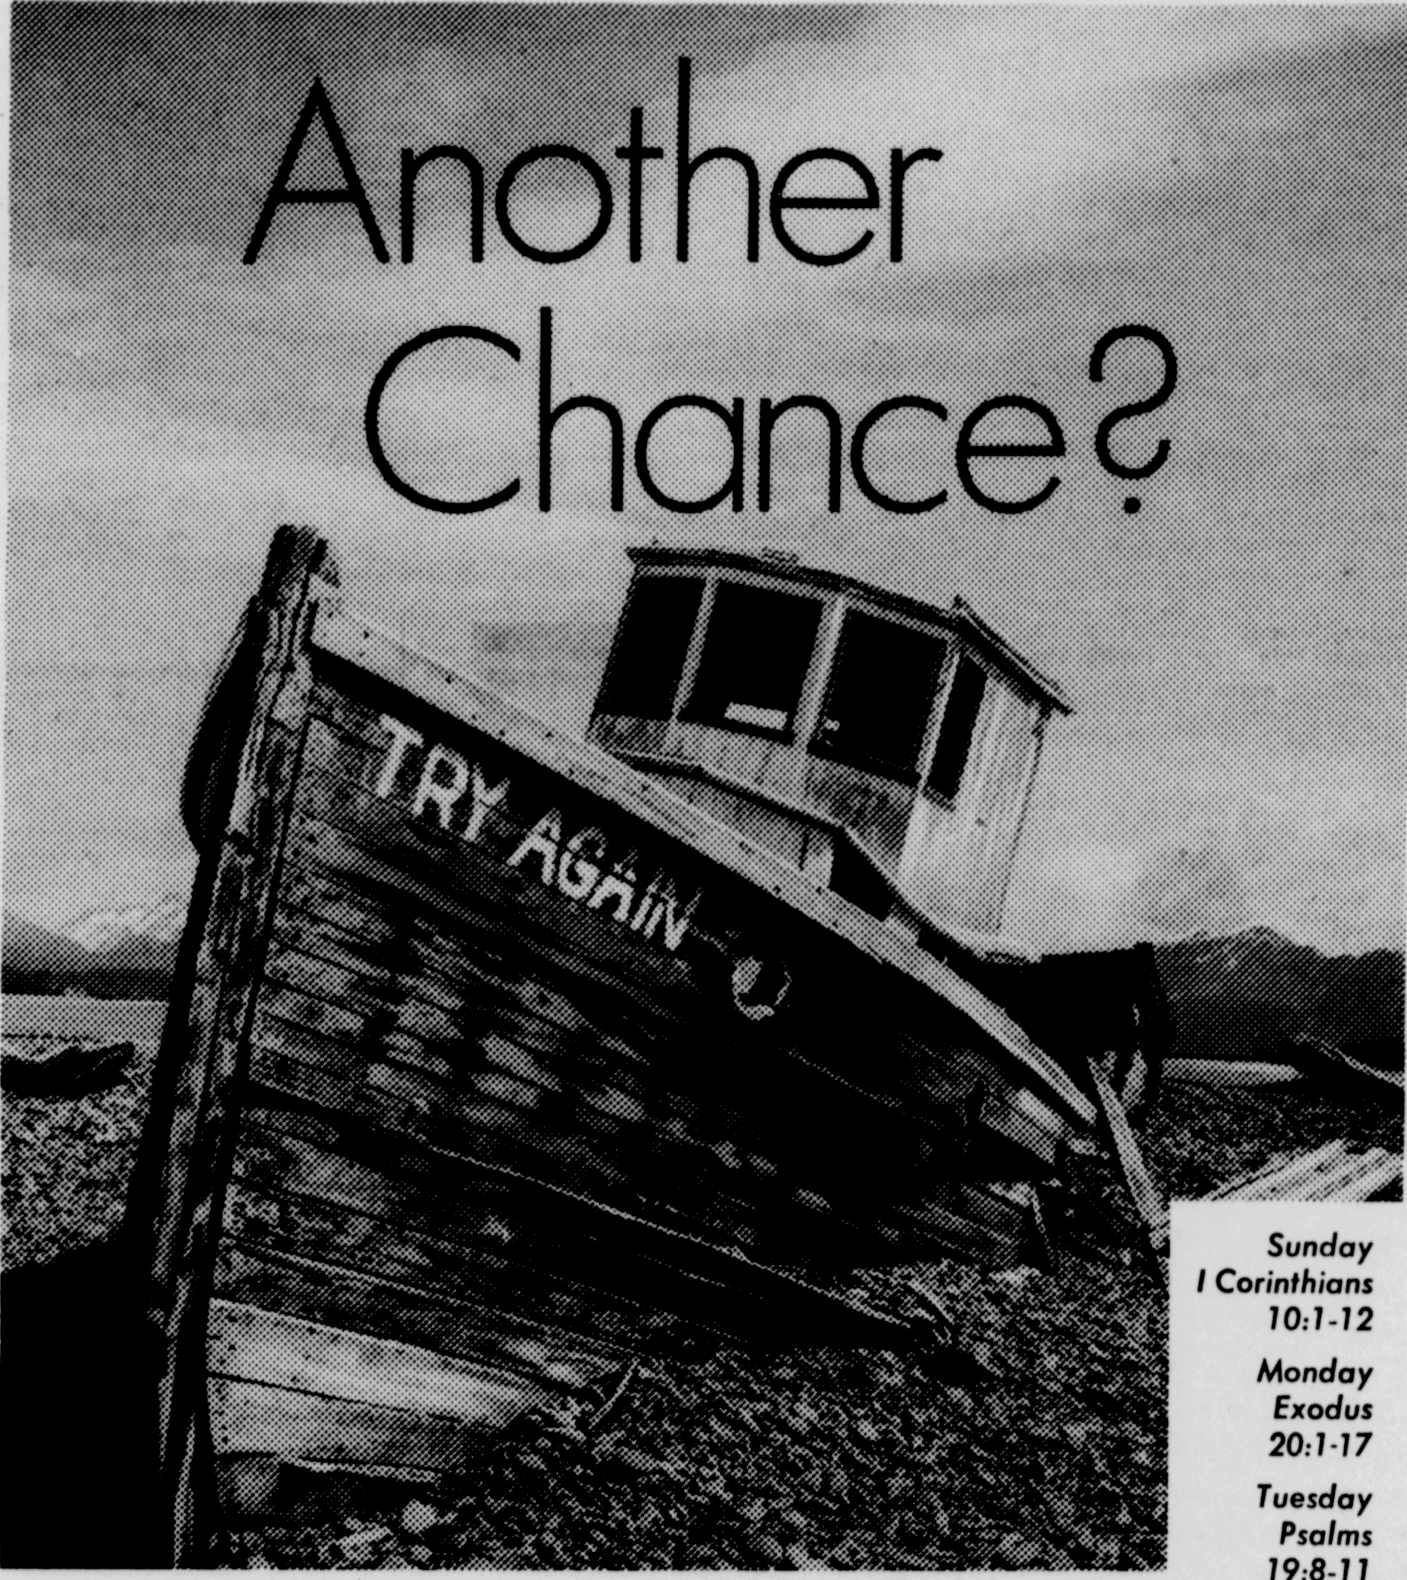

High School Senior Wins Scholarship

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A senior at Princeton High School in Cincinnati, Joel A. Porter, is Ohio's 1974 Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow.

The winner was chosen by the General Mills Corp. from among 33,342 high school seniors in Ohio and will get a $1,500 scholarship.

Sunspots have been observed and described since the ancient Chinese thought they saw "flying birds" in the sun.

Was "Try Again" really the name of the boat? Or did some joker paint those words on the old hull after the wreck? Either way the irony wasn't wasted.

Lots of people used to sail through life confidently and contentedly. Today they aren't so sure they're on the right course.

There are some who think it's only a matter of time before our whole civilization runs aground.

Christianity has often been called "the religion of another chance." Yes, for Christ teaches that we can rise out of our failures through God's forgiveness and power.

Millions today are rediscovering Christian precepts. It is a new generation which will soon be sailing toward a Christian destiny.

Fair Skies Spreading Over Nation

By The Associated Press

Fair weather and unseasonable cold spread over most of the nation today, replacing violent storms that ushered in spring.

In Dixie, where fast-moving tornadoes and high winds left seven persons dead and scores injured on the first full day of spring Thursday, temperatures dropped to below freezing over an area from Tennessee to northern Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

The storm that produced heavy snow along the North Atlantic coast, including 15 inches at Limestone, Maine, moved off the Canadian coast into the Atlantic.

But another wintry storm spread snow through the Northern Plains, where winds gusted up to 40 m.p.h. and temperatures dropped below zero during the night.

Broadus, Mont., was plastered by 3 inches of snow during the night. Elsewhere, clouds covered much of the Pacific and Gulf coasts and Florida experienced widely scattered thunderstorms.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 at International Falls, Minn., to 75 at Key West, Fla.

Indemnities Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher market prices for hogs the past couple of years have brought a boost in the amount of indemnities farmers can collect from the government for destroying animals infected or exposed to hog cholera.

Effective today, the Agriculture Department said, indemnity payments for hog cholera eradication will be a maximum of $200 per top-quality market animal and up to $400 each for purebred and breeding swine. The limits previously had been $100 and $200 respectively.

"The change will bring maximum permitted indemnity limits into line with current market prices, especially for the higher-quality animals," the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service said.

Officials said, however, that indemnity payments in most cases are not at the maximum rates since hogs are appraised at actual value.

Market prices in the midwest recently have skidded sharply. Last week, for example, a seven-market average kept by USDA was around $35 per 100 pounds liveweight, down from more than $40 a few weeks ago and far below peaks last summer of nearly $60 per hundredweight.

However, the present average is still above this time two years ago when slaughter hogs were bringing farmers about $22 per 100 pounds, indicating why the boost for indemnities was ordered.

Nixon Uses Radio Media In Bid To Hike Credibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any political campaign has its set piece, The Speech a candidate delivers day after day to stress his major themes. President Nixon's campaign to rebuild public confidence and block impeachment is no exception.

Nixon's forum has been the nationally broadcast and televised question-and-answer session. He has held four of them in less than a month. Two were White House news conferences, two on the road. He says there are likely to be more.

Whatever the questions put to the President, his two key answers have been the same:

—He will not resign, contending that to do so would destroy the presidency itself.

—He will not agree to turn over additional White House tape recordings and documents sought by House impeachment investigators, on grounds this would break the confidentiality essential to any president.

He has, at the same time, repeated his demands for a swift end to Watergate investigations, declaring anew that one year is enough, that dragging it out drags down America.

The words have changed somewhat; the tone became tougher at his session with the National Association of Broadcasters in Houston Tuesday night.

Company Drops Credit Cards

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) said Thursday its BP Oil Corp. subsidiary is eliminating its own credit cards in favor of nationally distributed Master Charge credit cards.

The firm will continue to accept BankAmericard at its stations, which are concentrated on the East Coast, but is dropping Sohio cards.

Nixon suggested, for example, that the House Judiciary Committee may be going beyond the limits of the Constitution in seeking additional White House documents.

"... I am suggesting that the House follow the Constitution," he said. "If they do, I will."

Nixon did not answer directly the question of whether he would comply should the House committee issue a subpoena for specific items. But he implied that he would not, contending that the principle of presidential confidentiality applies to impeachment as to any other investigation.

That is an argument he used earlier in his unsuccessful effort to withhold White House tape recordings from the Watergate grand jury on grounds of executive privilege.

HAMMERING HIS POINT— President Nixon answers a question at a luncheon meeting of the Executive's Club of Chicago at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Urge Redrawing Of Civil Service Laws For Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Municipal League has recommended that Ohio Civil Service laws covering municipal employees be redrawn to separate them from laws covering state employees.

League representatives told the Ohio Civil Service Study Commission at a hearing Thursday that redrawing the laws would make collective bargaining with city employees less confusing.

The league said it had asked the Capital University law school faculty to sift through state civil service statutes and prepare a report.

Alfred Strozdas, Springfield city manager and league chairman, said many of the present laws were passed to remedy state government problems and have left a "maze of confusion" for city personnel departments.

Water Pollution Projects Announced

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — More than one-half million new federal dollars will flow into water pollution control projects underway in northern Ohio, federal officials announced Thursday.

Hays Blasts Gardner On Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Ohio responded angrily Thursday to a charge by Common Cause that he and other Democratic leaders had stalled campaign reform legislation for 15 months.

Hays took to the House floor to call John Gardner, who heads the national citizens' lobby, a "common crook."

Hays chairs the House Administration Committee which is considering campaign reform, and he promised to have a bill "in a few weeks, maybe days."

He said the bill will limit campaign contributions and campaign spending and require not only candidates but "lobbies like Common Cause" to publicly disclose their campaign contributions.

"We hope to be able to apply it as well to common crooks like John Gardner, the head of Common Cause," Hays said.

Meeting with newsmen later, however, Hays repeated his staunch opposition to public campaign financing, the feature that Common Cause contends is needed most to prevent future Watergates and keep congressmen from being obligated for big business contributions.

Common Cause ran a fullpage ad in the Washington Post in which it accused Hays of stalling enactment of any form of a Senate-passed reform bill.

"Is it not a scandal," the ad asked, "that Wayne Hays, the man responsible in 1974 for Democratic congressional campaign fund raising and money dispensing, is also the man responsible for writing legislation to reform finance practices?"

Springfield Man Dies In Apartment Blaze

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A man identified as Willie Johnson, about 35, died about midnight Thursday when fire swept through the two-story frame house here in which he occupied a small apartment.

Another occupant, Willie Gaines, 56, said he roused Johnson from a sofa as he was fleeing the house and thought the younger man was following him from the building.

Young Boy's Leg Lost To Cancer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A strong-minded 13-year-old Miami, Fla. boy, the third son in his family to contract cancer, planned to walk today on an artificial limb, only 24 hours after his left leg was amputated.

Stephen Southerland's condition was reported satisfactory through the night by officials at Children's Hospital.

The boy's leg was amputated three inches below the hip in a 3½ hour operation. Doctors confirmed their diagnosis of a rare bone cancer on his thigh.

They said they believed the malignancy was completely removed. However, Stephen is scheduled to undergo chemotherapy treatments.

The boy was fitted with an artificial limb in the recovery room and removed to a private room within an hour. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Southerland were waiting.

The chief surgeon, who successfully operated on Stephen's brother Michael, 9, in 1969, said "there was no evidence of spread of the tumor elsewhere in the body."

The surgeon, who asked to remain nameless, also barred the family from talking to newsmen. "Today belongs to the family," he said.

Another brother, Jeffrey, four, died of leukemia in 1969. Michael was treated for a rare malignancy in the lining of his spinal nerve and has shown no symptoms since surgery.

The surgeon's statement said further of Stephen that "...by gross inspection plus microscopic examination it appears that the malignant tumor has been completely removed."

Stephen told the Associated Press Tuesday, before he knew he had cancer, that he wasn't afraid.

"It's really an experience you have to put up with," he said. "I think I can face it."

His father, Raymond, 35, is a community relations officer with the Dade County, Fla. police department. The family formerly lived in Terre Haute, Ind.

Timber Wolves To Get New Home

NEW YORK (AP) — The often maligned timber wolf will be reestablished in the Huron Mountain area of northern Michigan if a conservationist project works out.

Experimenters are trapping a pack of five wolves in northern Minnesota, the one area south of the Canadian border with a comparatively healthy wolf population. After getting medical checks, rabies and distemper shots and after being fitted with radio transmitters so that their movements can be followed easily, the wolves will be released.

The project is sponsored by the National Audubon Society, Northern Michigan University and Huron Mountain Wildlife Foundation.

Albert May Make Reply To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Carl Albert says he will consider a request that he demand equal television time to respond to comments by President Nixon concerning the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

The request came Thursday from Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., a member of the committee, who asserted that Nixon has "violently misrepresented" the impeachment process and the committee in recent news conferences and television appearances in Chicago and Houston.

Another committee member, Rep. Jarome Waldie, D-Calif., said he already has sought equal response time from the three major commercial networks.

In a letter to Albert, Conyers said "the President's media blitz" is creating the impression that it is the House of Representatives and its Judiciary Committee that should be under impeachment investigation, not Richard Nixon."

Earlier Thursday, a partisan split developed in the Judiciary Committee over the question of whether presidential attorney James D. St. Clair should be permitted to take part in committee proceedings.

The point at issue was whether the impeachment inquiry is an adversary proceeding like a trial, where defendants have the right to cross-examine witnesses and present evidence.

Committee Democrats held with Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., that St. Clair's request was improper, while the panel's Republicans supported it solidly.

South Loses; Officials Blasted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Normally placid Charlie Huggins was fuming. "How can I explain a loss like this to my kids after they worked 360 days a year for victory and then two officials steal it from them?" asked the Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South coach. Indian Valley South, 1972 state champion and 1973 state runnerup, was charged with three technical fouls during a 59-49 Class A state tournament semifinal loss to Lorain Clearview Thursday night.

"Officials should be of just as high a quality as the teams who have to work to get here," said a bristling Huggins.

"Tonight anyone could see they weren't."

Clearview's victory, led by Player of the Year Larry Harris' 35 points, nine rebounds and five blocked shots, earned the Clippers, 23-2, a Saturday title shot against Pittsburgh Franklin-Monroe, 25-3, in St. John Arena.

The Class AA and Class AAA semifinals were being played today in Ohio State's specious basketball palace.

In Class AA, Akron Manchester, 24-0, played Cincinnati McNicholas, 19-6, at 11 a.m. and Genoa, 22-1, tangled with Columbus Hartley, 19-5, at 2:30 p.m.

In Class AAA, defending champion Cincinnati Elder, 21-3, opens against Mount Vernon, 19-4, at 6 p.m. and Canton McKinley, 24-0, goes against Toledo Scott, 22-2, at 9:30 p.m.

The Class AA and Class AAA championship contests also are Saturday.

Indian Valley South's tallest starter was 6-3 Steve Gregg, four inches shorter than the awesome Harris. And Gregg picked up three personal fouls in the opening quarter, sitting out the second and third periods.

With Harris pouring in 11 points

from inside and outside, Clearview reeled into a 10-point lead in the third quarter. Indian Valley South's season was over at 20-5.

"Indian Valley South is well disciplined," said Clearview Coach Bob Walsh. "They usually are able to rattle a team into mistakes. Tonight we were as patient as they were, maybe even more so."

Harris, who plays forward or center, nearly outscored the Rebels in the last two quarters. He had 24 points and the Indian Valley South team 28.

Walsh has a pair of 6-5 players,

Larry Fortner and Randy Dlugosz, to go with Harris in a classic matchup with Franklin-Monroe's rugged front line.

The trio of 6-5 Brian Jones, 6-4 Mike Cross and 6-2 Randy Spitzer combined for 49 points to knock Riverdale out with a 21-4 record.

"Whoever comes across the stronger inside will take it all," said Walsh.

"I don't really know what we will use against them," the Clearview mentor said. "But that's not unusual when you build your offense around someone as versatile as Harris."

Phil Dubbs, Franklin-Monroe's mentor, worries about lack of a knockout punch from his Darke County Jets.

"If we want to win this title," Dubbs said, "we're going to have to come up with a lot more of a killer instinct."

"We came here to win it all and I haven't seen anything to change my mind," he added.

Mark Smith, the Riverdale coach, second-guessed himself after the loss by his school, located in Hardin, Wyandot and Hancock counties.

"I should have gone to a man-to-man defense sooner," he said. "Our zone cost us several fouls. We were giving up second and third shots that shouldn't come off a zone."

Jones led Franklin-Monroe with 20 points, four more than two-time All-Ohioan Cross and seven more than Spitzer.

Spitzer, however, wrapped up the decision with two free throws. That gave the Jets a 57-53 lead with 41 seconds to play. Jim Rose, a 6-6 senior, hit 18 points and Mike Decker 14 for Riverdale.

Rangers, Flames Tie In NHL Clash

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports writer

The guy on the ice with the worst view of Pat Quinn's tying goal got the biggest kick from it.

He's Atlanta goalie Phil Myre and he's the same guy who had the best view of Rod Seiling's goal — after it got by him.

Seiling beat Myre on a slapshot from inside the blue line with 1:52 left in the game, but Myre had just 17 seconds to be upset. The action promptly shifted to the other end of the ice and Quinn scored with 1:35 remaining to give the Flames a 5-5 National Hockey League tie with the New York Rangers Thursday night.

"It was a good shot," said Myre speaking of Seiling's drive. "I thought it was wide, but it nicked the post and came in."

"You can bet I was the happiest person in the Ormni when Quinn tied it for us later."

Elsewhere in the NHL, the Boston Bruins blanked the St. Louis Blues 7-0; the Philadelphia Flyers trimmed the Vancouver Canucks 3-1, and the Los Angeles Kings downed the California Seals 6-3.

The tie moved the fourthplace Flames six points ahead of St. Louis in their battle for the fourth and final playoff spot in the NHL West and moved the Rangers to within two points of second-place Montreal in the NHL East.

Blue, A's Defeat Milwaukee, 7-4

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Vida Blue, an American League Cy Young Award winner who has been trying since 1971 to prove it wasn't a fluke, is picking up where he left off last year in search of his rookie form.

Blue went to the mound in the sixth inning and retired 12 straight batters to lead the world champion Oakland

A's to a 7-4 exhibition baseball victory over Milwaukee Thursday.

Blue, who had an off season in 1972 after a long hold out over his contract, fanned three batters in his last four innings on the hill. Tim Hosley and Bill North gave the A's the runs they needed with a two-run homer each.

In other exhibition games, Pittsburgh split its squad to take a 7-4 victory over the New York Yankees and drop a 10-9 decision to Kansas City, Houston edged Atlanta 6-5 in 12 innings, Boston got by Montreal 7-6 in 10 innings, St. Louis shutout Detroit 2-0, Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 5-3, Minnesota eked out a 7-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox, San Francisco blanked Cleveland 5-0, the Chicago Cubs beat San Diego 9-8, and Los Angeles defeated Baltimore 3-2.

Dave Parker, an outfielder who's playing first base for the injured Bob Robertson, hit two solo home runs and a triple to pace the Pirates by the Yankees. Ken Brett, who gave up one run in the second and three in the third, was credited with the victory for seven innings on the mound.

In the other half of the Pirate's twin bill, Kansas City's rookie outfielder, Al Cowens, singled in a run in the ninth inning to give the Royals a one-run victory.

Milt May singled with two outs to give Houston a 12-inning decision over

Atlanta in another cliff hanger.

Craig Caskey's wild pitch in the 10th inning allowed Dick McAuliffe to score from third, lifting the Red Sox over Montreal.

Mike Garman threw five innings, allowing only one hit, and three Cardinal pitchers combined to shut out Detroit on just four hits.

Mike Anderson accounted for three of Philadelphia's runs with a homer in the fourth inning.

Minnesota got a clutch homer from Tony Oliva in the seventh inning, breaking open a tie game, and then held on to beat the White Sox.

Tom Bradley and Jim Willoughby allowed seven hits between them for the shutout and Cleveland gave up the two winning runs — both unearned — in the second inning on an error by Dwain Anderson.

John Grubb and Willie McCovey both committed eighth-inning errors that led to four Chicago runs, and Jose Cardenal hit a three-run homer to give the Cubs their close decision.

Jerry Royster smacked a two-run double in the ninth inning that lifted the Dodgers from a 2-1 deficit for the victory.

Braves Top Warriors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Golden State Warriors have an excuse; they're tired.

"Everyone's tired when they're losing," Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay said with a marked lack of sympathy Thursday night after his Braves' 115-102 victory — which seriously damaged the Warriors' chances of reaching the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"The schedule has gotten to us. You could see that. They just 'outquicked' us," losing Coach Al Attles said after the only NBA game of the night.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky defeated Memphis 121-103 and San Antonio beat Virginia 95-81.

Attles' team, seemingly in command of the Pacific Division race four days ago, has dropped three straight decisions to fall 1½ games behind Los Angeles. The schedule has assigned the Warriors 14 games so far this month, including six in the last eight nights.

The Lakers can clinch the only open playoff berth by winning their last three games, starting with the one tonight against Chicago.

Garfield Heard made two free throws and a field goal in the final minutes, giving him 21 points for the game, after the Warriors had chopped the Buffalo lead from 23 points to six.

Warriors' Cazzie Russell and Butch Beard had 19 points each in the second half and shared game scoring honors with 27 apiece.

UCLA, N.C. State Clash In NCAA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — When UCLA, now two victories away from its eighth straight national basketball championship, takes the Greensboro Coliseum court Saturday afternoon against North Carolina State, the Bruins will find they are playing the entire Atlantic Coast Conference.

There's a fierce pride among ACC followers in the basketball achievements of its members.

When UCLA dropped two games in a weekend Oregon tour last month, N.C. State usurped the No. 1 national ranking the Bruins had regained in trimming Notre Dame.

State has held the No. 1 spot ever since and two other ACC teams remain in the top 10 nationally. Maryland, overtime loser to N.C. State in the ACC championship game at Greensboro two weeks ago, is No. 4 and North Carolina is No. 10.

This status symbol has caused ACC chests to swell in pride over what followers consider the toughest basketball conference in the land.

When UCLA and N.C. State meet at 3 p.m., EDT, two hours after Marquette and Kansas open Saturday's semifinals, ACC fans in the sellout crowd of 15,761 will forget their season-long differences and join in vocal support of Coach Norman Sloan's team against what they regard as the common enemy.

When N.C. State concluded its season with a 27-0 record last March, the Wolfpack was unable to compete for the NCAA crown due to a one-year probation for recruiting violations.

Again the 'Pack has stormed through to an unprecedented second straight unbeaten conference campaign. The national title is two victories away, but the immediate obstacle is UCLA, the only team to beat State in 56 games over two seasons. That was in December in St. Louis, when UCLA, trailing by one point at the half, buried the Wolfpack in the second half and won easily 84-66.

Three-time All-American Bill Walton, who sat out 21 minutes of that game because of foul trouble, came back with 10 minutes left to spark the Bruins to victory.

Since then the Wolfpack has won 26 in a row and is 28-1 over-all. UCLA, ranked No. 2, has won its last seven and is 25-3.

UCLA carries a string of 38 straight NCAA tournament victories into the game.

Marquette, ranked third, is 25-4, while sixth-ranked Kansas is 23-5.

Both games will be televised nationally by NBC, as will Monday night's championship game at 9 p.m.

Farmers And Sportsmen Hold .22 Caliber Match

The Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Assn. held an NRA .22 caliber match at the indoor range on the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Thursday preceding the regular meeting.

Larry Smith fired the high score. During the regular meeting, Dave Massie, Archery division chairman, informed members the new archery course would be completed for the first match in April. A new shoulder patch for the Archery Division was approved. The patch, shaped like Pickaway County with a running buck deer on it will identify the club archers.

Dick Neblette high powered rifle chairman, announced three .30 caliber matches will be held at Camp Sherman

Range, Chillicothe. The dates are April 20-21; July 20-21; Aug. 17-18. The matches sponsored by the club will draw shooters from a four state area.

The fish and game contest trophies for 1973 were presented by club president William Clark.

Bill Shaffer received the first place trophy for whitetail deer taken with gun, the biggest woodchuck with gun, the best fox with gun and the biggest large mouth bass. Dick Redman received first place trophies for woodchuck with bow and arrow and grouse with gun. Don Mallow received first place trophies for whitetail deer with bow and arrow and Jack Willis received the first place trophy for the best ringneck pheasant specimen.

The 1974 fish and game contests began March 1 for active club members. The next work session at the club's recreation area will be 1 p.m. April 6.

Plans for having the club's archery booth and goldfish booth at the fair in July were announced.

Chisox Ponder Pitching Problems

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — If the pitching comes even close to the power, the Chicago White Sox may make a run — all the way — at the world champion Oakland A's this season.

But with spring training on the wane, Manager Chuck Tanner's mound staff is not exactly knocking anybody dead and the club reportedly was eyeing Sparky Lyle, discontented New York Yankee relief ace.

Beyond starters Wilbur Wood, Stan Bahnsen and Jim Kaat and the good bullpen duo of Terry Forster and Cy Acosta, Tanner is scratching to round out his planned nine-man pitching staff.

The regular White Sox line-up should be as formidable as Tanner enthusiastically claims with ex-Chicago Cub star Ron Santo joining such power men as Dick Allen, Bill Melton, Carlos May and Ken Henderson.

The Sox led the American League's West Division last season for 51 straight days until calamity struck in June with Allen suffering a leg fracture and Henderson a wrenched knee requiring surgery.

About the same time, Wood nose-dived after a 13-3 start to finish 24-20 and the Sox finally wobbled home fifth, 17 games behind the West champion A's.

Santo, tabbed primarily as a designated hitter, has worked out at first base as well as third base and obviously will be a high-priced backup man at both positions.

Tanner announced his starting line-up in January and there has been no change — yet.

It includes: Pat Kelly rf; Henderson cf; Allen 1b; Melton 3b; Santo dh; May rf; Jorge Orta 2b; Ed Herrmann c, and Bucky Dent ss.

However, the extremely promising Dent, 22, this week was mentioned as trade bait for the Yankees' Lyle.

Dent got in 40 games last season as Tanner experimented with youth late in the campaign and was impressive as he batted .248 and in one stretch, handled 101 consecutive chances at short without an error.

This spring, he got the call ahead of veteran Eddie Leon but Tanner conceded the Sox still would have a pennant chance with Leon or Luis Alvarado handling short.

The big man in the Sox line-up, obviously, is Allen, who has been setting his own spring pace with Tanner's blessing. Allen, the AL's Most Valuable Player in 1972, was batting .310 with 16 home runs and 41 runs batted in when he was hurt last June 29 in a first-base collision.

Tanner's No. 2 starter, Bahnsen, finished 18-21 last season. Kaat, the winningest active, left-handed AL pitcher, was purchased from the Minnesota Twins last August and wound up with a composite 15-13 mark.

Battling for the remaining four pitching berths, beyond Forster and Acosta, are Bill Morano draftee from the Red Sox organization; Jim Geddes, Rich Gossage, Bart Johnson and Bill McGlothlin.

A relief pitcher of Lyle's caliber, however, would enable Tanner to tab Forster his No. 4 starter, a spot of growing Sox concern. Lyle, who won five games and saved 27 for the Yankees last season, has reported to the New York camp without a contract.

George Foster Wins Place In Cincinnati Reds Lineup

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Outfielder George Foster has apparently won at least a platooning position with the Cincinnati Reds despite the current four-game exhibition losing streak.

Foster has so impressed Manager George "Sparky" Anderson that Anderson said Foster will probably start against lefthand pitchers.

Anderson said he'll probably assign Foster to center field, with Merv Rettenmund shifting to right.

Rettenmund will be in center against righthanders and Ken Griffey will be in right he said. Anderson had planned on using Rettenmund in center against all comers.

But, said Anderson, Foster is "busting his tail."

The Reds host the Montreal Expos today after dropping Thursday's exhibition game 5-3 to Philadelphia at Clearwater.

Anderson praised Foster for scoring from second base in the third inning with two out as Dan Driessen beat out a slow hopper to first base.

Mike Anderson of the Phils slammed a three-run homer in the fourth inning to ice the game, sending rookie southpaw Pat Osborn to the showers and possibly back to Indianapolis.

The Murray, Ky., native gave up five runs on seven hits. He had been a contender for a starting pitching job with the Reds this year.

"He didn't help himself today," said Anderson Thursday.

Tony Perez slammed a two-run homer off Steve Carlton in the third, ending the Cincinnati scoring.

Buddy Bell Faces Knee Examination

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Cleveland Indians third baseman Buddy Bell has been ordered to rest and will get another examination of his injured knee Monday.

Tribe brass were obviously concerned when the knee collapsed under Bell during a Cactus League game Thursday with the San Francisco Giants. However, Bell said after being examined by an orthopedic specialist that there was no more pain.

Darrell Knowles worked all seven games as a relief pitcher for Oakland in the 1973 World Series. He pitched less than seven innings.

Boston College Edges Connecticut

NEW YORK (AP) — Freshman Paul Berwanger was the last person that Boston College's Jere Nolan wanted to pass to with the final seconds ticking off on the Madison Square Garden clock and the Eagles one point behind.

But there was no time to be choosy and Berwanger came through, scoring with two seconds remaining to give Boston College a 76-75 victory over Connecticut Thursday night and a semifinal berth in the National Invitation Tournament.

Boston College will play Utah, which downed Memphis State 92-78.

"I have nothing against Paul," said Nolan after the game, "but he's just not the guy you want to take a shot like that. Even in practice, I don't pass to him unless he's right under the basket. "But I saw that he had a small guy guarding him and I knew he'd be able to get off the shot."

The Eagles had to come back from a 17-point deficit, the result of a 25 per cent shooting performance from the field in the first half.

The Boston College offense in the first half was mostly at the free throw line. Only Bob Carrington, who scored four of the Eagles eight field goals, provided much offensive punch.

But in the second half, Carrington was joined by Mark Raterink and the Eagles, helped by Connecticut's sudden chill at the foul line, came roaring back to tie the game with three minutes remaining on a basket by Will Morrison.

A basket by Jim Foster with 12 seconds remaining put Connecticut ahead 75-74 and set the stage for the game-winner by Berwanger, a nephew of the first winner of the Heisman College Football Trophy, Jay Berwanger.

Utah Coach Bill Foster almost ran into the same problem against Memphis State. Up 17 points in the first half and 10 at halftime, the Utes saw their lead dwindle and then disappear when they ran up against a zone defense which shut off Mike Sojourner, who had scored 16 points in the and grabbed 10 rebounds in the first half.

"The zone slowed us down," said Utah Coach Bill Foster. "We're a club that likes to run the whole game."

"Actually we didn't see that much of the zone this season."

Utah star Ticky Burden finished with 29 points while Tyrone Medley

had 26 and Sojourner finished with 19.

Memphis State, which caught the Utes at 65-65 before falling back, was led by Bill Cook who finished with 23 points and Dexter Reed who had 22.

Purdue and Jacksonville will face each other in the other end of the Saturday afternoon semifinals. Purdue ousted Hawaii 85-72 while Jacksonville slid by Maryland-Eastern Shore 85-83 Tuesday night.

Eight Girls Chosen Track Statisticians

By SHERI SMITH

Statistics are a very important part of the track team. Each year girls are chosen as track statisticians to record the times and distances of the cindermen.

This year the statistics are recorded by Kim Allison, Susan Estes, Connie Forrest, Suzy Kaylor, Becky Moorehead, Cathy Nelson, Chris Nelson, Cindy Sims, and Kym Timberlake.

Kim Allison, junior, is in charge of the high jump. She records the height of each contestant's jumps. This is Kim's second year as a stat, and she says "I enjoy it because I like meeting new people, and this is a good way to follow the track team."

"I like the opportunity it offers to meet new people," said Susan Estes, senior. This is Susan's third year as a track stat, and she is in charge of the finish line.

Senior Connie Forrest is one of the announcers. She announces the location and time of each event. Connie says, "I like being a track stat, because I get to see Wade run."

Suzie Kaylor, a senior has also been a track stat for three years. Suzy says, "Being a track stat is a good way to feel you're helping the team, plus the fact that it's a blast!" Suzy is in charge of running events.

Junior Becky Moorehead is in charge of the broad jump. She records the distance of each jump. This is Becky's second year as a stat, and her comment was, "I enjoy being a stat because it helps me learn more about track events, and it's a lot of fun."

Cathy Nelson, senior, in charge of running events, says that being a track stat is interesting as well as a good opportunity to go to all the meets. She has been a stat for three years.

Chris Nelson is the score keeper. She is a senior and has also been a stat for three years. Chris says, "Besides meeting new people, I enjoy being a stat because I get to see the team win, especially when winning means beating all of our rivals."

Cindy Sims is in charge of shot put and discus. Cindy, a senior, has been a stat for three years and she says that being a stat is "a lot of fun and I get to meet a lot of different people."

Senior Kym Timberlake is in charge of the finish line. "Being a stat provides a good opportunity to help support the Tiger team," commented Kym.

Guided Learning Program Planned For CHS Students

Students, are you interested in getting out of school, helping your community, and learning at the same time? Well, get into the new "other guided learning experiences" at CHS.

The Circleville Board of Education passed a new program for all students in the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades at their February meeting. It is called "other guided learning experiences."

The idea was in planning during the early part of the school year. Superintendent Fritz Jacobs met with a representative of the state department of education to review the program. According to Mr. Jacobs, the idea came about after a change in the state law which had required a student to be in school six hours per day. The board applied the conditions to the new program.

The program is set up so that a student who is in school for four classes plus physical education can include outside educational experiences during a portion of the official school day. This experience can be either volunteer work, employment, or independent studies. The other guided learning experiences must be related to the student's studies in school.

A few of these jobs include: hospital work, YMCA, Red Cross, Senior Center, child clinics, or any other type of community service. This program does not provide a credit toward the 17 credits required to graduate.

Mr. Jacobs explained that the reason the board approved this program is because they felt that students could utilize their time out of school as well as serve the needs of the students and the need of the community.

To be eligible for this program the student must fill out an application through the guidance office. The application must also be filled out by his parents and employer or advisor. It is then taken to the guidance office, and they, with the help of the principal, approve or disapprove it. The student must return to school if the employer or supervisor is displeased. An evaluation sheet is filled out each month by the counselors and the employer or supervisor. This sheet becomes part of the student's permanent record. The student must keep up his academic grade average as well.

Mr. Jacobs said he is not familiar with any other schools in this area that have this type of program.

"I'm highly in favor of it. I hope it proves to be beneficial to the community and to the student," stated Mr. Jacobs, superintendent of Circleville City Schools.

If there are other questions about "other guided learning experiences," please contact the Circleville High School guidance office.

Baseball Season Set

By CINDY SIMS

Spring is almost here and of course, baseball season is also. The 1974 Circleville High School varsity baseball season begins Wednesday when the Tigers will travel to Washington Court House. The reserve team will go into action on April 3 at Washington C. H.

The basemen will be coached this year, under new leadership, by John Lawhorn. Assistant coach in charge of the reserve squad will be Thomas Cole.

There will be six returning lettermen from last year's team. They consist of senior, third baseman, Rock Davis; senior, center fieldman, Mike Speakman; junior, pitcher, Perry Hoskins; junior, pitcher, Randy Thomas; junior, pitcher, Phil Roll; and junior, catcher, Mark Mace.

Coach Lawhorn said he is well pleased with the interest shown so far in practice. He said a total of 30 boys have been working out after school in practice to improve their abilities in baseball.

"Starting positions for the varsity line-up are still undecided. Everyone is working his hardest. We need some good weather to get outside and have good practices," Coach Lawhorn said.

"Miami Trace, Hillsboro and Unioto are supposedly the toughest teams in the SCOL, however, we would like to think that we have a good chance in league play," he commented.

Managers for this year's team are senior Joe Burgess and senior Joe Koch.

All varsity games begin at 4:30 p.m. except for the doubleheader with Teays Valley on April 6. Reserve

Senior Suzanne Schlegler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Schlegler, was chosen by the club to reign as first attendant. She resides at 391 Kingston Pike.

This year Suzanne is vice-president of the club. She has been a member of SOS for five years. She is also a member of the Latin Club and Future Secretaries of America. In her spare time, Suzanne likes to listen to the radio, hike and sew.

"I was very happy the club chose me as an attendant," Suzanne remarked.

Junior Mary Horst was selected as second attendant. This is the first year the club has chosen attendants from the entire club.

Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Horst, Route 2. Besides being a first-year member of SOS, Mary is also active in GAA, EMS and NHS. In her spare time she enjoys sewing.

Mary's first reaction to being chosen as second attendant was one of surprise. She stated, "I want to thank all the girls in SOS for everything."

Botanists concerned that air pollution makes leaves fall far too early and may threaten trees with stunted growth, are trying to develop a tree that thrives in dirty city air, according to the National Geographic Society.

Ohioans cannot expect much change in weather conditions for the next few days with cold temperatures and probability of some light snow in the picture.

High pressure held over the state during the night with associated clear skies and cold temperatures. A weak cold front moving rapidly eastward across the lower Great Lakes region will fringe southward into the northern portion of Ohio during the morning accompanied by some cloudiness and snow flurries. In southern Ohio south of the front skies will continue clear.

A developing low pressure system now in the northern plains states is forecasted to race rapidly eastward and bring an increase in cloudiness to the entire state tonight and tomorrow along with some light snow or snow flurries. Temperatures will continue on the cold side.

A brief moderating will occur in temperatures today especially in the southern sections, but colder air will move back into the area tomorrow.

Kidnapers Still Silent In California

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — It has been 12 days since the last communication from the terrorist kidnapers of Patricia Hearst, but the FBI says it is not alarmed.

Charles Bates, agent in charge of the case, said Thursday he was not particularly concerned about the silence, the second longest since Miss Hearst was abducted from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

In its last communique March 10, the Symbionese Liberation Army, which says it is holding the 20-year-old coed, said it would suspend communications unless two purported SLA members were allowed to make a statement on nationwide television.

The two, Joseph Remiro, 27, and Russell Little, 24, are being held on charges of slaying Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster last November.

When questioned about the latest silence, Bates said, "... The SLA's last demand was that Remiro and Little be given a television interview, and Mr. Hearst has been working on that."

Miss Hearst's father, Randolph A. Hearst, has vowed to try and persuade the courts to grant the appearance, but one judge already has refused. Hearst is editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp.

The longest silence from the kidnapers was 17 days.

The FBI has described the SLA as a terrorist organization with some 25 members.

Woman With Jaws Wired Shut Loses Both Weight, Privacy

GIBRALTAR, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Debi Horn, the 229-pound woman who had her mouth wired shut to lose weight three months ago, says she also has lost some privacy and the right to visit her mother-in-law.

A case of jangled nerves from a constantly ringing telephone even put her in the hospital for a few days last week.

But Mrs. Horn, who is down to a slim 184 pounds, vows she will wear the wires for another two months to reach 140.

"My mother-in-law said she thought this was stupid," Mrs. Horn said. "She didn't want me to ever come over to her house with my braces on."

But that isn't the worst part.

"Women were calling me all the time," she said. "I had to take the telephone off the hook to go to sleep. There were calls up to one o'clock in the morning."

"I was real upset by last Friday, so my doctor put me right in the hospital and wouldn't let me have any calls or visitors."

$871 Per Pupil Spent In State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School systems in Ohio spent an average of $871 per pupil in the 1972-73 fiscal year, the state Public Expenditure Council reported Thursday.

The council said the state spent $2.1 billion on schools and school functions in the period, an increase of 10.3 per cent from the previous year.

Claim Gilligan Packing Payroll

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Democratic gubernatorial hopeful James Nolan accused Gov. John J. Gilligan Thursday night of packing the payroll.

Nolan said in campaign appearances in the Cleveland area that the state payroll has increased by 6,184 persons since Gilligan took office in 1971.

He said there were 42,017 employees on the state rolls in 1971 and that the number has increased to 48,201 at a cost of nearly $100 million.

Skyjack Attempt Ends In Shooting

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Bertha Horton, whose son allegedly attempted a $1 million airplane hijacking, says she could "never tell what he was going to do."

The Toledo woman said she gave her son bus fare to Detroit two weeks ago when he planned to move his things here and heard no more until Wednesday's aborted hijacking attempt.

Dennis Tillman, 26, of Detroit, was accused of holding a young woman hostage at knife-point Wednesday in Weir Cook Municipal Airport at Indianapolis, demanding ransom and an airplane.

Metzenbaum Still Studies Oil Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said Thursday he still was studying statements sent to him by Standard Oil of Ohio in his investigation of the company's accounting practices.

He said he would make an announcement after he has completed analysis of the statements, since "I don't want to shoot from the hip until I have all the information on hand."

On campaign contributions, Metzenbaum told newsmen one reason Ohio Republicans had raised more money than state Democrats to date is that "the fat cats are mainly in the Republican Party."

He said he had a special problem in raising funds for his campaign since his image is that of a wealthy man. He added that he favored public financing of campaigns, saying he found it "just a wee bit degrading to ask for money."

Metzenbaum scoffed at a private poll reportedly showing his Ohio Democratic primary rival, John Glenn, leading him by 11 per cent.

The senator said the ex-astronaut had not indicated whether the statewide poll, conducted for him by pollster Peter Hart, was of Democrats, independents or what.

Glenn said this week the poll, based on telephone interviews of 500 to 800 persons, showed him leading Metzenbaum 47.5 per cent to 36.5 per cent, with 18 per cent undecided.

Metzenbaum said he learned long ago not to place too much reliance on polls. "If I had concerned myself about the polls in 1970 I would not have been a candidate for the Senate," he said.

Metzenbaum defeated Glenn in the 1970 Democratic primary after the polls showed him trailing, but lost to Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr. in the general election.

Family Dog Saves Life Of Little Boy

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Toodles came home to a hero's welcome Thursday after doctors credited the dog with saving his young master's life when the two spent a cold and rainy night in the woods.

Searchers found little Solomon Brewer Jr., 4, and Toodles walking through a field Thursday morning about three miles from their farm home at Stalkdale.

The boy's mother, Margaret Brewer, said doctors at Scioto Memorial Hospital, where the youngster was examined and found to be unharmed, reported "the warmth of the dog saved Junior's life."

"He told me Toodles had dug him a hole in the ground and he had slept next to him," Mrs. Brewer said.

Mrs. Brewer said the boy and his dog wandered away from home Wednesday about 6 p.m. "I looked for Junior for about an hour and when I couldn't find him, I went for help," she recalled.

A search party of deputy sheriffs, firemen, neighbors and school boys from area communities hunted throughout the night with no success.

"I was frantic. I just knew Junior was going to get wet and freeze to death," his mother said.

"We were afraid he may have fallen into the Little Scioto River."

Pickaway County Red Cross is at present cooperating with other agencies in the SSI alert, an effort to assist the aged, blind and disabled in seeking their entitled incomes.

Glenn Backs Strict Reclamation Plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A candidate for the U.S. Senate from Ohio said Thursday strip miners in the state will be at a competitive disadvantage unless Congress resists pressure to weaken a federal coal mining control bill.

John Glenn, campaigning for the Democratic nomination, said in a statement "strict land reclamation requirements have worked in Ohio."

Any federal reclamation law, he said, should be "at least as strict as Ohio's."

Veto Proof Congress Seen By Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats heard predictions they will win a veto-proof congressional majority this November and laughed at anti-Nixon wisecracks at their annual $500-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

The financial take, probably between $600,000 and $700,000 fell short of a year ago, when the dinner raised a Democratic record of $960,000. About 2,000 attended this year's dinner.

The Republicans hold their fundraiser next Wednesday with President Nixon as the chief speaker. Tickets are $1,000 each and their sales also are down from 1973, when they raised their smallest total in years, about $900,000.

The predictions of November victory came from House Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio, chairman of the House Democratic Campaign Committee.

"The way things are going now we're going to have a veto-proof Congress next year," Hays said.

Although the Democrats hold majorities of 246 to 187 in the House and 58 to 42 in the Senate they have been able only once in ten tries to muster the two-thirds vote needed to override vetoes by President Nixon.

In an apparent reference to the possibility the House may impeach Nixon, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted "the months ahead will be difficult, more difficult than those we have just gone through" as the courts and Congress deal with the impact of Watergate.

Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas, chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, offered a toast to the White House, saying "in these days of blatant nudity, it is reassuring to hear there are some people who still believe in covering up."

Comedian Mort Sahl delivered most of the attempts at anti-Nixon humor, including a crack that the President will resign "and become a tax consultant," a reference to his much-publicized tax troubles.

Royal Family Shuns 'Bullet-Proof Cages'

LONDON (AP) — The royal family has "no intention of living in bullet-proof cages" despite the attempt to kidnap Princess Anne, Buckingham Palace says.

"Princess Anne has always liked meeting people and enjoying her own private life. I don't think this will change," a palace spokesman said Thursday.

But Scotland Yard said all members of the royal family will receive extra protection for the next few months. Two motorcycle policemen and an unmarked police radio car escorted the Duchess of Gloucester, the queen's aunt, to a banquet in London Thursday.

Anne and her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips, escaped injury Wednesday night when a gunman forced their limousine to a halt 150 yards from the palace and pumped bullets into it. The couple's bodyguard and three other persons were wounded.

The assailant, apparently bent on kidnapping the princess, couldn't open the locked car doors, and a policeman's tackle brought him down. Three pairs of handcuffs and a rambling letter demanding ransom of 2 million pounds — $4.6 million — for the princess were found in his hired car.

New Parks Commissioner Stays Up Past Her Bedtime

SAN ANSELMO, Calif. (AP) — In her first meeting as a parks and recreation commissioner, Atha Mathieu voted against poison oak removal, won a fight for a bigger community building and didn't get a bit bored.

The last item wouldn't be news, except that opponents of her appointment had predicted Miss Mathieu would lose interest, become distracted and fidget during the commission's lengthy budget sessions.

Atha is 12. "I'm not bored," she declared Wednesday night during a recess in the meeting. Under review was a proposed $252,688 budget for the coming fiscal year.

And she managed to stay wide awake until the meeting adjourned at 11:15 p.m., well after her normal 8:30 p.m. bedtime.

Atha, a seventh grader, was appointed to the unpaid seat by the city council on a 3-2 vote March 12. She had written the council saying that "parks are for children and we need representation."

A middle-aged housewife with four children and two grandchildren was her only rival for the seat. It became vacant when one of the seven commissioners resigned.

The commission is an advisory body to the council in this moderate-income city of 12,000 persons about 20 miles

A 26-year-old unemployed laborer, Ian Ball, appeared in court Thursday on a charge of attempting to murder the royal bodyguard. He was ordered held in jail for a week while Scotland Yard continued its investigation of the first attack on a member of the royal family since 1939.

Police would give no information about Ball, but informed sources said they were trying to discover how he got nearly $700 worth of 10-pound notes that were found on him. They said the car had been rented in the name of John Williams, a named used by Ball in correspondence he received at a mail-reception agency in London.

Police said the motive for the attack was not political, and Home Secretary Roy Jenkins told the House of Commons "there is no present indication that this was other than an isolated act by an individual."

Anne and her husband traveled back to Sandhurst Military Academy, where he is stationed, by separate cars late Wednesday, and the army put a massive guard on their house there. But both resumed normal life Thursday, with Anne exercising her horses and her husband instructing cadets on the rifle range.

north of San Francisco. Atha lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mathieu, and her brother David, 10.

In her letter, Atha said she opposed women's lib "because they put up such a fuss" but said she supported "children's liberation." She proposed putting suggestion boxes in all schools to solicit ideas about parks and recreation from her peers.

At Wednesday's meeting, Atha wound up on the losing side of a 5 to 2 vote in favor of spending $380 to hire a man to tear poison oak out of a picnic area.

"We should just put signs on it so people will know," she argued.

But she had more success in convincing fellow commissioners to urge the enlarging of a planned community building from 2,000 to 2,500 square feet. After extensive debate, the final vote was 7 to 0 in favor of expansion.

Daydreams OK, Claims Psychologist

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Daydreaming Americans who think they are wasting their time should dream on for pleasure and mental health, according to a Yale University psychologist.

"I think that we can learn to use our daydreams much more than we do," Prof. Jerome L. Singer said Thursday. Singer said that daydreams determine a person's moods and relationships with others. Often, he said, people do not know it.

"We can become more aware of some of the more interesting aspects of our personalities. We can play with our fantasies and help the time pass in relatively boring situations. We can develop a certain increase in aesthetic sensitivity," he said in an interview Thursday night.

Daydreams also can be used to make plans and work out problems, he added.

"In psychotherapy there's an increasing movement to use the daydream and the capacity to daydream as a very central part of the treatment process and to help people overcome their fears through systematic kinds of daydream trips," Singer added.

Singer said research has shown an upsurge in awareness of daydreams when people are preparing for bed because they have fewer distractions at that time.

Sewer Ban Proposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency has filed new regulations for sewer connection bans which the agency director says will be fairer than the old rules.

The bans prohibit extension of or connections to existing sewer facilities. Ohio EPA director Ira L. Whitman said the bans are needed when additional connections would increase water pollution.

"Many areas of the state have experienced rapid population growth and sudden development without increasing their capacity to treat the accompanying waste," Whitman said.

He said past bans were applied haphazardly. Under the new regulations, he said, bans would be implemented more fairly.

The new regulations also require the EPA to specify when and how the ban can be lifted, Whitman said, and how a new facility could be exempted from the ban.

Social Security Offers Plan For Self-Employed Persons

People with low net earnings from non-farm self-employment may get social security credit if they report their earnings by an optional method similar to one available to farmers.

The option is available for the first time to people reporting non-farm self-employment earnings for 1973, according to Harry B. Bieber, social security district manager in Chillicothe. "Instead of reporting their net earnings for the year," he said, "people can report up to two-thirds of their gross earnings from self-employment for social security credit — if two-thirds is $400 or more, but less than $1,600."

Previously, people who worked in non-farm self-employment got no social security credit if their net earnings for a year were under $400. Now they can get credit if their net is under $400 but their gross is from $600 to $2,400 and they report their earnings by the optional method.

Earnings reports and social security tax should be sent with income tax returns to the internal Revenue Service by April 15.

Eligibility for social security benefits depends on credits earned by people who work in jobs covered by social security. The amount of their monthly social security benefits is based on the worker's average earnings over a period of years. "The new non-farm option may be used only by people who had net self-employment earnings of $400 or more for at least 2 out of the 3 previous years," Mr. Bieber said. Under the law, the option may be used only five times.

I put a dollar into my savings account - the bank loans it for home improvements - the workman who gets it in pay, spends it with the grocer, who in turn banks it. The bank again passes the dollar on in an auto loan. The auto dealer spends it for shoes. If we keep our dollars circulating in our community, they benefit us all.
